NO SERIOUS INJURY!! — Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise inspects the auto driven by David W. Knapke, 40, Dayton, following a head-on collision on U.S. 35 near Interstate 71. The car below was driven by Thomas E. Funk Jr., 30, of Parrott Station Rd., Mary P. Creed, 36, of 418 S. Fayette St., was a passenger with Funk. All three were treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred at approximately 11 p.m. Thursday when Knapke attempted to pass another vehicle on a curve. It was raining at the time. (Story on Page 2).

Bank lending charges near new record

10 pct. prime rate seen

NEW YORK (AP) — A move toward a historic high of 10 per cent in the prime lending rate gathered momentum today as the nation's second largest bank threw its weight behind the increase.

New York's First National City Bank announced the ¼ point hike this morning, following a similar step late Thursday by the Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco. Wells Fargo's increase is effective today, Citibank's next Monday.

It was the first move toward the 10 per cent level in the lending rate for large corporate borrowers since the rapid series of increases that carried it to 9¾ per cent by late last month.

Since then, although banks have been contending that money market conditions called for further increases, they had shied away from taking the first step to 10 per cent.

Credit experts generally expected the new level to spread throughout the banking industry, but they were uncertain how rapidly it would occur.

One potential deterrent, they noted, was the present hearings at the House Banking Committee focusing on the recent surge of interest rates.

In addition, the Nixon administration's Committee on Interest and Dividends, which oversees interest rates in the government's economic controls program, reacted quickly to Wells Fargo's move with a demand that the bank advise the committee promptly on its compliance with profit and interest rate guidelines.

Some other banks indicated they would watch and wait.

The prime rate has no direct connection with rates on loans to small businesses and consumers.

Chest drive opens Monday

The 1974 Community Chest drive will open Monday.

In making the announcement, President Lee Lynch said the time is actually earlier than in past years, but the Community Chest board of directors feels that an earlier drive will be an inducement to all involved to complete the appeal at a relatively early date.

Monday's opening will be centered primarily around industries, business and employe payroll deduction groups, Lynch said. O.E. Price and Lee Kraus will head the city business collection and Otis Hess and Jack Brennan the industrial groups.

The rural campaign and city residential solicitations will follow in early October. Larry Milstead heads the rural drive and Miss Mary Frances Snider and Mrs. Carmen Johnson will be heading the city campaign.

Lynch said that the Community Chest board is very optimistic about reaching the goal of $27,000.

Ten Fayette County organizations will be the benefactors of this year's drive. They are the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the Community Activity Fund, Girl Scouts, the Mental Health Association, Eyman Park, Red Cross, the USO, Salvation Army and the Senior Citizens Center.

Report dangerous chemicals afloat in Southern Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard warned the entire United States Gulf Coast today of potentially deadly barrels of sodium and potassium cyanide floating in the Gulf of Mexico.

The barrels were dumped into the water after a ship collision Aug. 5 about 480 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

However, a chemical expert said the two chemicals would have to be eaten to be fatal unless they released cyanide in a gaseous state. And he said this would not occur unless the chemicals encountered an acid condition in the water.

The Coast Guard said it received word of the threat today and did not know why Mexican authorities failed to notify them earlier.

A spokesman emphasized that one or more of the barrels could be anywhere in the Gulf of Mexico. He noted that the passage of Tropical Storm Delia through the Gulf 10 days after the collision enhanced the possibility that the barrels could be widely scattered.

"It's hard to tell what effect the hurricane and current would have," said the spokesman. "They could be anywhere."

Coast Guard units along the entire 1,600-mile coast of the Gulf of Mexico from Brownsville, Tex., to Key West, Fla., were alerted to the danger.

The barrels, some containing 100 pounds of sodium cyanide and others 100 pounds of potassium cyanide, are blue with white lettering on them warning: "Dangerous Class 6 Material."

The Class 6 designation is for "highly toxic" material, the Coast Guard said.

All persons along coastal areas were warned against trying to touch or recover one of the barrels if found.

Coast Guard units were advised of certain procedures to be used in attempting to recover the barrels.

The Aug. 5 collision between the Perseus and the Peubla occurred in international waters. The Mexican navy got first word of the incident and notified coastal interests along the southern sector of the Gulf coast.

The Coast Guard said its first word of the danger came from the U.S. Defense Attache Office in Mexico City.

It was not known which of the two ships carried the potentially deadly chemicals.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a chemical antidote was being flown from England to Mexico and the United States and military chemical disposal teams were placed on alert.

The News In Brief

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The military chieftains who overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende gained a strong but temporary political base Thursday night.

The moderate Christian Democratic party and the right-wing National party, which together won nearly 64 per cent of the votes when Allende was elected in 1970, expressed approval of the Tuesday coup.

Mitchell asks for all tapes in Vesco case

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for John N. Mitchell have issued a subpoena for any White House tapes or written records that might pertain to the former attorney general's pending trial on charges of obstruction of justice, conspiracy and perjury.

A government affidavit backing a motion to quash the subpoena, however, described the defense move as "a broadranging blunderbuss fishing expedition."

The subpoena, disclosed Thursday in a federal court transcript, seeks material relating to a secret $200,000 cash contribution that fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco made to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans are accused of interfering with a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco after receipt of the Vesco donation.

The defense subpoena, according to the court transcript, calls for "all books, records, telephone toll records, tape recordings, notes and memoranda relating in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, to the following: meetings or conversations between any member of the White House staff, employes or President Nixon concerning Harry Sears etc."

Harry L. Sears, former leader of the New Jersey Senate, is a defendant in the case along with Vesco.

Ruckelshaus wins Senate confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP)—William D. Ruckelshaus has been confirmed by the Senate as deputy attorney general.

A voice vote Thursday affirmed the unanimous approval by the Senate Judiciary Committee of Ruckelshaus' nomination to the No. 2 post in the Justice Department.

Court urges tapes compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyers are weighing a federal appeals court's proposal for a face-saving settlement of the Watergate tapes dispute.

The procedure suggested Thursday would allow the court to avoid a clear-cut ruling on the constitutional issues raised by Nixon and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

In an unusual move, the U.S. Circuit Court issued an unsigned memorandum asking Nixon, Cox and the President's lawyer, Charles Alan Wright, to listen to the tapes and decide among themselves which portions should be submitted to the grand jury.

The court said the memo was not intended as a clue to its leaning on the constitutional questions.

The White House had no comment on the proposal. Nixon has refused to allow anyone other than some present and former aides to hear the tapes.

Cox said he would be "more than glad to meet with the President or his delegate or any of his attorneys in a sincere effort to pursue the Court of Appeals' suggestion to a mutually satisfactory conclusion."

The case reached the appellate court after U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon to turn over nine tapes to him for a private inspection to determine which, if any, parts should be delivered to the grand jury.

Cox subpoenaed the tapes of Nixon's conversations with former White House aides implicated in the scandal. The prosecutor claims that not even the President can resist a court order to provide information vital for a criminal investigation.

Nixon claims that the constitutional separation of powers guarantees that a court cannot compel a president to produce confidential information against his will. He also asserts that the tradition of executive privilege shields the confidentiality of a president's communications with his aides.

In a four-page memorandum, the appeals court said:

"If the President and the special prosecutor agree as to the material needed for the grand jury's functioning, the national interest will be served. At the same time, neither the President nor the special prosecutor would in any way have surrendered or subverted the principles for which they have contended."

Noting that both Cox and Wright are executive branch officials chosen directly or indirectly by the President, the appeals court said its suggestion would sidestep Nixon's objection to judicial inspection of the tapes.

Surcharge plan ripped by solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hail of Congressional opposition has greeted a suggestion that President Nixon may try to fight inflation by increasing income taxes temporarily and returning the extra funds to taxpayers later.

The purpose of the tax increase would be to take money out of the economy, to help slow the current economic boom.

If the report given newsmen Thursday by Presidential Counselor Melvin R. Laird was intended as a trial balloon — as some congressmen suggested — it may well have been punctured.

Laird, Nixon's principal domestic aide, emphasized there had been no decision to send Congress the plan, which he attributed to Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns.

Listing it as one of a number of ideas under consideration, Laird said the proposal was to impose a surcharge, probably of 10 per cent, so that a person who normally paid $1,000 in taxes would pay $1,100 instead. The extra $100 would be refunded in two to five years, after inflation abated.

"This is not the same as a tax increase," Laird argued, holding the plan would not violate Nixon's pledge against increasing taxes.

But most representatives and senators who commented didn't see it that way.

"It looks like a trial balloon they are already backing away from," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Throughout last year's campaign, Nixon promised spending control policies that would avoid the need to raise taxes. He said, for example, in an Oct. 7, 1972, radio speech, "America needs not a tax increase, but tax relief."

In his message to Congress last Monday, Nixon said, "This administration continues its strong opposition to a tax increase."

Ullman said of the proposal "I couldn't support it. I favor a loophole-closing tax bill that would raise revenue."

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli of Pennsylvania, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, said his first impression was "not very favorable."

The recuperating chairman of the committee, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said from his Little Rock hospital bed that the plan certainly would look like a tax increase to a worker who saw more funds withheld from his pay check.

Skylab crew given 'go' to Sept. 25

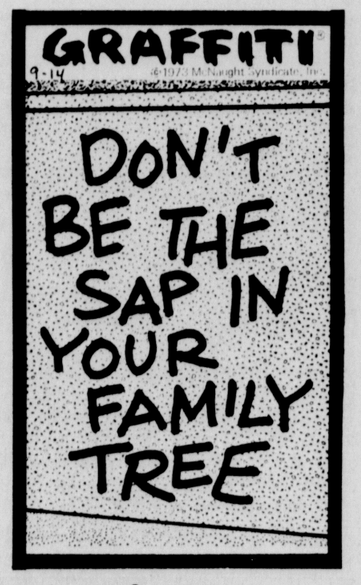

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space agency doctors say the Skylab 2 astronauts are in as good shape after 49 days in space as the Skylab 1 crew was after 28 days.

And on Thursday, space agency officials gave Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott the go-ahead to complete their 59-day mission with a Pacific Ocean splashdown Sept. 25. The spacemen finish their seventh week in space early Saturday.

Dr. Royce Hawkins, a space physician, said medical tests conducted aboard the orbiting space station indicate the astronauts "are still running slightly increased heart rates" but showed "no clinical abnormalities."

He said the astronauts have experienced a slight decline in the heart's ability to move blood through the lower body but the deconditioning is not serious. Hawkins said the three astronauts still can operate a bicycle exerciser at the high rates they established in mission tests before their mission and said exercise seems to be the main reason for the continued vigor of the spacemen.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma have followed an exercise program much more strenuous than the one used by the Skylab 1 astronauts.

Agnew successor faces arraignment

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Dale Anderson, the man who succeeded Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as chief executive of Baltimore County, pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court today to charges of conspiracy, extortion and bribery.

Anderson, one of Maryland's most powerful Democrats, was released on his own recognizance by Judge Joseph Young on the condition that he not leave the continental United States.

Tentative trial date was set for Jan. 7. Norman P. Ramsey, Anderson's attorney, told the judge that he wanted "a prompt trial in this matter."

Agnew is under investigation by federal prosecutors on similar charges — all involving illegal payoffs by architects and engineers for non-bid contracts awarded to them — but no evidence involving the vice president has yet gone before a special grand jury probing political corruption in Maryland.

The 56-year-old Anderson, in a 39-count indictment returned Aug. 23, was accused of extorting $46,420 from eight firms doing business with the county. He has denounced the charges as a "frame-up" and "phony."

Agnew also has denied all charges of wrongdoing.

Anderson, a Democrat, is the only person indicted so far in the investigation, but courthouse sources said others would be named.

The grand jury met for about three hours Thursday, sealed off from public contact by unprecedented security restrictions. The corridor leading to its fifth floor room in the courthouse was guarded by federal marshals who blocked efforts of reporters to see who was coming and going.

U.S. Attorney George Beall, who heads the investigation, said the security measures were absolutely necessary.

"By tradition and statute, grand jury proceedings are secret," Beall told newsmen. "Certain steps have been taken to preserve that privacy. Even witnesses going before the grand jury are part of the privacy and we intend to have it."

Meanwhile, the question of whether the Agnew phase of the probe will be brought before the jury still is undecided.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has said he will determine whether any evidence relating to the vice president is presented, and whether such evidence warrants an indictment. A spokesman said Richardson has not yet reached a decision.

Study mandatory heating fuel allocations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite growing support for the move, presidential energy adviser John A. Love says the administration remains unconvinced that mandatory allocation of heating fuel would avoid possible shortages this winter.

Mandatory allocation would not provide an instant solution and would be nothing more than a sharing of fuel shortages, Love told the Senate government operations subcommittee Thursday.

Meanwhile, a House committee took up legislation requiring the President to impose mandatory allocation, a concept also urged by the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The House Commerce Committee debated the legislation then adjourned until next week when it is expected to resume action.

Russell E. Train, new EPA administrator, said mandatory allocation "would get clean fuel where it will do the most good," meaning that low-sulfur fuels, those which produce the least pollution, could be directed into areas that need them the most.

The administration has relied on a voluntary allocation program for heating oil.

Under Senate-passed legislation, the President would direct the pricing and distribution of the nation's entire supply of oil and petroleum products to ensure that public-service needs are met and that each section of the nation gets a share of fuel.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., sponsor of the Senate bill, wrote President Nixon that the nation faces "serious power shortages and blackouts in major metropolitan areas this winter if action is not immediately taken to assist electrical utilities in securing essential fuel supplies."

Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, conceded that the nation may face temporary heating-fuel shortages this winter.

He said the administration is trying to increase supply by stimulating refinery output and increasing imports but that mandatory allocation is still under consideration.

In other energy-related developments:

—An EPA report predicts that waste radiation from atomic power plants could become a serious public health problem in the long run unless it is carefully controlled. The agency and the Atomic Energy Commission are conducting studies on health effects, an EPA spokesman said.

—An Interior Department official said energy from geysers like Old Faithful in Yellowstone National Park could offer a substantial source of new power for western states by the year 2000. The hot springs and natural hot water geysers could supply 10 per cent of the power needs for the western one-third of the nation, William W. Lyons, deputy undersecretary, said.

—An estimated 2,500 service station operators protested the administration's pricing and energy policies. The rally on the capitol steps was organized by the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers.

Study state building code regulations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Board of Building Standards began three days of hearings Thursday on a variety of proposed revisions in the state building code.

One of the issues before the board is whether to continue to certify local agencies to enforce the state's building code.

Cincinnati's building department had its certification continued conditionally at the first day of hearings, after being first placed on probation in February.

A state investigation turned up four new buildings in the city's downtown area in violation of state building code regulations.

The state action stemmed from complaints by Cincinnati engineer Al Greathouse who charged many of the city's new buildings were "firetraps."

Cincinnati then revamped its building department, adding inspectors and appointing a new executive to head the agency.

In continuing the city's conditional certification, the state board noted that all violations turned up in its initial investigation were fixed or being fixed.

Federal cash turned down

TEMPLEVILLE, Md. (AP) — Officials of this small farming community have asked to be dropped from the federal revenue sharing program after watching federal regulations devour all but $18 from their first two checks.

Harry T. Knotts, president of the three-man town commission, said Thursday that he has written the Office of Revenue Sharing and the Queen Anne's County Commission asking that the checks be stopped.

Templeville received $144 in two revenue sharing checks this year but had to pay $126 to publish federally required reports in the legal section of a local paper explaining what the money would be used for.

Knotts called the publication requirement for this town of about 70 persons "ridiculous."

"People in town already know what it's going to be used for," he said. Commissioners decided at the start of the program to use funds for a drainage project.

Deaths, Funerals

ROY L. MUSTAIN — Services for Roy L. Mustain, 69, of 1203 S. Fayette St., were held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with Rev. Glenn Williams officiating. Mr. Mustain, a retired 45-year employe of the Midland Grocery Co., died Monday.

Three hurt in area car mishaps

Three persons were injured, none of them seriously, when two cars collided on a curve on U.S. 35 near Interstate 71 at 11 p.m. Thursday.

David W. Knapke, 40, Dayton, was attempting to pass a tractor-trailer on a curve when he pulled out into the path of an oncoming car driven by Thomas E. Funk Jr., 30, of Parrott Station Rd..

Mary P. Creed, 36, of 418 S. Fayette St., a passenger with Funk, as well as the two drivers was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. Both cars were a total loss.

Knapke was cited for improper passing. There was a solid yellow line in his lane.

Five other accidents were reported to the police and sheriff's departments Thursday night and this morning.

POLICE

THURSDAY, 10:27 a.m. — Richard D. Rife, 67, of 522 Warren Ave., pulled into the driveway of Don's Body Shop, 225 S. Hinde St., striking an auto driven by James W. Bennnett, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., which in turn struck a car owned by Jess Gilmore, U.S. 41-N. Damage to the Gilmore vehicle was minor; the other two received moderate damage.

1:43 p.m. — Douglas E. Krieger, 19, of 143 Jo Ann Dr., who had been parked in front of Milstead Tire on W. Market Street, backed out onto the roadway striking a car driven by Arthur H. Finley, 87, 526 E. Market St. The collision resulted in moderate damage, and Krieger was cited for backing without due regard to safety.

4:04 p.m. — Daniel L. Charles, 21, of 402½ E. Paint St., who was parked at the curb on W. Court Street, opened the door on the driver's side striking a car driven by Wayne L. Roberts, 19, of 410 E. Paint St., who was eastbound on Court Street. Minor damage resulting.

Charles was cited for opening a door into traffic.

3 boys drown

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of three young boys were recovered today from a city park swimming pool, police reported.

Officers said the boys, whose identities were not immediately known, were about 7, 8 and 13 years old.

Chrysler workers ready for strike

DETROIT (AP) — More than 127,000 auto workers are ready to strike Chrysler Corp. tonight if bargainers meeting behind closed doors fail to reach a contract agreement.

Because of a ban imposed Thursday evening on public comment about progress, there is no indication today of the status of the talks.

Recently, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock had told newsmen that the imposition of a blackout "would tell our workers we are on our way home."

However, if accord is not reached, the 127,500 United Auto Workers members say they will strike the nation's third largest auto maker at 11:59 p.m.

The talks adjourned shortly before midnight Thursday and were to resume today at 9 a.m. EDT. There was no immediate indication whether the hiatus meant the negotiators had made progress toward a settlement.

A UAW spokesman said the adjournment was unusual for the night preceeding a strike deadline. A Chrysler spokesman said he could not recall the talks ever being adjourned so early on the night before a scheduled walkout.

The UAW's International Executive Board was called to Detroit on Thursday to be on hand to approve any agreement.

And Chrysler executives are planning to have 80,550 workers on overtime Saturday to meet this week's production goal of 40,650 cars and trucks.

As late as Wednesday, the last time union leaders met with newsmen, only four relatively minor union demands had been met from a list that Chrysler executives said had 180 items.

Some of the key union demands are for an unspecified wage increase, voluntary overtime, company-paid dental insurance, plant safety and retirement with full pension at any age after 30 years' service.

Other thorny issues include full protection of pay checks against inflation and raising the pay level for Canadian workers to that for U.S. employes.

CIA shakeup undertaken by new chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Director William E. Colby is shaking up the CIA in a move to provide himself and President Nixon with sharper estimates of U.S. defense needs and developments in China, the Soviet Union and other sensitive world sectors.

Sworn in only 10 days ago, Colby plans to surround himself with about 10 specialists — National Intelligence Officers who will be responsible for a specific subject, such as strategic weapons, or an area, such as China or Latin America.

They will replace the prestigious panel of "wise old heads" who comprise the Board of National Estimates, which for more than 20 years has been responsible for preparing intelligence estimates.

Through attrition the elite 10-man board of ex-ambassadors, admirals and generals is now down to five or six members including Living Merchant, a former undersecretary of state.

Remaining at the apex of the government's intelligence apparatus will be the United States Intelligence Board, headed by Colby. Its members are drawn from the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Treasury and State Departments, the Atomic Energy Commission and the FBI. Army, Navy and Air Force intelligence officers attend the meetings as "observers."

The shakeup comes against a backdrop of criticism that intelligence estimates have been too fuzzy and generalized, with dissent lost by the time they reach the CIA director. By giving a single specialist the responsibility for collating the divergent views, Colby hopes to have dissents funneled to him.

He expects to draw most of the 10 specialists from the CIA. Others may come from the Pentagon, the State Department or even college campus. They will be told they should not consider their jobs permanent, that they could be moved out within a few years, or their subjects or geographic areas abolished and others added in their place.

Colby has not made any final choices from the three dozen or so candidates he is now considering. He has discussed the reorganization with several members of Congress, including Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a prominent critic of some clandestine CIA operations but a strong supporter of the agency's intelligence-estimating functions.

Former hero faces charge

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo service station operator who was hailed as a hero five years ago for capturing a bank robber was scheduled for a federal court hearing today on charges connected with a $43,227 credit union robbery.

Richard C. Lawrence, 43, is charged with aiding and abetting in the armed robbery of a credit union vehicle Aug. 16.

The FBI said Lawrence also is on five years probation for a 1970 conviction on theft and forgery charges involving a stolen check in interstate commerce.

Lawrence was honored by City Council after he tackled one of three men fleeing a Toledo Trust Co. branch bank following a $16,000 armed robbery in December 1968.

Council nominated him for the Loeb award for citizen valor, an award given by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Agnew favored with discounts, numerous gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the years since he became a prominent political figure, Spiro T. Agnew has received gifts of food, wine and liquor from friends and allies, and a liberal discount from a plush Washington hotel where he lived for 4½ years, several news reports say.

Agnew aides refuse to confirm or deny these reports but are known to be furious over what they believe are trivial stories that would have been ignored if the vice president were not under criminal investigation by a federal grand jury in Baltimore, Md.

One of the reports was that Agnew received a "celebrity discount" in his rent during 4½ years he lived at Washington's Sheraton-Park Hotel.

There are other reports that Agnew received gifts of food, liquor and cash from friends and associates in Maryland where he served as Baltimore County executive and later as governor.

Personal income rises in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Personal income in Ohio amounted to $53.8 billion in July, after seasonal adjustment, an increase of 11 per cent from the total for the same month a year ago, the Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University said today.

The center said personal income for the first seven months of 1973 showed the same 11 per cent increase over the corresponding period in 1972.

Payrolls for production workers were up 13 per cent in July over the same month in 1972, the center said, with gains ranging from 4 per cent in Akron to 20 per cent in Toledo.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was moderately lower today amid investor concern over a variety of economic developments.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.81 to 878.76, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by about 5 to 4.

Analysts said that most traders had pulled off to the sidelines amid news of rising interest rates, tight money, and the possibility of a tax boost.

Eastern Air Lines was active on the NYSE, off ⅛ to 7⅝.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .72 to 99.49, while the NYSE index was off .04 to 55.33.

Scattered showers were expected to end over the state tonight as a low pressure system located over Tennessee moves eastward to the Atlantic coast early Saturday.

Good weekend football weather is predicted by the National Weather Service, with fair skies and high readings between 65 and 75 degrees.

Tonight's low will be in the 50s.

Showers were reported across Ohio last night with most sections measuring only trace amounts. Rainfall over most of the Buckeye state continues below normal for the month.

Ohioans can look forward to fair skies Sunday, followed by rain Monday and clearing skies Tuesday. Highs all three days will be in the upper 60s and low 70s with lows in the upper 40s and low 50s.

Middle East skies quiet

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Middle East's skies were quiet again today after Thursday's biggest air battle since the 1967 six-day war.

Israel said its pilots shot down 13 Syrian MIG21s, while the Syrians brought down one of Israel's Mirage jets. The Israelis said a rescue helicopter pulled the Israeli pilot and one Syrian from the sea two hours after they ditched.

Syria said it shot down five Israeli planes and lost eight MIGs. Reports from North Lebanon said four Syrian planes crashed on Lebanese territory, and the pilots escaped unhurt or with slight injuries.

The Israelis said the captive Syrian pilot was in good condition and the International Red Cross had been informed of his capture. There was no indication, however, under what conditions he would be returned to Syria. The action ended one of the quietest periods on the Middle East battle fronts since the 1967 war, shattering a seven-month lull after Israeli-Syrian ground and air battles Jan. 8 on and over the Golan Heights.

Judge fines self for being late

GRAY, Ga. (AP)—Superior Court Judge George L. Jackson has assessed himself a $25 fine for being late to a session of court.

Jackson was surprised Thursday when he entered his courtroom and found that the district attorney and a county grand jury had been waiting 15 minutes for him.

The judge said he thought the court session was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. and noted that he often had assessed fines against other people for being late.

"You're supposed to be there when court starts and I didn't have any excuse — none whatsoever," he said in fining himself.

Price of bagels rouses wrath of congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of bagels is going up.

This single economic fact of eating has been brought to the attention of the House by Rep. Bertram Podell, D-N.Y. He said the price jump has hit hard his bagel-loving constituents in New York City.

"The most recent casualty of Phase 4 is a consumer item that is very popular in my district — the bagel," Podell told the House. A bagel is a glazed, hard doughnut-shaped roll made of flour and water. It can be eaten by itself or, as often is the case, with cream cheese and smoked salmon or lox.

"For the past few years, the price of bagels had stabilized at eight to ten cents," he said.

"Then Mr. Nixon arranged for the sale of one-quarter of America's wheat harvest to the Soviet Union, giving inside information to a few speculators who were thus able to make a fortune on the deal.

"Finally, and incredibly, the President removed all price controls on wheat. The result was a substantial increase in the cost of flour. As a result, my constituents are now paying 12 to 15 cents for a bagel, an increase of between 20 to 50 per cent," Podell said.

Podell said that despite the increase in price, labor costs and bakers' profits have not risen.

"The blame lies squarely with President Nixon and Secretary of Agriculture (Earl) Butz," Podell said.

"The noted economist John Kenneth Galbraith recently remarked that having these men administer price controls is analogous to putting the Paulist Fathers in charge of a birth control clinic," Podell added.

Podell said a complete redirection of national priorities is needed. "Much more is at stake than merely the price of bagels. The President's electoral mandate gave him the responsibility to represent the interests of all the people, not just the wealthy few. "It is time for Mr. Nixon to wake up to the realities of the consumers' nightmare, and by his actions to justify the faith placed in him by so many Americans," Podell said.

Milk production likely to drop

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk production in 1973 is expected to drop about three per cent from last year, to about 117 billion pounds, approximately what dairy farmers produced in 1970, the Agriculture Department says.

"Sharply increased feed prices are reducing output per cow, and together with high slaughter-cow prices, are encouraging a sharper decline in milk-cow numbers," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Thursday.

The estimate of reduced milk production comes as no surprise to dairy farmers who have seen feed costs rise phenomenally in the past year. In August, the department said the average cost of 100 pounds of dairy-cow ration was $6.06 compared with $3.49 a year earlier, a 74 per cent increase.

Meanwhile, the department said in a report Tuesday, prices paid farmers for milk averaged $6.88 per hundredweight, a record high but still only 15 per cent higher than a year ago.

Milk production has risen steadily since 1969 as the relationship between milk prices and feed costs produced good profits for dairy farmers. But spiralling feed costs now have sent those gains in a tailspin.

"Cash receipts from dairying this year may total $7.8 billion, up from $7.2 billion in 1972," the report said. "However, production costs, particularly feed costs, are rising even faster."

The USDA could not estimate how profits from dairying this year might stack up with 1972, only that "obviously there will be a drop" from last year.

Some adjustments in government price supports for milk have been made, including an increase of 80 per cent of parity for the support of manufacturing grade milk as ordered by Congress in the new farm law.

Recently, USDA announced a temporary boost for the remainder of September in the minimum rates dealers must pay farmers in federal milk marketing orders.

In most cases, however, the two actions have not affected actual prices dairy farmers get since the market price already is higher than the floors established by the government.

Municipal League asked to back energy measure

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Municipal League has been asked to support a bill that the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said would enable it to handle any energy crisis.

Edmund J. Turk, PUCO chairman, spoke Thursday before the league's convention here. He urged support of bill 206, now in the Ohio Senate's Ways and Means committee.

Turk said the bill would enable PUCO to take the initiative in dealing with energy problems in Ohio.

"The municipal governments will be the first governmental bodies to hear the discontent of the people if the unfortunate combination of fuel shortage and bitter winter occurs," Turk warned.

New order will limit wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has spelled out Justice Department policy allowing national security wiretaps in cases related to foreign intelligence-gathering.

The Supreme Court ruled a year ago that the government could not conduct domestic security wiretaps without first obtaining judicial consent.

The court did not apply its restriction to wiretaps said necessary for national security, and Richardson's statement was the first explanation of policy on those taps since the court action.

Richardson's explanation came in a letter to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

That committee has questioned the role of Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger in authorizing national security wiretaps on 17 individuals.

In the letter to Fulbright Richardson said that he will not approve any application for electronic surveillance unless it is designed:

—"To protect the nation against actual or potential attack or other hostile acts of a foreign power.

—"To obtain foreign intelligence information deemed essential to the security of the United States.

—"Or to protect national security information against foreign intelligence activities."

Move to curb traffic glut

The "flat prediction" made by Mayor Wes Uhlman of Seattle regarding bus service in large cities is of widespread interest. "With the EPA breathing down the necks of all of us," he said, "every major city in the country will be providing free transit within two years."

The occasion for this remark was the inauguration of an experiment in Seattle whereby free transportation on city buses will be provided in the central business district. The idea, as in a number of smaller communities also trying it, is to encourage people to leave their cars outside the downtown area and travel by bus.

On this point we quote Mayor Uhlman further: "The downtowns are becoming congested and polluted, and we simply have to reclaim them for people away from the automobile." It is a concept that has been simmering on the back burner, as it were, for a long time. It is coming to a boil none too soon.

Some may balk at the notion of cities offering cut-rate or even free transportation. However, this course seems to be dictated by public reluctance to give up individual cars and ride the buses; there has to be some incentive to get people in the habit of doing his. At this point we recall the ill-fated Washington C.H. mini-bus venture which seemed to have a real potential.

Whether the incentive of free or lower-fare rides is sufficient remains to be seen. There are some encouraging signs: a number of cities — including San Diego, Denver, Tulsa and Kansas City — report boosts of around 10 per cent in the number of people riding public transportation since fares were reduced. A 15 per cent increase in ridership is reported in Atlanta after the fare was cut from 40 to 15 cents last year.

The hope is that the trend will pick up — that more and more people will recognize the advantages of riding buses and not worrying about parking their cars (not to mention high car-operating costs and the daily hassle of wrestling with traffic). In this trend, along with commuter railroads, may lie the solution of American cities' problem of downtown traffic glut and air pollution.

THE NATION . . . by Martin F. Nolan

The presidency and parochialism

WASHINGTON — In his new relationship with Congress, President Nixon not only has the upper-hand, but his hand is being constantly strengthened by the crises for which he and Congress can share the blame.

Congress has always been a hesitant coalition of parochial concerns and the President the premier lobbyist for national issues. What's happening now is that local and regional issues are becoming national ones and the chips of clout and authority pile up on the President's side of the poker table.

The "energy crisis," for instance, is no stranger to New England where independent oil distributors have always been at the end of the supply line.

Now the line itself is at issue and oil seems short even where it is plentiful.

Mass transit was once an arcane issue for the eastern megalopolis between Boston and Washington, with Eastern congressmen being clobbered by their highway-loving brothers. But now, even Los Angeles is seeking fewer highways and more mass transit; every suburb can boast of a traffic jam to rival Manhattan's.

"STREET CRIME" has also moved to the suburbs and President Nixon addressed delegates to a conference on that subject here in the East Room of the White House Tuesday. Crime is no longer an urban, blue-collar concern.

On all of these issues, the President commands the bully pulpit of publicity, which his aides and he know how to exploit with cheerful abandon.

What the President in his Sept. 5 press conference called a "second State of the Union message" was actually his fifth this year, since he divided others into subject matter. And the fifth one was delivered at least three times.

Neither a Sunday afternoon radiobroadcast nor a longer written statement Monday added much to congressional or public knowledge of the President's legislative goals. Even the rhetoric echoed what he said in his press conference. But both received major news coverage from the allegedly hostile media.

IN CONTRAST to double-feature media events from the White House, Congress plods along as it should, deliberatively and parochially. Of the 535 congressmen, no more than a dozen spend their days focusing on "the national interest."

Rather, it is the district's interest or the state's or even the committee member's jurisdiction that is most important.

"What bill are we voting on?" a rural-state senator asked an aide on the floor during a vote last week. "Urban mass transit,Senator," came the reply.

The senator knew all he needed to know on the subject and shouted a stentorian "No" at the tally clerk.

Maybe that process will change, but it hasn't yet. The Congress hasn't caught up to national problems and neither has the President. But no one can ever call the President parochial.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Computer as inflationary villain

William D. Pardridge, the self-styled "disagreeable economist" of Stanardsville, Va., who specializes in shatteringly disrespectful observations, puts the blame for much of our inflation on the computer.

Since the computer is an unthinking workhorse, utterly dependent for its answers on what human beings put into it, how can a mere technological device be an active promoter of the dollar's collapse? The answer is that mass credit, on the inflationary scale that it is used today, would be much too costly a bookkeeping proposition if the computer did not exist to retrieve data instantaneously, to grind out the bills, to figure the interest rates, to do elaborate bookkeeping without the intervention of the human hand, and to reckon the actuarial chances of losing important sums on delinquent accounts.

If all the paper work involved in the phenomenon of mass credit had to be done by Dickensian clerks using quill pens at rolltop desks, the cost of it would quickly kill the whole idea.

THIS IS Bill Pardridge's theory, and it is brilliantly obvious. I can claim to be the catalytic agent in provoking it, for I drew a snappish response when IK commended to him the reports of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, which give the lie to our supposed inflation fighters in Washington, D.C., by telling the truth about the continual month-by-month creation of an oversupply of new money.

The Federal Reserve of St. Louis, asid Pardridge, tells only half the story: to the superfluity of paper purchasing power, as evidenced by the government flushing of the money stock, there must be added the mass credit that has zoomed our total debt, public and private, to well over $2,000 billion.

Even in the time of Socrates philosophers were arguing whether ideas or technological innovations were responsible for most social change. The truth is that ideas and technology act together.

The specific idea that has unleashed the computer to flood society with credit-card buying on what the British call the "never-never" is summed up in a phrase: the permissive society.

Since "anything goes" in this sort of society, why shouldn't the computer go hog wild as the high priests of affluence use electrical impulses to reckon the actuarial chances of losing money on people who overestimate their capacity to absorb debt?

Not so long ago Arnold Saltzmann, a New York City industrialist, suggested that a disinterested advisory commission be set up to study the probable effects of congressional social and economic legislation.

The board that Pardridge has assembled to get a new organization, Economic Inequities, Inc., started might meet Saltzman's criteria, for it includes the chairmen of three university economics departments, Dr. Dudley Dillard of the University of Maryland, Dr. Richard T. Selden of the University of Virginia, and Dr. David Davies of Duke University.

Anna J. Schwartz of the National Bureau of Economic Research, who was Prof. Milton Friedman's collaborator on an authoritative monetary history of the U.S., is another Economic Inequities board member, and Joseph W. MaGuire, vice president of planning at the University of California in Berkeley, has signified his willingness to join.

THE IMPORTANCE of this group is that it proposes to hold three national conferences to which theoreticians will be invited to deliver formal papers. The first conference promises to examine the relations between inflation, total public and private debt, and the economic production of goods and services.

The second is scheduled to examine true economic employment as distinguished from public employment.

And the third, utilizing the findings of the first two, will be charged with determining the causes and conditions of maintaining full economic employment with zero inflation.

This is a tall order, but with the failure of such governmental bodies as the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the Cost-of-Living Council, and the Federal Reserve itself, someone has to come up with fresh thinking about our economic necessities. If one thing is patent, even such able people as Secretary of the Treasury Shultz and Dr. John T. Dunlop, head of the Cost-of-Living Council, don't really believe in what the government has been doing under the various "phases" from one to four.

President Nixon needs outside advice that will be independent of what is conceived to be "political necessity." When people demand snake oil, which is what we get when "controls" go hand in hand with almost unlimited credit and a 7 per cent annual increase in monetary stock, they should be told that "political necessity" is the last thing that should be indulged.

Students given hearing rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge U.S. District Court panel here says public school students must be given hearings before they can be suspended.

Judge Joseph P. Kinneary, writing the opinion for the panel, said school administrators may not jeopardize a student's right to an education by ordering an expulsion or suspension without due process of law.

The court ruled on a suit filed on behalf of nine Columbus public school students suspended during student unrest in the winter and spring of 1971.

The Columbus Board of Education since has adopted a new regulation providing for a hearing before disciplinary action is taken.

Hal Boyle . Back in the good old days

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a filter.

It sifts out much of the sadness of the past; it enhances the bright colors of our cheerful yesterdays and makes them dearer with each passing year.

We are fortunate indeed that memory has this filterlike quality for if it were like a klieg light or a microscope, the past would stand out too starkly and its buried events be emphasized too nakedly. Instead of helping us through life, memory might kill us with shame and regrets.

By and large, you've got a pretty good collection of memories if you can look back and remember when —

You could read the front page of a newspaper without feeling that the whole world was going to hell.

For $10,000 or less, you could buy the best house on most of the city blocks in America, and you could get a 25-year morgage for 6 per cent interest.

Baseball really was the national pastime, and only rich people or freaks were interested in playing golf or tennis.

A congressman's mail consisted mostly of letters from constituents asking him to mail them free garden seeds, a prerogative he no longer enjoys.

In a large family, while grace was being said before meals, a wise child used this pause to glance at the meat platter to see which piece he'd try to get.

A man was regarded as reasonably successful if he died debt-free and left enough to pay for his funeral expenses.

Almost every American, young or old, knew what part of a cow's body gave milk and how many milk faucets she had. Do you know?

Because they were born free and owed no fealty to tyrant lords or creeds, Americans felt sure they were more than equal, man for man, to any other people on earth.

When a woman walked passed you, her undergarments made a mysterious rustling that was part of the feminine mystique. It was like the sound of a soft and friendly electricity made audible.

An only daughter was always called "Sis," and a boy named after his father was known as "Junior" or "Young Bob."

A man was valued more for his character than his cash.

Those were the days — remember?

Campbell urges full land use

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Deputy Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phillip Campbell said here Thursday night farmers ought to use every available acre of land for production next year.

The Agriculture Department's No. 2 man, speaking at a Hancock County Republican barbeque, said farmers would make a healthy profit as well as help the country improve its balance of payments.

Because full production historically has driven prices down, Campbell said, it is difficult for farmers to understand today's situation in which foreign countries are bidding to purchase all the American farm products they can.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dad wants to marry but daughter says no

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful man who's been talking marriage. The problem is his 38-year-old daughter. She's never been married and lives with him. Her mother died 15 years ago, and she isn't interested in dating or going anywhere except with her father. This daughter has never earned a dollar in her life. She keeps telling her father he's too old to marry again (he most certainly is NOT!) and he's taken her to Europe, South America, to the Orient; name it and they've been there.

He is such a dear and generous man, he doesn't want to hurt his daughter, but he says he loves me, and if I'll just be patient, in time his daughter will eventually come around to accepting me.

I want to marry this man, but I'm afraid it's hopeless.

What do you think?

GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: It's hopeless, unless Father tells Daughter that it's important for her to start making a life of her own because he's not going to be around forever. Unless I missed my guess, Daughter might need some psychological surgery to separate her from her father. Unless Father is willing to go along with the above-mentioned suggestion, forget him. "Time" accomplishes nothing. People do.

DEAR ABBY: My "ex" and I have been divorced for 18 months, and I have custody of our four sons, ages 5 to 16. My "ex" has unrestricted visitation rights which he seldom uses, although we're all in the same city.

The few times he's come to see the boys, he just drives up in front of the house, honks his horn, and expects the boys to come running. (They do, of course.) He never offers to take them for a ride. He just visits with them while they stand in the street, and he sits in his car.

I feel this is degrading to the boys and have told the older one to please tell his father that he is welcome to come in our home to visit, and I would absent myself while he's here. (The divorce was so messy, my "ex" can't look me in the face.)

The last time he was here, our 13-year-old asked him for his address so he could write to him or maybe visit him there, and his father quickly drove off without even answering him. Needless to say, the boy was hurt and burst into tears, and his brothers were upset, too.

The boys say they feel funny standing on the street. How can this awkward situation be handled?

HURTING FOR THE BOYS

DEAR HURTING: Your 16-year-old should be sufficiently mature to tell Father that it's embarrassing to stand outside, visiting, and in the future he should please come in the house. (He can repeat the fact that "Mother" will not be around.) If that doesn't do it, since you're not speaking, perhaps your lawyer could write his lawyer a letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old adult who writes like an 8-year-old! As you can see, my penmanship is horrid! My husband is so embarrassed, he doesn't want me to address our Christmas cards. I try to slow down and write very carefully, but I find myself grasping the pen so hard my fingers ache.

I realize this is something that should have been corrected during my first few years in school, but unfortunately it wasn't.

This may not seem like a very serious problem to you, but it is to me.

Any suggestions you can give me will certainly be appreciated.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: I read every word of your letter with no difficulty and believe me, I have seen worse. Strive for legibility, and don't worry about the rest.

First Baptist Church to build new sanctuary

The congregation of the First Baptist Church, East and North Sts., will meet for services in the sanctuary for the last time Sunday; then for the next 40 weeks services will be held in Fellowship Hall of the relatively new Christian educational unit.

A wrecking crew will move in on that portion of the 85-year-old red brick house of worship which includes the sanctuary, Monday morning to make way for a new sanctuary building.

The congregation approved the construction of the new building Wednesday. It will cost $203,440 and the Wenrick Construction Co., of Medway, has the general contract. The goal is completion in 280 days.

The new sanctuary building, which will replace the one erected in 1885, will front on North St. extending into a recently purchased and cleared lot adjoining the present property on the south.

Plans call for a courtyard on the site of the old sanctuary building. The bell, which was cast in Cincinnati in the mid-1800s and which has called worshippers with its resonant tones from the square cupola atop the present entrance at the corner, will be placed in the courtyard. The stained glass will be moved from the present sanctuary and installed in the new one.

The new sanctuary building will be connected with the Christian Education unit and become a part of a virtually new house of worship. Services will be held in Fellowship Hall of the Christian Education building, erected in 1957, during the construction period.

The new sanctuary will have comfortable accommodations for slightly more than 300. The entrance will be at ground level from North St. The entrance to the present sanctuary is up about six steps from the corner. The new building also will include a lounge and restrooms.

When the new sanctuary building is completed, and merged with the Christian education unit, it will be the third house of worship on the site. The first one was destroyed by a tornado in 1888 and the present building was erected in its place in 1888.

The congregation approved the construction of a new and larger sanctuary because of the steady growth of the membership and congregations for worship services. In 1959, the church had a membership of 425; today it is about 650. Congregations in 1959 averaged 125 for worship services, by 1963 it had increased to 225 but them slumped because the sanctuary was too small. During the last few years, however, with prospects of enlargement in the offing, attendance has been picking up.

District Presbytery meeting to be held in Columbus

All three Presbyterian Churches in Fayette County will be represented at the installation of the Rev. Hugh Bean Evans as the executive presbyter, a mission fair and banquet at the fifth stated meeting of the Presbytery of the Scioto Valley Tuesday, Sept. 18, in the Broad Street Presbyterian Church in Columbus.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat and one of the elders (not yet designated) will represent the First Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Wilbur Bullock and Elder Gerald Leasure, will represent McNair Church here. Elder John Sollars will represent the Bloomingburg church, which presently has no fulltime pastor.

In addition to the official delegates (the pastor and one elder), several members of each of the three churches are expected to attend the meeting as observers. Mrs. Robert Hyer and Mrs. Naomi Reif, of McNair Church, have said they plan to attend as guests.

The Rev. Mr. Evans will be installed at 8 p.m. following the banquet.

Representatives of other denominational units in the area have been invited to attend and participate in the processional. Banners of the missions on six continents also will be included in the processional.

The new executive presbyter succeeds the Rev. Arthur M. Romig, who retired after 42 years of service. The Rev. Mr. Evans, a native of Gallipolis, has served churches in Philadelphia and Cincinnati. He has served 28 years as a pastor and five as an administrator.

Church plans lecture series

A series of lectures on faith and beliefs entitled "What Do We Believe?" will be presented at the McNair Presbyterian Church each Sunday evening in October.

The series will involve four denominations. The purpose of the program is to allow congregation members to better understand the basic beliefs of other churches.

Refreshments will be served in the church basement following each service.

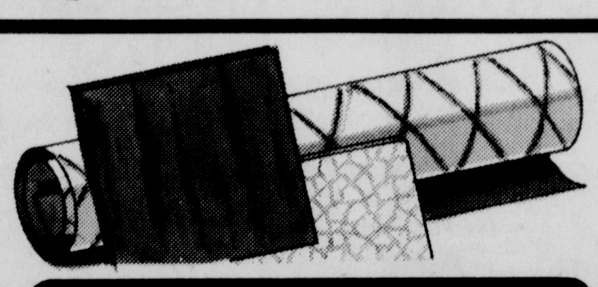

The schedule follows: Oct. 7, Grace United Methodist Church; Oct. 14, First Baptist Church; Oct. 21, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, and Oct. 28, Catholic chaplain of the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

'Promotion Sunday' at Madison Mills

MADISON MILLS — This Sunday has been designated as Promotion Sunday in the Madison Mills United Methodist Church.

During the Sunday School period, beginning at 10:30 a.m., students who have entered grades one, three, five, seven and 10 in public school this year will be promoted to their new classes by the Sunday School teachers.

Wedding in Wharton announced here

First Church of God in Wharton was the setting Sept. 1 for the marriage of Miss Deborah Sue Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barr of Wharton and Jack Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Riley Sr. of Washington C.H. Rev. Clarence Thornton officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Assorted summer flowers in pink, green, yellow and blue filled the altar vases. Mrs. Larry Watson, organist, and Mrs. Russell Willeke, vocalist, presented a prelude of wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Barr chose a chiffon organza gown with high mandarin neckline, bishop sleeves, and a semi full skirt, with Venice lace trim on the bodice and sleeves. Her camelot cap held the chapel length mantilla edged with Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis on her mother's Bible.

Mrs. Dennis Rodabaugh of Findlay was matron of honor. She wore a yellow dotted Swiss gown with empire waist, bishop sleeves, mandarin collar and yellow garden hat. She carried a nosegay of assorted flowers in yellow, blue, green and pink. The bridesmaids were Miss Debra Long, Miss Patricia Pever, and Miss Betty Fast, all of Wharton, who wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor, except in blue, pink and green. They carried nosegays of summer flowers.

Glenn Riley Jr., served as best man. Steve Forkner of Middletown, John Hancock of Columbus, and Dennis Rodabaugh of Findlay were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pink linen dress and a corsage of assorted summer flowers. The groom's mother chose a green knit dress trimmed in gold. She, too, wore a corsage.

Hostesses for the reception held in the church social room were Miss Becky Conley of Columbus, Miss Luanne Bristoll of Wharton, Miss Bonnie Bock of Tiffin and Miss Kathy Bock of Tiffin.

Following a wedding trip to Geauga Lake, the couple is residing at 379 Oak St., Columbus.

The new Mrs. Riley, a graduate of Riverdale High School and Columbus Business University, is employed by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Her husband, a graduate of Miami Trace High School and Columbus Business University, is employed by Motorist Mutual Insurance Company in Columbus.

The groom's parents were hosts at dinner at the church following rehearsal on Friday.

Maple Grove Church plans supper

The Young Adult Class of the Maple Grove United Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Carey Daugherty to make final plans for the annual chicken and noodle supper to be held at the Maple Grove schoolhouse on the White Pike, Sept. 20. Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and the menu will consist of chicken and noodles, mashed potatoes, green beans and corn, slaw, sliced tomatoes, homemade pie, coffee, iced tea and rolls.

Mrs. Neil Rowland presented devotions and reports were given by Mrs. Mary Beoddy.

The class voted to serve luncheon on Election Day at the Maple Grove schoolhouse, as another money-making project to help finance the payments on the church piano.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Dr. and Mrs. John Louis, Mrs. Beoddy and Mrs. Ottie Huff.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Huff.

The leading tomato varieties recommended today are Water, Tropic, Manapal, Homestead and Floradel.

Output of broilers this year is expected to be near the nine billion pounds produced in 1972.

Class meets

"Holy Communion" was the devotions topic presented by Mrs. Harry Fichthorn, president of the Loyal Daughters Class of McNair Presbyterian Church, when the group met with Mrs. Marvin Waddle recently.

Scripture was read by Mrs. Allen Hays, reports were presented and Betty Holder was welcomed as a member of the class. Money-making projects were discussed.

All were reminded to attend the series of lectures of Faith and Beliefs to be held in the church at 7:30 p.m. each Sunday evening in October. This will involve different church denominations of the community.

The Loyal Daughters class will have the visiting of the sick and shut-ins in the months of Oct., Nov. and Dec.

There will be a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. John Warnecke Oct. 13 on Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Featured will be a weiner roast, and each is to bring wieners, buns, marshmallows and a covered dish also their own table service.

The 40th anniversary of the class will be observed in April, 1974. Mrs. Ivan Kelley and Mrs. Wilbur Bullock were named co-chairman for this event.

Sept. 23 there will be a fellowship potluck dinner at the church at 5:30 p.m. Entertainment will follow.

The annual bazaar will be held in the month of November in the home of Mrs. Charles Keaton.

Refreshments were served.

DAYP Club sews items

Mrs. Mike Williams and Mrs. Howard Williams were co-chairmen of the DAYP Club meeting, when ten members met and crocheted afghans, knitted and crocheted shaws, and had other sewing items. Mrs. Mike Williams was welcomed as a new member.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Orris Mallow.

Present were Mrs. Harold Callender and son Rusty, Mrs. Mallow, Mrs. Arthur Pettit, Mrs. Alex Wackman, Mrs. Ruth Smith, Mrs. Ella Speakman, Mrs. Emil Howard, Mrs. Charles Burke, Mrs. Clifton Roberts, the hostesses and Kathy Williams.

Ten classes announced for County Fall Flower Show

The Fayette County Garden Clubs Council meeting took place in the Sulky Restaurant, when Mrs. Donald Meredith, contact chairman, opened the meeting. Each club is to display three items at the Fish and Game Lodge for the Sept. 22 show.

All of the clubs in the county will be hosts for the Regional meeting to be held Oct. 30 in Mahan Hall. Mrs. William Summers is registration chairman. All reservations must be in by Oct. 24, and the fee is $4.00. "Christmas in October" is the theme for the meeting. Mrs. Grace Rea is the scheduled speaker, who will also demonstrate how to make holiday decorations and arrangements. The coffee hour will be from 9 to 10 a.m. Twin Oaks members will be in charge of the favors and name tags; Posy Club will have the decoration; Fayette will be the hostess; and the Town and Country Club will be in charge of registration.

The Fall Flower Show is Nov. 28, when the ten classes are: Silent Night (green and silver), We Three Kings of Orient (arrangement in a gold crown), Oh Star of Wonder (door swag using a star or star-trimmed), Good Will Toward Men (gift basket of beauty), On Earth Peace (white and silver decoration for mantle and candles may be used), Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly (holly and fruit), Joy to the World (wreath decorated with tree balls, and candles permitted), One Horse Open Sleigh (arrangement in a sleigh), Star Dust (your dream of a Christmas), and Child's Christmas (your own interpretation or an assembledge).

The next council meeting will be Nov. 5, and the County Flower Show is planned for Dec. 3 in Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. Arrangements must be in place by 11:30 a.m. that day.

Those present were Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh of the Posy Club; Mrs. Lee Cleland and Mrs. Alvin Armintrout of Town and Country; Mrs. Dale Merritt, Washington Garden Club; Mrs. Robert Meriweather of the Fayette Club; Mrs. Dana Kellenberger and Mrs. Tom Braden of Twin Oaks; and Mrs. Donald Meredith, county contact chairman.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. William Beal of Monticello, Iowa, formerly of Washington C.H., have announced the engagement of their daughter Esther Lynn to Allen Kleinkauf of Ames, Iowa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kleinkauf of Norfolk, Neb.

Miss Beal is a graduate of Miami Trace High School and a student at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa. Her fiance is a graduate of Norfolk High School, Norfolk Nebraska Junior College and a student at Iowa State University. He is also employed by the Rock Island Railroad.

The wedding will be and event of early summer following Miss Beal's graduation from Iowa State University.

Mrs. Pemberton club hostess

Mrs. Donald Pemberton welcomed the United Methodist Women of Staunton to her home, and was assisted in the hospitalities by Mrs. Billy Harper and daughter Jody.

Mrs. Alice Bush conducted the meeting and Mrs. Walter Parrett presented devotions by reading Corinthians 13, and the poem "All Embracing Love." Reports were heard and the group voted to donate $5.00 to the leukemia fund, and to serve lunch at the farm sale of Mr. and Mrs. Parrett planned Sept. 22.

The group also voted to hold a holiday bazaar Oct. 27 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall, W. Elm St.

Mrs. Mae Pullin and Mrs. Clifford Daugherty were guests. Mrs. Daugherty became a new member of the group. Mrs. Harry Hayslip was winner of the door prize, and the next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 4 with Mrs. Jed Stuckey. Mrs. Lela Allen will be assisting hostess.

Those present besides the guests were Rev. and Mrs. W. Baker, Miss Oma Waddle, Mrs. Hayslip, Mrs. Florence Bethards, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. Elza Smith, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. C.S. Wikle, Mrs. Stuckey, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Parrett and Jody Harper.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Von Bargen of Bloomingburg, attended the wedding of Miss Gale Ann Hull and Eugene Phillip Whetzel in St. John Episcopal Church in Worthington on Sunday. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James R. Hull of Columbus, formerly of Greenfield.

Class meets at Schlichter home

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schlichter were hosts at a Homebuilders Class meeting. Mrs. Blodwen Melvin was the assisting hostess. Mrs. Lester Haines conducted the meeting and devotions, and Mrs. Dwight King played several piano solos.

Thank you notes were read for cookies donated to the junior choir members for a trip to Kings Island from Mrs. Gary Hidy, and a letter from Mrs. Ethel Wilson was read. She is residing with her daughter in Columbus, and recuperating from a broken hip. Mrs. Harold Knisley was recognized for having a birthday.

It was announced there will be no meeting in October. On Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Haines will be hosts at a class meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett will be assisting hosts and Ralph Hays will present devotions, and Glenn Hidy the program.

There were 15 present and two contests were conducted by Mrs. Knisley. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Haines, Mrs. King, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knisley, Mrs. Melvin and Mr. and Mrs. Schlichter.

Bridal shower honors Miss Lewis

A bridal shower honoring Miss Penny Lewis, bride-elect of Charles Howard of Sabina was given recently in the home of Mrs. James Waddle, Snowhill Rd. Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Russel Lanman and Mrs. J.W. Beam.

The evening was spent with the bride-elect opening many pretty and useful gifts. The dining room table was decorated in yellow and purple with a flower-planter arrangement, which was presented to Miss Lewis.

Buckeye Girls' State delegates at Auxiliary meet

The six girls from Fayette County who attended Buckeye Girls State from June 16-24 at Capital University were guest speakers and told of their experiences at the American Legion Auxiliary meeting Wednesday evening. The girls all told that the opportunity to attend Girls' State was a never to be forgotten experience and this chance makes them better citizens.

Girls attending were Cindy Fields, Mary Ann Arnold, Jill Williams, Cherryl Krieger, Kim Fleming and Mary Jo Thorton. They were accompanied by Mrs. Dale Thornton and Mrs. George Arnold.

The meeting was conducted by Mrs. William Williams, and Mrs. Phillip Binzel, Americanism chairman, introduced the Buckeye Girl staters and gave a brief history of Buckeye Girls' State.

Mrs. Phillip Ford announced that to date 100 members have paid 1974 dues. The unit quota is 156 members.

Cookies for the August trip to the VA Hospital, Chillicothe, were provided by Mrs. Rosella Counts, Mrs. Pat Dray, Mrs. Marguerite Jenkins, Mrs. Martha Hoffman and Mrs. Purle Hays. There were 61 patients at the party attended by Mrs. Mary Reser, chairman, Mrs. Margaret Clay and Mrs. Ethel Rhodes.

Miss Verna Williams, chairman, along with Mrs. Rhodes, served 63 patients at the VA Hospital in September. Cookies were brought by Mrs. Darrell Williams, Mrs. Lillie Grabill and Mrs. Ed Warning.

The 7th District Fall Conference will be Oct. 7 at Waverly with Department of Ohio first vice president Mrs. Robert Riley as guest speaker.

A rummage sale will be held at the Legion Hall Oct. 5. The past president's dinner will be Oct. 18 at Anderson's Restaurant. Mrs. Eugene Ladrach gave an account of the American Legion National Convention which she and her husband attended in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Miss Kathy Overly, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marlin Overly, 148 Carolyn Rd., has returned to Cincinnati where she is a junior at the Cincinnati Bible Seminary. Kathy is majoring in piano, voice and music theory. She is a member of one of the college's "1973 Come Alive Camp Quartet" which spent the summer on tour in different Christian Service Camps throughout Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Virginia, North Carolina, Clarence, N.Y.; and New Brunswick. Canada.

Marguerite Class has meeting

Fifteen members and Mrs. Orville Jenkins, teacher, answered roll call for the first fall meeting of the Marguerite Class of First Presbyterian Church, in the home of Mrs. Luke Musser.

Mrs. John Sager Sr., president, conducted the business meeting at which time several projects were discussed. A report was made about last month's philanthropic projects.

Mrs. Frank Dellinger gave devotion using the theme "Awareness of God." She also read two poems. Mrs. Kenneth Craig and Mrs. George Campbell presented reports and the meeting was closed with members forming a circle for the Mizpah Benediction.

Mrs. Musser and Mrs. Kenneth Arnold served a dessert course. Group singing of hymns with Mrs. Musser at the piano took place during the social hour.

Luncheon featured

A carry-in luncheon was held in the Buena Vista Township Hall Wednesday noon. Mrs. Irene Corzatt gave the invocation and Mrs. Harold W. Haines conducted the brief business meeting.

Following roll call answered by items of interest for a bazaar, reports were heard. Projects for the year were discussed and it was announced that calendars and plates will be sold this year, along with the knives project.

Activities reported were 12 flowers sent, 16 cards, 8 calls and 10 donations made.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Living With a Colostomy

My wife has just had a serious operation for the removal of a tumor in her intestines. It was necessary for the surgeon to make a colostomy opening.

Even though she seems to be recovering from the surgery she cannot fully accept the fact that she will have to go through life with this artificial opening for her bowels.

How can we help her?

Mr. B.J., Ky.

Dear Mr. J.:

Surgery for the removal of a tumor of the large intestine has progressed tremendously in the last 30 years.

At one time, these tumors were inaccessible and many lives were sacrificed prematurely.

Now, with antibiotics and refined surgical techniques, it is possible to remove cancerous and benign tumors of the bowel so that people can attain normal longevity.

A colostomy opening is formed in order to make it possible for the bowels to be emptied, even though a portion of the intestine was removed.

Sometimes, a temporary colostomy is made. Later, this is repaired, the colostomy opening is closed, and the normal bowel movements return.

When it is impossible to re-establish the normal path of the intestines, a permanent colostomy opening is necessary.

It is completely understandable that so much anxiety should exist in people who have learned that a permanent colostomy is essential to save their lives.

It is also understandable that it is difficult for your wife to adjust herself to the impact of this experience.

With time and your considerate understanding, she will adjust to the problems of a colostomy opening and she will flourish in the knowledge that her life has been spared.

She will eventually take her normal place in society as a mother and as a loving wife.

Modern colostomy appliances are so near-perfect that no one other than you and her doctor need know anything about the existing condition.

Slowly, your wife's sense of depression will disappear as she draws on her inner reserve and learns to take her rightful place in her home and community.

There are now groups of national and local "colostomy clubs" composed of people who are functioning with colostomy openings and who have conquered the emotional impact of the situation.

Many of these people are dedicating themselves to going to the hospitals and visiting new colostomy patients to demonstrate how free they are from any social embarrassment.

The discomfort of a colostomy will be overwhelmingly compensated by your wife's sustained good health.

How soon after a child is born can club feet be treated?

Mrs. T.M., Vt.

Dear Mrs. M.:

The repositioning of feet is done as early as possible, with plaster casts. The results are excellent.

After X-rays are taken, the severity of the club feet will be determined by the surgeon, who will choose the earliest time for correction.

Contract Bridge

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Hearts. North leads the king of clubs, which you ruff. When you then play the ace of hearts, North discards a spade. How would you play the hand?

	♠ K ♥ K104 ♦ AKQ ♣ J98642
♠ A3 ♥ AQ9532 ♦ 109832 ♣ —		N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the jack of clubs, South following suit. How would you play the hand?

	♠ A62 ♥ 953 ♦ 842 ♣ 7643
♠ Q853 ♥ AK4 ♦ AK9 ♣ AKQ		N W E S

1. To give yourself the best chance, allow for the possibility of either opponent's having four diamonds to the jack. Play the ten of hearts on the ace, cash the king of hearts, king of spades and ace of diamonds, and follow this by finessing the nine of hearts.

Next cash the queen of hearts and ace of spades, discarding the K-Q of diamonds from dummy! Then play the ten of diamonds to force out the jack, and this will be your only loser.

If the diamonds are divided 3-2, this method of play will cost you a trick worth 30 points, but if they are divided 4-1, you will be some 1,000 or 1,500 points richer, depending on vulnerability.

2. Win the club with the queen and cash the ace. If everyone follows suit cash the king, hoping for a 3-3 division that would give you the ninth trick.

If the clubs prove to be divided 4-2 (or 5-1), play a low spade, also playing low from dummy! Win the heart or diamond return and play a low spade to the ace. Assuming nothing of interest occurs, lead a low spade towards the Q-8.

This line of play will make the contract if: 1. the clubs are divided 3-3; 2. either opponent has the singleton king of spades; 3. either opponent has the doubleton king of spades; 4. the spades are divided 3-3; 5. South has any number of spades including the king.

Note that the low spade play from dummy the first time the suit is led covers the case where North has K-x, which you wouldn't know about if you started the suit by playing the ace and another spade. This maneuver greatly enhances your chances of making the contract.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight's premiere episode of "Calucci's Dept." looked great when it was taped here a few weeks ago. The studio audience seemed to enjoy it and so did its cast and crew.

But something vanished between then and the time the CBS Television network accepted the show as the starting entry against NBC's top-rated "Sanford & Son" and ABC's "Brady Bunch."

The opening effort in the new series, which concerns a New York unemployment office inhabited by crazies, drones and clock watchers, seems to go flat on the small screen.

I can't explain why, but the editing may be the villain. The show now drags and sputters along. It's brought alive only occasionally, thanks to an actor named Jose Perez.

Perez, a regular, plays Ramon, a young Puerto Rican staffer who blows his stack one morning after a red-tape squabble over who is supposed to give what forms to whom.

He tosses papers around, screams and storms out of the office forever. His boss, Calucci, played by James Coco, follows him home and tries to persuade him to return to work.

"You're only 22 years away from your pension," he tells the kid, who insists he plans to open a Sno-Cone franchise, be his own boss, become a millionaire and live in a castle above San Juan harbor.

Calucci insists the Civil Service life has merit, too. To which the kid retorts: "You call that living? I call it doo-doo."

"My life," gasps Calucci, "is doo-doo?"

But all ends well and Ramon eventually returns, an unwise move considering the way this show's pace comes across on the TV screen. Perhaps next Friday's effort will improve.

However, another new series premiering on ABC tonight — "Adam's Rib" — is off to a good start with fine editing, directing and acting that saves what otherwise would be a soso script.

The series, based on the 1949 movie with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, is about two lawyers married to each other. They frequently oppose each other in court, then make up afterwards.

She (Blythe Danner) is an idealistic Legal Aid type while he (Ken Howard) is a courtroom-wise assistant district attorney.

Tonight's plot concerns a young girl arrested for "soliciting." Miss Danner attempts to prove in court that in situations of this kind the male rarely, if ever, is arrested and prosecuted.

The dialogue tends to be on the cutesy side, but Miss Danner and Howard do a highly professional job and don't wince. The ending will annoy Women's Lib — he saves her in court — but no matter.

Ohio Perspective

Even solon can't fight City Hall

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Rep. Robert L. Netzley, R-81 Laura, often rages about bureaucracy in government and claims that many highly paid government officials don't know what they are doing.

Netzley, a fuel oil distributor, cites a personal example of how some bureaucrats and their computers work.

In 1968, the City of Trotwood took a Netzley-owned service station for a highway-widening project in condemnation proceedings.

But, every year since then, Netzley has received a bill for taxes on the property, now in the middle of the roadway. Netzley ignored the delinquent notices.

Now he has received a notice from the Montgomery County Prosecuting Attorney's office that if he doesn't pay around $2,000 he'll be taken into court.

Netzley takes it all philosophically. "If a member of government can't get things changed, what chance has the little guy got?"

Gov. John J. Gilligan, at a recent outing he hosted for the Statehouse news corps, came down the steps of the governor's mansion brandishing a hand-crafted Kentucky Rifle at reporters and their guests.

"All right," he said, "now let's have a news conference."

Gilligan really just wanted to show off the museum piece, but a few newsmen reportedly weren't sure the gun was unloaded.

For years, government agencies have urged stream channelization projects to straighten the natural curves of streams and rivers, reducing swampy ground and providing more areas for farming.

Now comes the Ohio Department of Natural Resources announcing a policy to discourage the practice.

Director William B. Nye indicated that enlarging, reshaping and straightening a channel to carry more water may be outdated.

Nye said his department will no longer support or approve such projects unless the local government has enacted flood plan regulations complying with department criteria.

Nye said many of the projects may result in unnecessary enforcemental damages.

"The basic solution to the flood problems," he said, "lies in a combination of prudent land use and flood insurance, not in ever increasing public expenditures for governmental flood control projects such as channel modification, levees and reservoirs."

Farm Bureau names personnel, acts on 32 resolutions

Three new trustees were announced, a youth director and a woman director were elected, delegates and alternates were named to the 1974 state convention and 32 resolutions and one question were voted on at the annual meeting of the Fayette County Farm Bureau Thursday night.

The approximately 125 of nearly 700 members at the session, following dinner in the Mahan Building, heard Henry Shriver tell them that "members make the difference."

In his talk which was laced with humor, wisdom and pungent phrases, he said "the staff sets the pace but the members run the race" and "the board has the expertise but the members furnish the elbow grease."

He declared that one of the most important functions of the Farm Bureau is in the field of legislation, noting that "there are those who lift and those who lead."

THE THREE NEW trustees, who were elected in a mail vote by the Farm Bureau members of the townships in which they live, are: Green Twp., Hugh Wilson, succeeding John Leland; Concord Twp., Martin Smith, succeeding Allen Myers; and Jasper Twp., James Paisley, succeeding Philip Miller.

The woman member elected at large is Mrs. Dwight Duff and the youth director at large is Ronald Burke.

Farm Bureau President Richard Davidson and his successor-to-be, Wayne Hidy, were chosen as delegates to the 1974 state Farm Bureau convention. The alternates named are Richard Carson and Mrs. Allen Myers.

In voting on the resolutions, which will be sent to State Farm Bureau headquarters to be compiled with those of other county Farm Bureaus as the state Farm Bureau policy, the Fayette Countians expressed concern over potential drainage, sewer and sanitary problems at rural housing developments and subdivisions.

They approved, 75 to 3, a resolution to encourage the Rural Planning Commission, City Planning Commission and Board of County Commissioners to enforce the existing regulations on rural housing developments, especially those pertaining to drainage and sanitation. And they voted 75 to 1 to request the Board of County Commissioners and Rural Planning Commission to upgrade regulations on subdivisions in the field of drainage and sewers.

IN OTHER resolutions, they voted:

To encourage (75 to 1) county and township officials to use appropriated funds for improvement of rural roads and bridges;

To support (78-0) Issue 1 to permit valuation of agricultural land for taxation in accordance with agricultural use;

To support (71-2) enforcement of state laws for weed control on state and public utility lands, because noxious weeds spread to privately owned land by means of wind-blown seeds;

To commend (74-2) the sheriff "for a job well done";

To continue (75-0) emphasis on rural safety on and off the farm;

To eliminate (73-0) eliminate highway hazards caused by weeds, brush etc., which create blind sports by methods suggested at a meeting of Farm Bureau committee, county engineer and state highway officials;

TO COMMEND (73-1) the Chamber of Commerce for its interest in and support of Fayette County Agriculture;

To support (77-0) the Area Chamber of Commerce in its quest for additional physicians;

To develop (76-1) a system of dead stock removal which would guarantee the hauler a profit;

To continue (77-0) a study of emergency squad service.

THE RESOLUTIONS were all adopted almost unanimously, but the question "Are you in favor of a bond issue for construction of the junior high school (in the Miami Trace District) was approved by only 35 to 24.

In voting on resolutions pertaining to state policies, the group approved a percentage checkoff which protects farmers against bankruptcy of grain elevators; research for ways to control crop-damaging birds; mandatory Workman's Compensation on all farm employes and a Farm Bureau consultant service; Department of Natural Resources recommendations for watershed projects; reporting of violations by welfare recipients. However, they opposed Environmental Protection Agency regulations being made without agricultural background.

The group also expressed opposition (68-2) to the ban on agricultural exports and a return to a policy of "building and improving agricultural export markets."

County shares in state funds

Fayette County received $6,306.57 as its share of Local Government Fund money distributed for September to Ohio's 88 counties, and to 318 cities and villages having local income taxes, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The September distribution was $805,000 higher than that of August.

Thus far in 1973, the counties, and cities and villages having income taxes, have received a total of $41,926,224.72 in Local Government Fund money. The money is derived from taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of personal, corporation and sales taxes during the preceding month.

Three men indicted in vendor tampering

The Fayette County September term grand jury returned indictments Thursday afternoon against three persons charged with tampering with a coin-operated machine.

John T. Horn, 19, of Dayton, Michael L. Blanchard, 20, of Brookville, and David K. Burdett, 19, of Dayton, were indicted on two felony counts and one misdemeanor count each in connection with the June 20 entry into a soft drink machine at Yeoman's Gulf station, U.S. 35 and Interstate 71.

Each man was charged with tampering with a coin-operated machine and possession of burglary tools, both felonies, as well as stealing coins from the machine which, due to the small amount taken, is classed as a misdemeanor.

Members of the jury were Jean West, foreman; Carl A. Snyder, Freda D. Shaw, Diana L. Kirkpatrick, Larry M. McConkey, Myrtle Troute, Frances Butcher, Mary M. Wood and William Rittenhouse.

The defendants will be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Evelyn W. Coffman at a later date.

50-year Mason receives award at lodge meet

A 50-year membership pin and certificate of merit were presented to William Markley at the regular meeting of Fayette Lodge of Masons No. 107 Wednesday night by Virgil E. Lowe, a past district deputy grand master of Ohio on behlaf of the Grand Lodge of Ohio and Fayette Lodge.

Lester Bower, master of Fayette Lodge, welcomed Markley and presented him to Lowe for the honors award.

The 50-year awards are granted by the Grand Ldoge of Ohio in recognition of half a century of continuous memebership in a Masonic Lodge.

Markley, who spends much of the year at his home in Flordia, was unable to present last spring when other 50-year awards were made. His son, Donald, was among those who witnessed the ceremony here Wednesday night.

MIGHTY NICE CATCH! — Mrs. Helen Warfield, 920 E. Temple St., caught this 8¼-pound walleye on a Tom's Walleye Lure on Kelleys Island Shoal. The fish was 27½ inches long and had a girth of 16¼ inches.

6 special shoots planned for sportsmen event

Visitors at the National Hunting-Fishing Day celebration, to be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish and Game Association Saturday, Sept. 22, will be treated to six special shooting exhibitions.

Two police combat pistol shooting, two trap shooting and two muzzle loader shooting exhibitions will be given by the members of the Fish and Game Association starting at 9 a.m.

In addition to the shooting exhibitions, a coon dog field trial and several tomahawk throwing demonstrations will be featured on the activity-filled program.

The public is invited to attend.

Gun found in traffic check

Three youths charged with possessing drug

Three boys were arrested for possession of marijuana, two in connection with a bicycle theft, and one man was arrested for driving while intoxicated and carrying a concealed weapon during a busy night for local law enforcement agencies.

Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise checked out a car parked on Hidy Road near the Interstate 71 overpass about 7 p.m. and found a bag of "green vegetation" on the floorboard. Randy E. Harris, 18, Xenia, and two juveniles from Jeffersonville who were in and around the car were charged with posession of marijuana. The Jeffersonville youths are 15 and 16 years old.

At about the same time, Patrolman William Robinson of the Washington Police was on routine patrol when he saw two boys "sanding" a bicycle in a lot on Peabody Avenue. As the cruiser approached, the boys fled.

The bicycle was identified by George Jones, 914 Pearl St., as one he had reported stolen Wednesday night, and a resident near the scene gave the police a description of the boys. They were arrested a short time later and charged with bicycle larceny and removing parts. One of the boys, 15, is from Xenia; the other 16, lives in Washington C.H.

Police Officer Larry Hott was patroling at 1:30 a.m. Friday when he saw a car whose driver seemed to be having trouble staying on the roadway. He stopped the vehicle and the driver, Fred Martin, 54, of 723 Gregg St., got out. When patrolman Hott approached the vehicle, the driver got back into the auto and opened the glove compartment which contained a .22 caliber pistol which later was found to have been loaded.

Hott pulled Martin away from the passenger side and arrested him. He was charged with failure to drive on the right side of the roadway, driving while intoxicated and carrying a concealed weapon.

Other incident reports to police Thursday were from Jay Phillips who said he was driving on Columbus Avenue when his windshield was cracked by an object apparently thrown from another car, and Ida Moore, 67, of 522 Warren Ave., who had to be taken to the hospital when she fell in her home. She received leg injuries which were not serious.

Nuclear testing comes to end

PARIS (AP) — The French government announced today that its 1973 nuclear weapon tests in the South Pacific have ended.

The announcement came in the form of a notice in the official journal cancelling the warning to maritime traffic to steer clear of an area 60 miles around the Mururoa Atoll, the French nuclear testing site. In the absence of any other official announcement, the notice was a signal that the tests were completed for the year.

The test series this year generated an even larger volume of protests, particularly in Australia and New Zealand, both of which have Labor governments for the first time in years.

Genealogical workshop set for Saturday

The Ohio Genealogical Society will hold a workshop meeting on Saturday at Scot's Inn, Springfield on Ohio Rt. 72, off I-70.

The mornings activities will begin with registration and a coffee hour at 9:00 a.m. The meeting will convene at 10 a.m. with a short report to be given by Mrs. Frank Henney concerning the Cemetery Checklist project.

Mrs. Esther Powell will discuss formation of chapters of the OGS.

The morning session will conclude with a discussion of the land surveys in Southwestern Ohio, by Don Bowman, who is a civil engineer and an active genealogist within the Brethren Church. There will be ample time for questions and answers following each speaker, and various books, maps, and other materials will be on display at tables in the meeting room.

The meeting will break at noon for lunch, and the various groups interested in forming local chapters of the OGS in the various counties will have an opportunity to be seated together for this purpose.

The formal meeting will resume at 1:30 and will consist of a panel to include Anita Short, editor of "Ohio, Gateway to the West," George Robinson, Washington C.H., president of the South Central Ohio Genealogical Society, Joseph McDowell, librarian of the Genealogical Dept. of Cincinnati and Hamilton County Library, and Mary Miller, retired librarian of the Warder Public Library of Springfield.

These speakers will discuss sources and special problems in research in Southwestern Ohio, which was settled very early in the history of Ohio, included so many who had served in the Revolutionary War, and helped open the Ohio country after the Revolution was over.

This workshop is open to the public.

Alabama apple growers will harvest about the same volume of apples this year that they did in 1972.

'Grave rubbers' haunt cemeteries, taking impressions of epitaphs

FINE examples of the early stonecutter's art can be found in the old cemeteries of the New England states.

TO MAKE a rubbing, tightly tape rice paper over the stone, then rub a crayon or wax stick over the paper.

THESE rubbings were made in an old cemetery near Cuba in Allegany County, New York, by a couple of expert hobbyists.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

COUNTLESS hobby happy Americans are onto something new. They call themselves grave rubbers because that's the name of their game. What they do is gather impressions of the carvings chiseled on old grave stones. It is an artistic pursuit, one that doesn't call for expensive equipment. The carvings are transferred onto rice paper by rubbing the paper, taped flush over the carving, with wax, crayon or graphite. It's as simple as that.

Grave rubbings not only reproduce elaborate designs but unusual inscriptions, such as this one found in the Charter Street Burying Ground, Salem, Mass. It describes what happened to Nathaniel Richardson at age 54 in 1796: "His death was instant from the pressure of a building he was assisting to remove."

Rubbers consider an inscription that's unintentionally humorous a great find, too. In this category, here's one found on a stone in Burlington, Vt.: "She lived with her husband fifty years and died in the confident hope of a better life.

According to Frank E. Foster, Executive Vice President of the American Monument Association, the best place for grave rubbers to hunt unusual stones is New England. Massachusetts has thousands that pre-date 1820. New York City's Trinity Churchyard in the heart of the financial district is, surprisingly, another good source with more than 1,000 stones, including some dating back as far as 1681.

"The best place to look," advises Mr. Foster, "is in a graveyard adjacent to an old church."

Cold air dips deep into Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air dipped deep into the central Plains today, dropping temperatures to the 50s as far south as the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Widely scattered rain or snow showers were forecast in the mountains of Montana, where temperatures fell into the 30s during the night.

Locally heavy rains plagued the rain-soaked Gulf region from southern Texas to southern Florida. Rains measured almost 4 inches along the Colorado River in southeast Texas and flash-flooding occurred north of Biloxi, Miss.

Tornadoes were sighted Thursday afternoon northwest of LaFayette, La., and near Bastrop, Tex. Some damage to mobile homes occurred at Bastrop, but no personal injuries were reported.

Widespread rain fell from the Ohio Valley to coastal areas of Virginia and the Carolinas. Both Charleston, S.C., and Charlotte, N.C., soaked up over an inch of rain overnight.

Thundershowers also broke out over Oregon and southern Idaho.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 35 at Cut Bank, Mont., to 89 at Needles, Calif.

Train kills driver

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Fifty-two-year-old Lawrence Zappala of Solon was killed Thursday night in a car-train wreck at an Erie Lackawanna railroad crossing in Portage County. Zappala was in a car which was hit by a 23-car freight at a crossing just south of Ohio 82.

Income tax questions, answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My state has a lottery. If I should win one of the cash prizes, do I have to pay federal income tax on it?

A. Yes, proceeds from lotteries are gambling winnings and must be included in your income. However, if you itemize your deductions, you can deduct your gambling losses, such as the cost of losing lottery tickets, from your total gambling winnings, up to the extent of your winnings.

If you have no winnings, you can't deduct your gambling losses.

If you should win a valuable prize in a lottery, it might be to your advantage to "income average." This permits an unusually large amount of income obtained in one year to be taxed in the lower brackets of your previous tax years.

More details are available in IRS Publication 506, "Computing Your Tax Under the Income Averaging Method." Write your nearest IRS office for a free copy.

Q. The local police boys club is sponsoring a benefit showing of a movie. Tickets are $10. Can I deduct the ticket price as a charitable contribution?

A. A portion of the ticket price is deducible, namely, that portion that exceeds the fair market value of the showing.

For example, if the regular price of the movie is $3, your deduction would be $7.

Q. I understand that the IRS winds up with thousands of undelivered refunds each year. How can this happen?

A. The great majority of refund checks go astray because taxpayers moved and left no forwarding address with the Postal Service. Still other taxpayers neglected to correct the label attached to their tax return.

Thic includes, for example, changing a label to show a new address or naming resulting from marriage.

Errors or omissions in tax returns have delayed refunds to some taxpayers. They should follow the instructions provided with the notification they received from the IRS to help speed their refund.

Taxpayers contacting the IRS about their refund should be able to give the name and address as it appeared on the return, the present name and address, Social Security number and the type of form filed.

Often, IRS employees can find out almost immediately what happened to a refund check through a computer system available in many IRS offices. The system indicates, for example, when the Postal Service has returned a check.

Undelivered refund checks can be mailed almost immediately to the new address. After Oct. 1, however, all undelivered refund checks are cancelled. Issuing checks in response to inquirisies received after that date take considerably more time because special processing is required.

As for refund checks lost or stolen in transit, those who have information on these checks should contact their nearest Internal Revenue Office immediately.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Stellar influences on the mild side. You are just about on your own to decide, act, work out new tactics, but don't waste time on nonessentials.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Heed the other person all the way through; do not anticipate his final sentence or "jump the gun" in answering. You could miss the point, make errors if not on guard.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

If efforts are not as productive as they might be, think things out carefullly. There may be a simple answer, only a small change needed — a "glamor touch," perhaps.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Keep on your own course. Fend off the skeptics and the worry birds. Don't make changes just because someone suggests them. Have a logical reason. REASON.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You can take a breather now, especially if your week was briskly paced. It is wise to call a halt or set a different tempo when it won't interfere with progress.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A sense of responsibility and pluck will be needed now. Situations may not work out as expected. Don't panic; step cautiously, knowingly.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A system may have to be revised to include a seemingly odd procedure or certain new rules. Don't be dismayed. Things should all work out for the best.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Personal relationships in excellent favor. Social or business get-togethers resultful. You should have a good day.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A good day for cementing old friendships, making new contacts, reaching understandings and planning moves for next week.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Be careful about your judgements and emotional reactions. Dubious ventures may be proposed. Control enthusiasm. Do nothing without careful thought.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Many new interests indicated. Be ready to grasp every worthwhile cue and lead. The things you do on this day will influence your tomorrows.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Watch out for intrigue, dubious involvements. Shun hassles over procedure. Observe and, when sure, act with maximal discretion.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly energetic, always optimistic, ambitious and far more self-confident than many others of your Sign. Your trustworthiness is another of your notable qualities and your guardianship of others will always be carried out to the point of perfection. In fact, in all things you are a perfectionist at heart and may drive yourself — and others — too hard at times. You are quite a philosopher and would make an excellent counselor or teacher if you can curb that trait of being too exacting with those under your supervision. Other fields in which you could excel: medicine, the law, diplomacy, statesmanship, literature or music.

Paper mill strike talks to resume

MONTREAL (AP) — Negotiators for striking paper mill workers and the Canadian International Paper Co. will resume talks in Montreal Friday in an effort to settle the strike that has closed five of the company's mills in eastern Canada for more than a month.

J. P. Gallie of the United Papermakers International Union said a Quebec government mediator initiated the resumption of the contract talks, which broke off early in August just before about 7,500 workers went on strike at five of the company's mills in eastern Canada.

Gallie said the union would insist on the same terms agreed to last week by the Abitibi Paper Co. That agreement provides for pay increases of 8.5 per cent in each year of a two-year contract.

Abitibi's 4,500 unionized workmen are voting on the new contract, and first returns indicate it will be accepted by a large margin. But workers at the company's mill in Iroquois Falls, Ont., struck Saturday because of conditions at their plant, including scheduling of personnel, timing of shifts and the number of men assigned to a work crew.

Union leaders and company officials were meeting in Iroquois Falls trying to resolve the dispute.

Abitibi's other mills were not struck.

Form college 'Common Market'

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota and Wisconsin are operating a "common market" for college education.

For the price of in-state tuition, a student in either state can have his pick of public colleges and universities in the two states.

So far, about 3,000 students have taken advantage of the program, which was approved by the two states' legislatures last spring.

Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota believes the idea will spread.

"I would hope for starters we could extend it to North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa," Anderson said in an interview.

There have been limited reciprocity plans between states but the Minnesota-Wisconsin arrangement is apparently the first nonrestricted agreement. Wisconsin had previously accepted Minnesota students only up to the number of its residents who went to Minnesota.

The new plan sets no limit on the numbers who can cross the border to go to school.

Thus far, the student movement has been mostly from Minnesota to Wisconsin. More than 1,800 Minnesota students have signed up at Wisconsin universities. More than 900 Wisconsonites have headed west to Minnesota.

The cash saving for students is significant.

A Minnesota student attending the University of Wisconsin would have paid $1,906 under the old nonresident rate. Now he gets by for $558, the same as a Wisconsin resident.

At the University of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Minnesota residents have a base tuition in liberal arts of $930 for three quarters. Others pay $1,476.

With the college boom over, both states had empty dormitory rooms. The cross-border influx won't take up all the slack but officials call the new students a welcome addition.

The arrangement called a "common market" stemmed from an agreement between Anderson and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin. It was tossed into the laps of educators as an accomplished fact.

It all started last January when Anderson asked for repeal of a tax law that allowed Wisconsin residents to file tax returns only in their home state, even though they earned a taxable income in Minnesota.

Lucey wanted to keep tax reciprocity, since it helped Wisconsin tax coffers and made life easier for several thousand border residents who worked in Minnesota. Without reciprocity, they'd have had to file two tax returns, crediting one against the other in a complicated process.

Anderson says agreement came in a brief conversation with Lucey at a conference of governors. The key at the time was the availability of slots for Wisconin youth in Minnesota's school of veterinary medicine.

"I said to Pat, 'Why don't we continue reciprocity. You give us educational reciprocity and we'll each send a check to make up the difference.' He came back and said, 'Yes, that sounds fine, but you give us some assurance on veterinary medicine.'"

Out of that conversation came a two-pronged contract. One part is a tax-where-you live plan that lets border-crossing workers pay only in their home state. The other half opens up the border for college students, eliminating nonresident tuition.

Students can pick and choose among state universities, state colleges, state junior colleges and vocational-technical schools. No private schools are involved, however.

After each year of operation, the two states will strike a balance, with each state paying the other for loss of nonresident tuition and Wisconsin paying Minnesota for not taxing Wisconsin incomes earned in Minnesota.

The experiment has sparked the interest of other governors, Anderson said.

"They want to know how we brought it about; the answer is we simply didn't deal with educators," Anderson says.

He isn't antieducation but says he and other governors feel that educators sometimes move too slowly.

As for the educators, Donald Smith, senior vice president at the University of Wisconsin, sees the program spreading to the entire Midwest.

"It makes a great deal of sense for the states to cut through the jungle of tuition and establish a common market for students across state borders," he said.

Tele-care program valuable in helping elderly citizens

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Every day, three volunteers of Herrick Memorial Hospital's Tele-Care service use telephones to bring a friendly voice to unattended elderly persons in the San Francisco Bay area — and sometimes save their lives.

"We get very attached to them, although we never see them," says Tele-Care chairman Barbara Boscovich.

Each day, a different trio of callers makes the rounds among the aged, whom they call Tele-Pets, exchanging friendly banter and making sure they're all right.

"It's amazing the number of people who don't receive calls at all," she says. "Ours might be the only call they receive in a week. "The Tele-Pets build up a closeness with the lady who calls on Monday or the lady that calls on Tuesday. It forms a regular pattern in their lives."

If no one answers, an alternate — a relative, neighbor or building manager — is called and asked to check on the person.

"We have about 40 to 50 real emergencies a year — usually when someone falls," Mrs. Boscovich said.

She recalled one Tele-Pet in San Leandro who didn't answer her phone. The volunteer called the alternate, this time the police, who found the woman in a diabetic coma. She received life-saving treatment in time.

"If elderly people can't provide at least one alternate, we have to turn them away. It's the only way we have of checking on them," Mrs. Boscovich said.

The volunteers, about 30 mostly middle-aged housewives and retired women, make morning calls seven days a week. All are members of Herrick's Volunteer Guild, which started Tele-Care in 1970.

The world's most prolific writer was Frank Richard, who wrote comics. He is credited with a lifetime output of at least 72 million words.

MT game route

Fans attending the Miami Trace-Columbus Bexley football game Friday night are advised of the following route by athletic director Delmar Mowery.

Mowery said fans should follow I-71 north to Mound St. Follow Mound St. to I-70 and travel east to the Capital University exit. From the exit, travel east on Main St. to Cassingham Road. Turn left onto Cassingham Road to Bexley High School.

Miami Trace fans will be seated on the east side of the field and parking on that side of the field will be available. The Panther fans can also be admitted on the east side.

In tonight's action

Lions host Cavs; MT visits Bexley

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The seven South Central Ohio League football teams will continue to prepare for the 46th championship sweepstakes tonight by playing some rugged non-league competition.

In action involving Fayette County's teams, Washington C.H. will entertain Chillicothe and Miami Trace travels to Columbus Bexley.

The SCOL teams didn't fare so well in last Friday night's season openers as they posted a mediocre 3-4 record. The league teams had a lowly 13-15-1 record against non-league teams a year ago.

QUITE ironically, three of the four teams that absorbed setbacks in last week's openers were blanked. Greenfield McClain was the only losing team that managed to dent the scoreboard.

SCOL favorite Washington C.H., Circleville and Miami Trace all emerged with victories in last week's outings.

Contrary to last week when six of the seven teams were making their season debuts before partisan audiences, four of the league members will be on the road tonight.

Washington C.H. will be looking for its second straight win when an improved Chillicothe team invades Gardner Park Stadium at 8 p.m. tonight.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer's Blue Lions flashed a strong defense in sashaying to a lopsided 21-0 win over Columbus Bishop Ready last week, but the Washington C.H. defenders will be in for more of a stern test tonight as Chillicothe features an offensive attack geared around fleet-footed Stacy Hitchens and powerful fullback James Gause.

Although the Washington C.H.-Chillicothe game always seems to be a classic struggle, the Cavaliers have beaten the Lions only once in the past eight meetings.

Miami Trace presented new head coach Fred Zechman with a slender 14-13 win over Springfield Northeastern last Friday, but the Panthers face a rugged chore tonight when they visit always-tough Columbus Bexley.

DAN O'BRIEN, who inaugurated Miami Trace's football program as the school's first head coach 13 years ago, is Bexley's mentor and will probably have a trick or two up his sleeve when the two teams buck headgear at 8 p.m. tonight on the Lion gridiron.

Several familiar faces will be along Bexley's sideline. Besides O'Brien, Michale Jenks, a Miami Trace product, is the Bexley band director; Jim Tatman, a former Washington gridder, is on O'Brien's coaching staff, and Gene Millard, a former Washington C.H. head basketball coach, is Bexley's cage mentor.

Elsewhere in tonight's action, Circleville will be traveling to Teays Valley for the renewal of the annual Pickaway County rivalry, Wilmington visits Clinton Massie for another intra-county struggle, Greenfield pays a visit to Springfield Shawnee, Hillsboro entertains Unioto and Madison Plains hosts Westfall.

Pittsburgh, Oakland to challenge Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — What will the Miami Dolphins do for an encore?

Or does their preseason performance presage disaster?

The answer to the first question is: The Dolphins should represent the American Conference in the the National Football League's Super Bowl next January.

With that answer, it's not even necessary to consider question No. 2.

The only teams on the horizon that should challenge the Dolphins are the Pittsburgh Steelers and Oakland Raiders— but the Dolphins don't have to worry too much about them until the playoffs.

Coach Don Shula's Dolphins will feature some Griese kid stuff that will make opposing defenses hair stand on end. The Dolphins' Mercury will rise and if that isn't enough, the offense will also have its Kiicks.

Which is only to say that quarterback Bob Griese, plus a running tandem featuring Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris, as well as Larry Csonka, should propel the Dolphins right back into the Super Bowl.

Will they become the first team since the Green Bay Packers to win successive Super Bowls?

Let's get the season over first and then worry about that.

Here's the way this peerless pigskin prognosticator sees the outcome of the races in the AFC this fall, by division:

EAST
Miami Dolphins
New York Jets
Buffalo Bills
Baltimore Colts
New England Patriots

Not only do the Dolphins have Griese, Kiick, Morris and Csonka, they also have a top defensive unit which includes Jake Scott and Nick Buonoconti. 'Nuff said.

The New York Jets will give Weeb Ewbank a winning season for his last year as a coach, perhaps good enough for a wild-card spot in the playoffs. A healthy Joe Namath is always dangerous. But the Jets don't appear to have bolstered their pass defense enough to keep their opponents from scoring too many points.

CENTRAL
Pittsburgh Steelers
Cleveland Browns
Cincinnati Bengals
Houston Oilers

The Pittsburgh Steelers won their first title in NFL history a year ago. It took nearly four decades.

Quarterback Terry Bradshaw has another year of seasoning under his belt for the 1973 campaign and it won't take another 40 years for the Steelers to win a second championship.

The knee injury suffered by running back Franco Harris in the exhibition season doesn't dim the Pittsburgh prospects any. Harris should be at full speed before long. Until then the Steelers can count on fine running from John (Frenchy) Fuqua and Preston Pearson.

Mean Joe Greene leads a Pittsburgh defense that likes to rap the defense. And the Steeler defense uses the old-fashioned meaning of the word—that is, to hit, hit, hit. They might rap with the opponents after the game is over.

Coach Nick Skorich should have no problem prodding the Cleveland Browns into the runnerup role in the AFC Central. The Browns, as always, have a fine running attack with Leroy Kelly figuring to gain much of the yardage. The defense is adequate.

WEST
Oakland Raiders
Denver Broncos
Kansas City Chiefs
San Diego Chargers

If the Oakland Raiders can't put it altogether with Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler alternating at quarterback and Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch catching the ball, plus Bubba Smith and company on defense, they can always call on George Blanda, who will be 46 next Monday, to kick the winning field goal in the waning seconds.

The Raiders are a solid and sound football team.

Coach John Ralston's second year at Denver should produce the first over .500 season in the Broncos' history. Floyd Little appears to have recovered from his 1972 injuries and Charley Johnson has matured as a quarterback.

'Jelled' Bucs jam East pennant chase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now, about that National League East championship race. Well, you just knew that sooner or later, somebody would start winning and now that they're breathing the rarified air one full game over .500, the Pittsburgh Pirates are talking like winners.

"We're jelling at last," said slugger Willie Stargell, who doubled home two runs and scored another in the first inning Thursday, helping the Pirates to a 6-1 decision over Chicago. "We're making the big plays and getting the big hits. I think we're as prepared as ever to go down the stretch."

Pittsburgh's victory gave thr Pirates a one-game edge over idle St. Louis and 1½ games over Montreal, which also had the night off. The fourth place New York Mets remained 2½ games behind, beating Philadelphia 4-2 in 12 innings.

Elsewhere in the NL Thursday night, Los Angeles downed Houston 8-6 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 8-6. The other teams had the night off.

The Cubs, who dropped four games off Pittsburgh's pace, contributed three errors to the Pirate cause, the first one by Don Kessinger setting the stage for Stargell's two-run double in the first inning. Those three quick runs were plenty for Bob Moose, who got late relief help from Ramon Hernandez.

Mets 4, Phillies 2

Wayne Garrett, batting for winning pitcher Tom Seaver, looped the tie-breaking single in the 12th as New York again found runs tough to come by for Seaver, 17-9. He has lost three 1-0 games and had just one run to work with in three of his last four starts before Thursday.

Does the lack of an offense bug him ? Not Tom Seaver.

"I've been with the Mets seven years and I still appear pretty sane," he said. "I seem to have no mental problems. I never beat my wife. My roommate still likes me."

Dodgers 8, Astros 6

Ron Cey ripped a two-run homer and Dave Lopes added a two-run double, leading Los Angeles to an 8-6 victory over Houston,

The Astros were leading 3-2 in the fourth when Dodger starter Tommy John drew a bases-loaded walk from Dave Roberts, forcing home the tying run. Lopes then followed with his double. Cey tagged his homer an inning later.

Giants 8, Padres 6

Chris Speier's ninth inning home run tied the score and then rookie Steve Ontiveros delivered a two-run pinch homer, lifting San Francisco to an 8-6 victory over San Diego.

Gene Locklear's pinch single had driven in two Padre runs for a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the eighth.

Cincy, Xavier renew rivalry on gridiron

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Another chapter in the coach vs. pupil stories unfolds Saturday when Cincinnati and Xavier renew their crosstown college football rivalry.

Tony Mason, Cincinnati's new coach, tutored Tom Cecchini when the rookie Xavier mentor was a Michigan performer in the mid-1960s.

Mason said he only coached Cecchini and the offensive line one year but recalled, "Tom still came to me for advice after I switched to the defense. He was a good one."

It's the opener for the Bearcats while Xavier, a 19-7 upset winner over Cincinnati last year, started with a 49-7 drubbing from Temple last week.

The contest is one of 23 on the Ohio college schedule Saturday, including third-ranked Ohio State's debut at home against Minnesota.

Mid-American and Ohio Conference members are busy with non-league tuneups while there are a pair of conference tests each in the Hoosier-Buckeye and Presidents Conference.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye, Findlay travels to Earlham and Bluffton entertains Taylor in a night game. Bethany is at Case Western Reserve and John Carroll at Washington and Jefferson in the Presidents race.

Among Ohio's major schools, Bowling Green is at Syracuse, Louisville at 1972 Mid-American champion Kent State, Dayton at Miami and Toledo at Tampa, a night game. Ohio University launches its season next week.

Heidelberg and Ashland, the only unbeaten and united Ohio schools in 1972, try to prolong winning streaks.

SABINA — A Class B slo-pitch softball tournament, sponsored by the Sabina Moose Lodge, will be held Sept. 21-22-23 at Sabina.

The drawing for the tourney will be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 19 at the lodge and interested teams can call 513-584-2023 for further information.

Pony preview set Saturday

Nearly three weeks of pre-season practice will end for the five teams in the Washington C.H. Pony Football League Saturday night.

The Pony Football League's annual preview games will be held starting at 6 p.m. Saturday at Gardner Park Stadium.

The league's regular season schedule will be launched Saturday, Sept. 22 with two games, the first beginning at 6 p.m. to be followed by a 7:30 p.m. nightcap.

The Interns, coached by Dwight Brown, are the defending champions. Other teams and their coaches are Jaycees, Wes Wilson; Dividends, Fred Domenico; Frisch's Big Boys, Jim Eddlemon, and Marksmen, Jim Runnels.

Souvenir seekers in Reds outfield seats

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Souvenir seekers, in hopes of catching Henry Aaron home run balls, have been besieging the Cincinnati Reds for outfield seats for a month.

Aaron, with 710 home runs, four less than the career total of Babe Ruth, and the Atlanta Braves, open a three-game series here tonight.

Aaron has collected 95 of his four-baggers off Cincinnati and seven off Don Gullett, 17-8 who sets his eight-straight victory record on the line tonight.

Bengals to handle time differences

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Coach Paul Brown said he can handle the problems of time difference and elevation when his Cincinnati Bengals meet the Broncos at Denver Sunday in a National Football League game.

Brown said he keeps the players on Eastern Standard Time "when we go west. That keeps us okay. It's been successful in the past. And the players get an extra two hours sleep."

Tom Weiskopf joins Kings Island Open

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Add Tom Weiskopf to the field of 144 players who will compete in the $125,000 Ohio Kings Island Open, a new Professional Golfers Association tour stop this year.

Unheraled Stanford to meet Penn State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There'll be a couple of unknowns, like the Stanford team and Penn State's defense, when the Nittany Lions travel west to meet the Cardinals. But since the game is Saturday's nationally televised college football contest, those factors won't be unknown for long.

The clash, pitting the Nittany Lions, ranked seventh in The Associated Press poll, against an unheralded but potentially dangerous Stanford squad, is one of the headline games in the first full week of college football activity.

A Stanford Stadium crowd of 50,000 is expected for the 3:50 p.m., EDT, contest, the firstever meeting between the two schools. The game wil be seen on the American Broadcasting Co. network.

Other games involving Top Ten teams find No. 1 Southern Cal hosting Arkansas, thirdranked Ohio State entertaining Minnesota, No. 5 Michigan at Iowa, California at No. 6 Alabama, No. 9 Tennessee awaiting Duke and No. 10 Colorado playing at 16th-ranked LSU.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Oklahoma is at Baylor, Oregon State visits 12th-ranked Auburn, No. 13 Arizona State at Oregon, Kansas State at No. 14 Florida, Virginia at 17th-ranked North Carolina State, Rice at No. 18 Houston, William & Mary traveling to No. 19 North Carolina and No. 20 Texas Tech playing host to Utah.

Idle this week are No. 2 Nebraska, No. 4 Texas, eight ranked Notre Dame and No. 16 UCLA.

Stanford, led by quarterback Mike Boryla, employs multiple offensive sets run from both the I and T formations. Boryla, a senior, is expected to come out throwing against Penn State and throwing long, since last year he totaled 2,284 yards— fourth in the nation—through the air lanes.

The Lions offense features five returning starters in an offensive line that opened enough holes last year for John Capalletti to rush for 1,117 yards as a junior. However, Joe Paterno has only four starters back on defense.

Dale joins Vikings for pro grid season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you're a veteran wide receiver in the National Football League, it's hard to abandon the excitement of gridiron combat.

That's why Carroll Dale is happy.

The Minnesota Vikings claimed Dale Thursday, the day after he was placed on waivers by the Green Bay Packers and the 35-year-old player will be in uniform against Oakland when the regular season begins Sunday.

"I hate to leave Green Bay and the Green Bay fans," Dale said. "But in the game of football this is the way things happen sometimes. I'm looking foward to the new challenge and the opportunity to contribute to the team."

Packer Coach Dan Devine had offered Dale a post as a special assistant involving both coaching and scouting as well as administrative work. Dale said if he hadn't been picked up by another team he probably would have accepted the special assistant job.

Dale, one of the few remaining members of the Vince Lombardi-coached Packer dynasty, caught three passes for 25 yards and one touchdown in six preseason games. The 6-foot-3, 200-pounder has caught 415 passes for 8,079 yards and 52 touchdowns in his 14-year professional career.

Running back John Riggins ended his lengthy holdout with the New York Jets and is expected to play in Monday night's game against Green Bay after signing a new contract.

Exact details were not revealed but it was believed Riggins agreed to a two-year pact worth $50,000 a year. He had been seeking $125,000 a year.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks, implementing every strategy possible to strengthen the New England Patriots in his first year as coach, made several roster moves in secret in preparation for Sunday's contest with Buffalo. Fairbanks announced a 40-man roster, but refused to list those cut or placed on waivers.

Blancas 1st in Heritage golf round

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The touring pros say you have to hit it straight and sweet and pure on the Harbour Town Golf Links. Get it a little off line, they say, and you're dead.

"It's the greatest course—for a professional—I've ever seen anywhere as long as I've been playing golf," said globe-trotting little Gary Player of South Africa.

But Homero Blancas conquered it with a 66, five under par, for the first-round lead Thursday in the rain-plagued and darkness-halted $150,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

And the happy hombre from Houston did it in a fashion no one through possible.

He bounced it off the trunks of moss-hung old cypress trees. He put it in traps. He wandered through the alligator-infested swamps and sloughs. He rattled it around in the branches of giant oaks and pines. He got lucky bounces off pine cones.

And he needed only 23 putts in the wet and soggy adventure that left him with a one-stroke lead over John Mahaffey and big Jimmy Wiechers, tied at 67. For Wiechers, who has threatened consistently in recent weeks, it was his fourth consecutive round without a bogey.

Female team joins men's league

Women's lib hits bowlers

It appears that the women's liberation movement has suddenly hit Washington C.H.

For the first time in Washington C.H. bowling history, a women's team has entered a men's bowling league at Bowland Lanes.

To say the least, there were some mixed emotions about the gals entering the men's circuit, but it appears that the five females will be able to compete with their male counterparts.

It all started when the Eightette League, which bowls on Tuesday nights, was organizing for the fall season last week and discovered there were only seven teams registered instead of the eight required.

THE TEAM of Debbie Smallwood, Sandy Merritt, Patty Bowles, Judy Wharton and Bev Martin just happened to be around during the league's organizational meeting and when it was evident the league was short one team they requested membership since all of the women's leagues had already been filled.

Following the request, league officials gathered for a confab to consider the unusual demand. The issue received a favorable vote and the girls were admitted to the league.

After admitting the new team, some league rules were changed and it was made clear that the ladies bowl under the same handicap regulations as the men.

The female bowlers, who have not obtained a sponsor as yet, won two games in a three-game series in last Tuesday's action.

C. of C. Ambassadors plan events

Four events have been planned for the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors.

The Ambassadors will be attending the opening of the Robinson Road bridge at 4:15 p.m. Monday. Common Pleas Judge Evelyn W. Coffman will preside at the ceremony, arranged by Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner. Traffic will be opened over the Robinson Road bridge Monday.

Delbert E. Marstiller, chairman of the Ambassadors, said the group will be attending the opening ceremonies at the new Bureau of Employment Services office, located in the Fayette Center.

Several state officials are scheduled to the ceremony, scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The group also will attend the opening of the new Fayette Supply Co., 301 W. Oak St., at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Hugh (Bud) Patton and Robert Lee are the proprietors of the Fayette Supply Co.

On Wednesday, the Ambassadors will tour The Record-Herald building, viewing the new equipment and completely redecorated facilities.

Presbyterians make plans for special events

Several events have been planned for the First Presbyterian Church congregation during the next few weeks.

The young people, under the direction of the youth coordinator, Victor Pontius, and the pastor, the Rev. Gerald Wheat, have been especially active. At their monthly meeting, they made plans for a vesper service on Sunday evening, Oct. 7, at the church farm for the entire congregation; a leadership service Nov. 25; sale of place mats and Christmas cards to raise money for the annual church family trip, probably to Williamsburg, Va., next June; participation in planning the church directory, which will have several pages for items concerning the youth activities; and the appointment of members of the Youth Council to the church nominating and budget committees.

Still in the planning stage for the church are a pictorial directory for which pictures of church families will be taken in October; the five-week Fall Bible Study program of the Book of James starting Oct. 10; observance of World Wide Communion at the morning worship service Oct. 7 and a bonfire and vesper service at 8 p.m. at the church farm; installation of new carpeting and pews in the sanctuary early in November; a congregational meeting Nov. 4 to elect officers and adopt a budget; the annual banquet for officers of the Presbyterian Churches in Fayette County Nov. 13 in Persinger Hall.

OCTOBER has been designated as revival month, with families of the church giving it special emphasis in their own churches and at the Graham Crusade to be held at Wilmington. During the Revival Month of October, the evangelism and Christian education committees will promote attendance and participation by families of the church in all of its activities.

Oct. 28 has been designated as Reformation Sunday, when interest will be focused on the creeds and history of the church. Banners, which will have been made by several church groups, will be presented at the Reformation Sunday service with explanations of the creeds and symbols of the banners.

A church family night also is being planned for early November to give recognition to members of the softball team and their families.

U.S. rejects opium deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has rejected an alleged offer by Burmese guerrilla leaders of 400 tons of opium in exchange for $13 million and U.S. support in obtaining some independence for the remote Shan States from the rest of the Union of Burma.

The offer allegedly was made by an emissary of the guerrillas to Rep. Lester Wolff, DN.Y., chairman of a House narcotics subcommittee, in Bangkok last month. Wolff said he relayed it to U.S. Embassy, CIA and U.S. narcotics agents with the suggestion that they study it.

State Department officials commented that it would be nice to think that there is a magic $13 million solution to the opium smuggling problem.

They said that acceptance of the offer would do far more harm than good and would poison U.S. relations with Burma and neighboring Thailand.

Wolff said the proposal came from Gen. Lo Hsing Hang, leader of the local defense forces and the self-styled president of the Shan States Unity Action Committee and Shan States Progress Party.

Since allegedly making it, Lo has been arrested by the Burmese government and is being held for a variety of charges including treason, and murder.

U.S. officials here said that dealing with Lo would be the same as dealing with a Mafia chieftain, and they wanted no part of it.

Vassar College nets $2,148,160 on stamp sales

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Vassar College has netted $2,148,160 from the sale at a series of eight auctions in New York of the rare postage stamp collection bequeathed the school by Mrs. Louise Boyd Dale, a 1936 graduate.

Mrs. Dale, who died in 1967, left to Vassar "the net proceeds of the sale of any of my collection of stamps of Mauritius, the Cominion of Canada, and the Provinces of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Islands."

An envelope bearing two early stamps of the former British colony of Mauritius brought $380,000, thought to be the highest price ever paid for a single philatelic item at an auction.

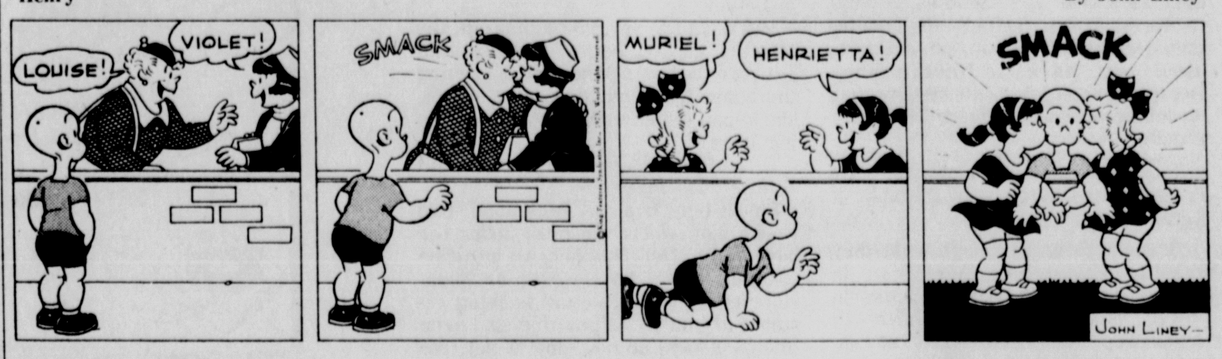

Mrs. Dale, who is remembered at Vassar as "a warm and gracious woman, given to anonymous philanthropy," inherited part of the collection from her fater, the late Alfred F. Lichtenstein, and added to it herself. Her father, who died in 1947, was president and treasurer of Ciba, Inc., American subsidiary of the Swiss chemical company.

Tiger's out of tank and raiding villages

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Tigers have been leaving their jungle homes to attack domestic animals in nearby villages because of a jungle food shortage, a symposium newspaper reports.

The paper maintains that indiscriminate hunting by humans has reduced the number of antelopes and other animals that tigers usually prey upon.

Government controls hit Korean churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Shades of government control are reported falling on the robust church life of Korea, including current charges of subversive activities against three Presbyterian leaders.

"Religious liberties are being restricted," says the Rev. Kim Kwan Suk, general secretary of the National Council of Churches of Korea, who was here to confer with U.S. officials and churchmen about the problem.

"Apparently we're going to have to face a real encounter between the church and government," he added in an interview.

Ostensibly, Christianity has been thriving in Korea, its growth there in contrast to the statistical downturns in most Western countries, but the Rev. Mr. Kim said recent government policies threaten its continued work.

"Plainclothes detectives now are sent each Sunday to monitor sermons," he said. "The government also has started keeping surveillance on all church activities. It's a sort of growing intimidation."

The issue was pointed up this past summer by a succession of arrests of church workers in various situations, 15 of them altogether, most of them since released, but two clergymen and a lay evangelist still facing trial.

Two of them, the Rev. Park Hyung Kyu, pastor of a Seoul church, and Kwon Ho Kyung, a lay evangelist, are said to be specifically accused of circulating subversive handbills, saying:

"We have been holding our country to a spirit of anticommunism and now, alas, we have a dictatorship. Democracy weeps! ... The resurrection of democracy is the liberation of the people."

Reacting to the charges, the Presbyterian Church in the Republic of Korea says:

"It looks to us as though what they intended was nothing more than an indirect appeal to the authorities in power based on their faith in democracy and in a spirit of anticommunism ... led by their Christian consiences."

The Rev. Mr. Kim, 52, a quiet-spoken man who for five years has presided over Korea's interdenominational cooperative organization including Presbyterians, Methodists, Anglicans and Evangelicals, said it was "very risky" for him to criticize the Korean government's actions.

"But Christians have to take risks," he added.

He said pressure on the churches started last Oct. 17 when Presidet Chung Hee Park declared martial law and subsequent constitutional revisions that modify the legislative assembly and allow him to stay in office.

In the recent arrests, the Rev. Mr. Kim said the government apparently was trying to "capitalize on the case and show a strong hand of control over the churches," but that the churches have reacted strongly against it.

"I think the government now realizes it made a mistake," he said, adding that he was optimisitic that the jailed ministers would be let off.

Of Korea's 32 million population, about 3.6 million are church members, about 3 million Protestsnts and 600,000 Roman Catholics with the churches growing vigorously in recent years.

Gas prices protested

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Greater Cincinnati Gasoline Dealers, with their wives and employes, conducted a demonstration against Phase 4 Tuesday at the Cincinnati Federal Building.

Protestors, numbering about 175, picketed the building while others drove wreckers around the block.

A delegation of wives met with officers of the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS is charged with enforcing federal economic regulations.

"We can't make it on a seven cents a gallon profit," said Mike Kunnen, dealers president. "We need the nine cents."

The guidelines roll prices back to January levels, he said. He complained that the regulations do not stop oil companies from raising prices to retailers.

Girl conquers calcium disorder

ROCKAWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Jan Ann Westerink, a spunky sixth-grader, is back at school this month — and is an inch taller than she was a few months ago. Big deal!

This might not sound like a "big deal" for a normal child, but Jan Ann, whose parents call her "Jennie," is not a normal child.

Most of her intestines have been removed and replaced with a plastic substitute, and for the past several months she was afflicted with a calcium disorder that caused her to actually shrink two inches.

But now doctors say she appears to be winning her battle against the calcium problem, thanks to treatment she received last month in Richmond, Va.

Most of Jennie's intestines were removed a year ago after a bout with gangrene, and after that she was placed on a special formula to fight the affliction.

But doctors say something in the formula caused her to lose calcium between the bones of her spine, keeping the bones from touching. As a result, she began experiencing severe pain in her back.

Examination revealed she had shrunk two inches.

Since her trip to Richmond two weeks ago, where she was under the care of Dr. Neil Hutcher, an intestine specialist, she has grown an inch. Hutcher says the calcium is being restored as quickly as possible, and even though X-rays do not show it yet, the doctors are confident of her recovery from the calcium disorder.

For Jennie, her victory over the calcium ailment came the hard way. She remains in a body brace that circles her waist and runs to her armpits. The brace holds her spine up so that the calcium will have a chance to grow back properly, doctors say.

"It's really funny to look back on these ANCIENT fashions!"

Mechanic makes calls via copter

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — When garage owner Cesare Bianchi pulls up to help a truck driver in distress, the trucker certainly can't expect a push. Bianchi arrives by helicopter.

"A trucking firm can lose as much as $6,000 in wages and costs if trucks loaded with important goods fail to make the proper connections," he says.

"I can get two men and tools out to a truck in less than an hour, when it would take other garages longer than that to get a crew moving," said Bianchi, who charges $75 an hour for air time.

Bianchi's service is most often needed on Interstate 5, a newly opened superhighway that makes an almost straight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

On a 200-mile stretch through the San Joaquin Valley, a trucker never gets closer than 20 miles to a town, Bianchi said. If a truck breaks down, it often requires a major trip just to get parts needed to put the truck back in operation.

Bianchi said, "There is a big demand for speed in getting those trucks rolling again, and with the helicopter, we can offer speed."

"My biggest problem is the dust," Bianchi said. "Landing and taking off can raise a cloud 100 feet wide that could cause a terrific accident if it drifts the wrong way. I always try to find a grassy area to land."

Bianchi has had a pilot's license since 1946. His three-passenger craft, with a payload capacity of 750 pounds, can carry spare tires, 55-gallon drums of fuel, or just a one-pound fuel pump or a piece of radiator hose.

"If the job is going to take a long time to do, it isn't worth taking the chopper," he said. "But for a job that would last an hour or so, it's perfect."

Emperor's plane OK

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — The pilot of an Ethiopian airliner flying Emperor Haile Selassie home from West Germany set off a hijacking alarm by error today while flying over Italy but then quickly reported all was normal aboard, West German air safety officials said.

The royal plane, a Boeing 720, left Cologne airport at 6:34 a.m. for a direct flight to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital. While flying over Milan, the officials said, the pilot pushed the wrong button and set off the hijacking scare.

The Italian air force sent up two fighter jets, and they escorted the airliner out of Italian air space. Meanwhile the pilot had reported all was normal and headed across the Mediterranean for the Egyptian coast.

The emperor had just concluded a three-day unofficial visit to West Germany, where he met with President Gustav Heinemann and Chancellor Willy Brandt. A source at the Cologne airport said about 30 persons were aboard the plane, including the emperor's oldest daughter, Princess Tenagne; members of the royal entourage, security guards and the crew of the plane.

"Last Tango in Paris is a genuine masterpiece of staggering proportions." —Edward Behr, Newsweek

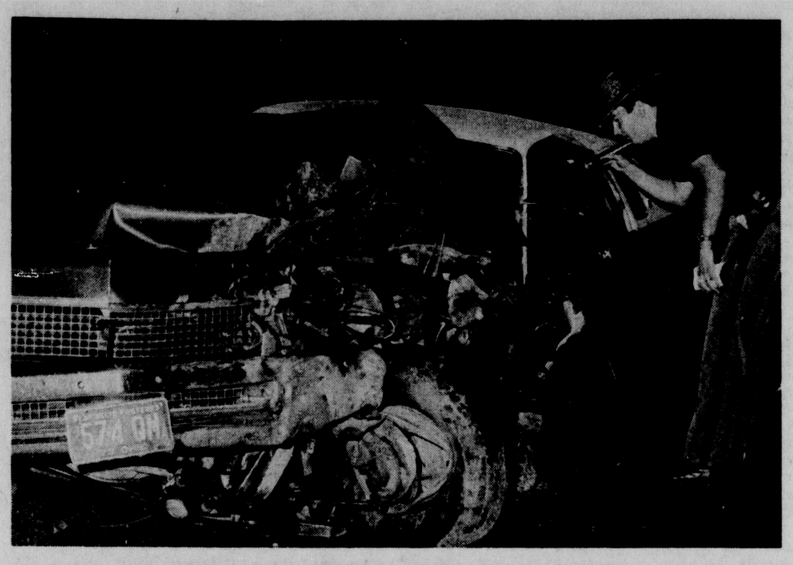

"Last Tango in Paris is not a 'dirty' movie. The film is stark, sensitive and completely shattering in its intensity. Yes, by all means, see 'Last Tango'." —Aaron Schindler, Family Circle

"Last Tango in Paris is not about sex and it is not about inhumanity. It is about the things that a man lives by. There's just nothing to compare with it in recent experience. It is very much worth seeing." —Judith Crist, 'Today' Show

"Last Tango in Paris is not prurient. Rather, it uses sex to study human pain, failure, loneliness, despair and at moments even love." —Ethel Whitehorn, PTA Magazine

NO SERIOUS INJURY!! — Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise inspects the auto driven by David W. Knapke, 40, Dayton, following a head-on collision on U.S. 35 near Interstate 71. The car below was driven by Thomas E. Funk Jr., 30, of Parrott Station Rd., Mary P. Creed, 36, of 418 S. Fayette St., was a passenger with Funk. All three were treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. The accident occurred at approximately 11 p.m. Thursday when Knapke attempted to pass another vehicle on a curve. It was raining at the time. (Story on Page 2).

Bank lending charges near new record

10 pct. prime rate seen

NEW YORK (AP) — A move toward a historic high of 10 per cent in the prime lending rate gathered momentum today as the nation's second largest bank threw its weight behind the increase.

New York's First National City Bank announced the ¼ point hike this morning, following a similar step late Thursday by the Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco. Wells Fargo's increase is effective today, Citibank's next Monday.

It was the first move toward the 10 per cent level in the lending rate for large corporate borrowers since the rapid series of increases that carried it to 9¾ per cent by late last month.

Since then, although banks have been contending that money market conditions called for further increases, they had shied away from taking the first step to 10 per cent.

Credit experts generally expected the new level to spread throughout the banking industry, but they were uncertain how rapidly it would occur.

One potential deterrent, they noted, was the present hearings at the House Banking Committee focusing on the recent surge of interest rates.

In addition, the Nixon administration's Committee on Interest and Dividends, which oversees interest rates in the government's economic controls program, reacted quickly to Wells Fargo's move with a demand that the bank advise the committee promptly on its compliance with profit and interest rate guidelines.

Some other banks indicated they would watch and wait.

The prime rate has no direct connection with rates on loans to small businesses and consumers.

Chest drive opens Monday

The 1974 Community Chest drive will open Monday.

In making the announcement, President Lee Lynch said the time is actually earlier than in past years, but the Community Chest board of directors feels that an earlier drive will be an inducement to all involved to complete the appeal at a relatively early date.

Monday's opening will be centered primarily around industries, business and employe payroll deduction groups, Lynch said. O.E. Price and Lee Kraus will head the city business collection and Otis Hess and Jack Brennan the industrial groups.

The rural campaign and city residential solicitations will follow in early October. Larry Milstead heads the rural drive and Miss Mary Frances Snider and Mrs. Carmen Johnson will be heading the city campaign.

Lynch said that the Community Chest board is very optimistic about reaching the goal of $27,000.

Ten Fayette County organizations will be the benefactors of this year's drive. They are the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, the Community Activity Fund, Girl Scouts, the Mental Health Association, Eyman Park, Red Cross, the USO, Salvation Army and the Senior Citizens Center.

Report dangerous chemicals afloat in Southern Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Coast Guard warned the entire United States Gulf Coast today of potentially deadly barrels of sodium and potassium cyanide floating in the Gulf of Mexico.

The barrels were dumped into the water after a ship collision Aug. 5 about 480 miles south of Pensacola, Fla.

However, a chemical expert said the two chemicals would have to be eaten to be fatal unless they released cyanide in a gaseous state. And he said this would not occur unless the chemicals encountered an acid condition in the water.

The Coast Guard said it received word of the threat today and did not know why Mexican authorities failed to notify them earlier.

A spokesman emphasized that one or more of the barrels could be anywhere in the Gulf of Mexico. He noted that the passage of Tropical Storm Delia through the Gulf 10 days after the collision enhanced the possibility that the barrels could be widely scattered.

"It's hard to tell what effect the hurricane and current would have," said the spokesman. "They could be anywhere."

Coast Guard units along the entire 1,600-mile coast of the Gulf of Mexico from Brownsville, Tex., to Key West, Fla., were alerted to the danger.

The barrels, some containing 100 pounds of sodium cyanide and others 100 pounds of potassium cyanide, are blue with white lettering on them warning: "Dangerous Class 6 Material."

The Class 6 designation is for "highly toxic" material, the Coast Guard said.

All persons along coastal areas were warned against trying to touch or recover one of the barrels if found.

Coast Guard units were advised of certain procedures to be used in attempting to recover the barrels.

The Aug. 5 collision between the Perseus and the Peubla occurred in international waters. The Mexican navy got first word of the incident and notified coastal interests along the southern sector of the Gulf coast.

The Coast Guard said its first word of the danger came from the U.S. Defense Attache Office in Mexico City.

It was not known which of the two ships carried the potentially deadly chemicals.

A Coast Guard spokesman said a chemical antidote was being flown from England to Mexico and the United States and military chemical disposal teams were placed on alert.

The News In Brief

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The military chieftains who overthrew Marxist President Salvador Allende gained a strong but temporary political base Thursday night.

The moderate Christian Democratic party and the right-wing National party, which together won nearly 64 per cent of the votes when Allende was elected in 1970, expressed approval of the Tuesday coup.

Mitchell asks for all tapes in Vesco case

NEW YORK (AP) — Lawyers for John N. Mitchell have issued a subpoena for any White House tapes or written records that might pertain to the former attorney general's pending trial on charges of obstruction of justice, conspiracy and perjury.

A government affidavit backing a motion to quash the subpoena, however, described the defense move as "a broadranging blunderbuss fishing expedition."

The subpoena, disclosed Thursday in a federal court transcript, seeks material relating to a secret $200,000 cash contribution that fugitive financier Robert L. Vesco made to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans are accused of interfering with a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of Vesco after receipt of the Vesco donation.

The defense subpoena, according to the court transcript, calls for "all books, records, telephone toll records, tape recordings, notes and memoranda relating in whole or in part, directly or indirectly, to the following: meetings or conversations between any member of the White House staff, employes or President Nixon concerning Harry Sears etc."

Harry L. Sears, former leader of the New Jersey Senate, is a defendant in the case along with Vesco.

Ruckelshaus wins Senate confirmation

WASHINGTON (AP)—William D. Ruckelshaus has been confirmed by the Senate as deputy attorney general.

A voice vote Thursday affirmed the unanimous approval by the Senate Judiciary Committee of Ruckelshaus' nomination to the No. 2 post in the Justice Department.

Court urges tapes compromise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyers are weighing a federal appeals court's proposal for a face-saving settlement of the Watergate tapes dispute.

The procedure suggested Thursday would allow the court to avoid a clear-cut ruling on the constitutional issues raised by Nixon and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox.

In an unusual move, the U.S. Circuit Court issued an unsigned memorandum asking Nixon, Cox and the President's lawyer, Charles Alan Wright, to listen to the tapes and decide among themselves which portions should be submitted to the grand jury.

The court said the memo was not intended as a clue to its leaning on the constitutional questions.

The White House had no comment on the proposal. Nixon has refused to allow anyone other than some present and former aides to hear the tapes.

Cox said he would be "more than glad to meet with the President or his delegate or any of his attorneys in a sincere effort to pursue the Court of Appeals' suggestion to a mutually satisfactory conclusion."

The case reached the appellate court after U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon to turn over nine tapes to him for a private inspection to determine which, if any, parts should be delivered to the grand jury.

Cox subpoenaed the tapes of Nixon's conversations with former White House aides implicated in the scandal. The prosecutor claims that not even the President can resist a court order to provide information vital for a criminal investigation.

Nixon claims that the constitutional separation of powers guarantees that a court cannot compel a president to produce confidential information against his will. He also asserts that the tradition of executive privilege shields the confidentiality of a president's communications with his aides.

In a four-page memorandum, the appeals court said:

"If the President and the special prosecutor agree as to the material needed for the grand jury's functioning, the national interest will be served. At the same time, neither the President nor the special prosecutor would in any way have surrendered or subverted the principles for which they have contended."

Noting that both Cox and Wright are executive branch officials chosen directly or indirectly by the President, the appeals court said its suggestion would sidestep Nixon's objection to judicial inspection of the tapes.

Surcharge plan ripped by solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — A hail of Congressional opposition has greeted a suggestion that President Nixon may try to fight inflation by increasing income taxes temporarily and returning the extra funds to taxpayers later.

The purpose of the tax increase would be to take money out of the economy, to help slow the current economic boom.

If the report given newsmen Thursday by Presidential Counselor Melvin R. Laird was intended as a trial balloon — as some congressmen suggested — it may well have been punctured.

Laird, Nixon's principal domestic aide, emphasized there had been no decision to send Congress the plan, which he attributed to Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur F. Burns.

Listing it as one of a number of ideas under consideration, Laird said the proposal was to impose a surcharge, probably of 10 per cent, so that a person who normally paid $1,000 in taxes would pay $1,100 instead. The extra $100 would be refunded in two to five years, after inflation abated.

"This is not the same as a tax increase," Laird argued, holding the plan would not violate Nixon's pledge against increasing taxes.

But most representatives and senators who commented didn't see it that way.

"It looks like a trial balloon they are already backing away from," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Throughout last year's campaign, Nixon promised spending control policies that would avoid the need to raise taxes. He said, for example, in an Oct. 7, 1972, radio speech, "America needs not a tax increase, but tax relief."

In his message to Congress last Monday, Nixon said, "This administration continues its strong opposition to a tax increase."

Ullman said of the proposal "I couldn't support it. I favor a loophole-closing tax bill that would raise revenue."

Rep. Herman T. Schneebeli of Pennsylvania, senior Republican member of the Ways and Means Committee, said his first impression was "not very favorable."

The recuperating chairman of the committee, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., said from his Little Rock hospital bed that the plan certainly would look like a tax increase to a worker who saw more funds withheld from his pay check.

Skylab crew given 'go' to Sept. 25

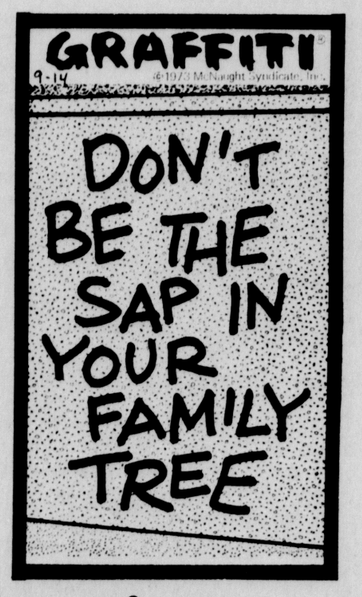

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Space agency doctors say the Skylab 2 astronauts are in as good shape after 49 days in space as the Skylab 1 crew was after 28 days.

And on Thursday, space agency officials gave Alan L. Bean, Jack R. Lousma and Owen K. Garriott the go-ahead to complete their 59-day mission with a Pacific Ocean splashdown Sept. 25. The spacemen finish their seventh week in space early Saturday.

Dr. Royce Hawkins, a space physician, said medical tests conducted aboard the orbiting space station indicate the astronauts "are still running slightly increased heart rates" but showed "no clinical abnormalities."

He said the astronauts have experienced a slight decline in the heart's ability to move blood through the lower body but the deconditioning is not serious. Hawkins said the three astronauts still can operate a bicycle exerciser at the high rates they established in mission tests before their mission and said exercise seems to be the main reason for the continued vigor of the spacemen.

Bean, Garriott and Lousma have followed an exercise program much more strenuous than the one used by the Skylab 1 astronauts.

Agnew successor faces arraignment

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Dale Anderson, the man who succeeded Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as chief executive of Baltimore County, pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court today to charges of conspiracy, extortion and bribery.

Anderson, one of Maryland's most powerful Democrats, was released on his own recognizance by Judge Joseph Young on the condition that he not leave the continental United States.

Tentative trial date was set for Jan. 7. Norman P. Ramsey, Anderson's attorney, told the judge that he wanted "a prompt trial in this matter."

Agnew is under investigation by federal prosecutors on similar charges — all involving illegal payoffs by architects and engineers for non-bid contracts awarded to them — but no evidence involving the vice president has yet gone before a special grand jury probing political corruption in Maryland.

The 56-year-old Anderson, in a 39-count indictment returned Aug. 23, was accused of extorting $46,420 from eight firms doing business with the county. He has denounced the charges as a "frame-up" and "phony."

Agnew also has denied all charges of wrongdoing.

Anderson, a Democrat, is the only person indicted so far in the investigation, but courthouse sources said others would be named.

The grand jury met for about three hours Thursday, sealed off from public contact by unprecedented security restrictions. The corridor leading to its fifth floor room in the courthouse was guarded by federal marshals who blocked efforts of reporters to see who was coming and going.

U.S. Attorney George Beall, who heads the investigation, said the security measures were absolutely necessary.

"By tradition and statute, grand jury proceedings are secret," Beall told newsmen. "Certain steps have been taken to preserve that privacy. Even witnesses going before the grand jury are part of the privacy and we intend to have it."

Meanwhile, the question of whether the Agnew phase of the probe will be brought before the jury still is undecided.

Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has said he will determine whether any evidence relating to the vice president is presented, and whether such evidence warrants an indictment. A spokesman said Richardson has not yet reached a decision.

Study mandatory heating fuel allocations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite growing support for the move, presidential energy adviser John A. Love says the administration remains unconvinced that mandatory allocation of heating fuel would avoid possible shortages this winter.

Mandatory allocation would not provide an instant solution and would be nothing more than a sharing of fuel shortages, Love told the Senate government operations subcommittee Thursday.

Meanwhile, a House committee took up legislation requiring the President to impose mandatory allocation, a concept also urged by the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency.

The House Commerce Committee debated the legislation then adjourned until next week when it is expected to resume action.

Russell E. Train, new EPA administrator, said mandatory allocation "would get clean fuel where it will do the most good," meaning that low-sulfur fuels, those which produce the least pollution, could be directed into areas that need them the most.

The administration has relied on a voluntary allocation program for heating oil.

Under Senate-passed legislation, the President would direct the pricing and distribution of the nation's entire supply of oil and petroleum products to ensure that public-service needs are met and that each section of the nation gets a share of fuel.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., sponsor of the Senate bill, wrote President Nixon that the nation faces "serious power shortages and blackouts in major metropolitan areas this winter if action is not immediately taken to assist electrical utilities in securing essential fuel supplies."

Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, conceded that the nation may face temporary heating-fuel shortages this winter.

He said the administration is trying to increase supply by stimulating refinery output and increasing imports but that mandatory allocation is still under consideration.

In other energy-related developments:

—An EPA report predicts that waste radiation from atomic power plants could become a serious public health problem in the long run unless it is carefully controlled. The agency and the Atomic Energy Commission are conducting studies on health effects, an EPA spokesman said.

—An Interior Department official said energy from geysers like Old Faithful in Yellowstone National Park could offer a substantial source of new power for western states by the year 2000. The hot springs and natural hot water geysers could supply 10 per cent of the power needs for the western one-third of the nation, William W. Lyons, deputy undersecretary, said.

—An estimated 2,500 service station operators protested the administration's pricing and energy policies. The rally on the capitol steps was organized by the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers.

Study state building code regulations

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Board of Building Standards began three days of hearings Thursday on a variety of proposed revisions in the state building code.

One of the issues before the board is whether to continue to certify local agencies to enforce the state's building code.

Cincinnati's building department had its certification continued conditionally at the first day of hearings, after being first placed on probation in February.

A state investigation turned up four new buildings in the city's downtown area in violation of state building code regulations.

The state action stemmed from complaints by Cincinnati engineer Al Greathouse who charged many of the city's new buildings were "firetraps."

Cincinnati then revamped its building department, adding inspectors and appointing a new executive to head the agency.

In continuing the city's conditional certification, the state board noted that all violations turned up in its initial investigation were fixed or being fixed.

Federal cash turned down

TEMPLEVILLE, Md. (AP) — Officials of this small farming community have asked to be dropped from the federal revenue sharing program after watching federal regulations devour all but $18 from their first two checks.

Harry T. Knotts, president of the three-man town commission, said Thursday that he has written the Office of Revenue Sharing and the Queen Anne's County Commission asking that the checks be stopped.

Templeville received $144 in two revenue sharing checks this year but had to pay $126 to publish federally required reports in the legal section of a local paper explaining what the money would be used for.

Knotts called the publication requirement for this town of about 70 persons "ridiculous."

"People in town already know what it's going to be used for," he said. Commissioners decided at the start of the program to use funds for a drainage project.

Deaths, Funerals

ROY L. MUSTAIN — Services for Roy L. Mustain, 69, of 1203 S. Fayette St., were held at 1 p.m. Thursday in the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home with Rev. Glenn Williams officiating. Mr. Mustain, a retired 45-year employe of the Midland Grocery Co., died Monday.

Three hurt in area car mishaps

Three persons were injured, none of them seriously, when two cars collided on a curve on U.S. 35 near Interstate 71 at 11 p.m. Thursday.

David W. Knapke, 40, Dayton, was attempting to pass a tractor-trailer on a curve when he pulled out into the path of an oncoming car driven by Thomas E. Funk Jr., 30, of Parrott Station Rd..

Mary P. Creed, 36, of 418 S. Fayette St., a passenger with Funk, as well as the two drivers was treated and released from Fayette Memorial Hospital. Both cars were a total loss.

Knapke was cited for improper passing. There was a solid yellow line in his lane.

Five other accidents were reported to the police and sheriff's departments Thursday night and this morning.

POLICE

THURSDAY, 10:27 a.m. — Richard D. Rife, 67, of 522 Warren Ave., pulled into the driveway of Don's Body Shop, 225 S. Hinde St., striking an auto driven by James W. Bennnett, Rt. 5, Washington C.H., which in turn struck a car owned by Jess Gilmore, U.S. 41-N. Damage to the Gilmore vehicle was minor; the other two received moderate damage.

1:43 p.m. — Douglas E. Krieger, 19, of 143 Jo Ann Dr., who had been parked in front of Milstead Tire on W. Market Street, backed out onto the roadway striking a car driven by Arthur H. Finley, 87, 526 E. Market St. The collision resulted in moderate damage, and Krieger was cited for backing without due regard to safety.

4:04 p.m. — Daniel L. Charles, 21, of 402½ E. Paint St., who was parked at the curb on W. Court Street, opened the door on the driver's side striking a car driven by Wayne L. Roberts, 19, of 410 E. Paint St., who was eastbound on Court Street. Minor damage resulting.

Charles was cited for opening a door into traffic.

SHERIFF

THURSDAY, 11:25 p.m. — Jay E. Carter, 17, U.S. 41-N, Backed from a private drive on Staunton-Sugar Grove Road, striking a car parked off the roadway. Brenda K. Pauley, 17, of 1323 Pearl St., was seated behind the wheel of the other car at the time of the accident. Damage was minor.

FRIDAY, 12:50 a.m. — John C. Mossbarger, 24, of Bloomingburg, was headed north on U.S. 38 about a mile south of Bloominburg when he drove off the roadway hitting a fence owned by James Perrill. Damage to the car was moderate.

3 boys drown

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The bodies of three young boys were recovered today from a city park swimming pool, police reported.

Officers said the boys, whose identities were not immediately known, were about 7, 8 and 13 years old.

Chrysler workers ready for strike

DETROIT (AP) — More than 127,000 auto workers are ready to strike Chrysler Corp. tonight if bargainers meeting behind closed doors fail to reach a contract agreement.

Because of a ban imposed Thursday evening on public comment about progress, there is no indication today of the status of the talks.

Recently, United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock had told newsmen that the imposition of a blackout "would tell our workers we are on our way home."

However, if accord is not reached, the 127,500 United Auto Workers members say they will strike the nation's third largest auto maker at 11:59 p.m.

The talks adjourned shortly before midnight Thursday and were to resume today at 9 a.m. EDT. There was no immediate indication whether the hiatus meant the negotiators had made progress toward a settlement.

A UAW spokesman said the adjournment was unusual for the night preceeding a strike deadline. A Chrysler spokesman said he could not recall the talks ever being adjourned so early on the night before a scheduled walkout.

The UAW's International Executive Board was called to Detroit on Thursday to be on hand to approve any agreement.

And Chrysler executives are planning to have 80,550 workers on overtime Saturday to meet this week's production goal of 40,650 cars and trucks.

As late as Wednesday, the last time union leaders met with newsmen, only four relatively minor union demands had been met from a list that Chrysler executives said had 180 items.

Some of the key union demands are for an unspecified wage increase, voluntary overtime, company-paid dental insurance, plant safety and retirement with full pension at any age after 30 years' service.

Other thorny issues include full protection of pay checks against inflation and raising the pay level for Canadian workers to that for U.S. employes.

CIA shakeup undertaken by new chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Director William E. Colby is shaking up the CIA in a move to provide himself and President Nixon with sharper estimates of U.S. defense needs and developments in China, the Soviet Union and other sensitive world sectors.

Sworn in only 10 days ago, Colby plans to surround himself with about 10 specialists — National Intelligence Officers who will be responsible for a specific subject, such as strategic weapons, or an area, such as China or Latin America.

They will replace the prestigious panel of "wise old heads" who comprise the Board of National Estimates, which for more than 20 years has been responsible for preparing intelligence estimates.

Through attrition the elite 10-man board of ex-ambassadors, admirals and generals is now down to five or six members including Living Merchant, a former undersecretary of state.

Remaining at the apex of the government's intelligence apparatus will be the United States Intelligence Board, headed by Colby. Its members are drawn from the National Security Agency, the Defense Intelligence Agency, the Treasury and State Departments, the Atomic Energy Commission and the FBI. Army, Navy and Air Force intelligence officers attend the meetings as "observers."

The shakeup comes against a backdrop of criticism that intelligence estimates have been too fuzzy and generalized, with dissent lost by the time they reach the CIA director. By giving a single specialist the responsibility for collating the divergent views, Colby hopes to have dissents funneled to him.

He expects to draw most of the 10 specialists from the CIA. Others may come from the Pentagon, the State Department or even college campus. They will be told they should not consider their jobs permanent, that they could be moved out within a few years, or their subjects or geographic areas abolished and others added in their place.

Colby has not made any final choices from the three dozen or so candidates he is now considering. He has discussed the reorganization with several members of Congress, including Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., a prominent critic of some clandestine CIA operations but a strong supporter of the agency's intelligence-estimating functions.

Former hero faces charge

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A Toledo service station operator who was hailed as a hero five years ago for capturing a bank robber was scheduled for a federal court hearing today on charges connected with a $43,227 credit union robbery.

Richard C. Lawrence, 43, is charged with aiding and abetting in the armed robbery of a credit union vehicle Aug. 16.

The FBI said Lawrence also is on five years probation for a 1970 conviction on theft and forgery charges involving a stolen check in interstate commerce.

Lawrence was honored by City Council after he tackled one of three men fleeing a Toledo Trust Co. branch bank following a $16,000 armed robbery in December 1968.

Council nominated him for the Loeb award for citizen valor, an award given by the National Council on Crime and Delinquency.

Agnew favored with discounts, numerous gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the years since he became a prominent political figure, Spiro T. Agnew has received gifts of food, wine and liquor from friends and allies, and a liberal discount from a plush Washington hotel where he lived for 4½ years, several news reports say.

Agnew aides refuse to confirm or deny these reports but are known to be furious over what they believe are trivial stories that would have been ignored if the vice president were not under criminal investigation by a federal grand jury in Baltimore, Md.

One of the reports was that Agnew received a "celebrity discount" in his rent during 4½ years he lived at Washington's Sheraton-Park Hotel.

There are other reports that Agnew received gifts of food, liquor and cash from friends and associates in Maryland where he served as Baltimore County executive and later as governor.

Personal income rises in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Personal income in Ohio amounted to $53.8 billion in July, after seasonal adjustment, an increase of 11 per cent from the total for the same month a year ago, the Center for Business and Economic Research at Ohio State University said today.

The center said personal income for the first seven months of 1973 showed the same 11 per cent increase over the corresponding period in 1972.

Payrolls for production workers were up 13 per cent in July over the same month in 1972, the center said, with gains ranging from 4 per cent in Akron to 20 per cent in Toledo.

Stock list goes lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was moderately lower today amid investor concern over a variety of economic developments.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at noon was off 1.81 to 878.76, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by about 5 to 4.

Analysts said that most traders had pulled off to the sidelines amid news of rising interest rates, tight money, and the possibility of a tax boost.

Eastern Air Lines was active on the NYSE, off ⅛ to 7⅝.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index at noon was off .72 to 99.49, while the NYSE index was off .04 to 55.33.

Scattered showers were expected to end over the state tonight as a low pressure system located over Tennessee moves eastward to the Atlantic coast early Saturday.

Good weekend football weather is predicted by the National Weather Service, with fair skies and high readings between 65 and 75 degrees.

Tonight's low will be in the 50s.

Showers were reported across Ohio last night with most sections measuring only trace amounts. Rainfall over most of the Buckeye state continues below normal for the month.

Ohioans can look forward to fair skies Sunday, followed by rain Monday and clearing skies Tuesday. Highs all three days will be in the upper 60s and low 70s with lows in the upper 40s and low 50s.

Middle East skies quiet

TEL AVIV (AP) — The Middle East's skies were quiet again today after Thursday's biggest air battle since the 1967 six-day war.

Israel said its pilots shot down 13 Syrian MIG21s, while the Syrians brought down one of Israel's Mirage jets. The Israelis said a rescue helicopter pulled the Israeli pilot and one Syrian from the sea two hours after they ditched.

Syria said it shot down five Israeli planes and lost eight MIGs. Reports from North Lebanon said four Syrian planes crashed on Lebanese territory, and the pilots escaped unhurt or with slight injuries.

The Israelis said the captive Syrian pilot was in good condition and the International Red Cross had been informed of his capture. There was no indication, however, under what conditions he would be returned to Syria. The action ended one of the quietest periods on the Middle East battle fronts since the 1967 war, shattering a seven-month lull after Israeli-Syrian ground and air battles Jan. 8 on and over the Golan Heights.

Judge fines self for being late

GRAY, Ga. (AP)—Superior Court Judge George L. Jackson has assessed himself a $25 fine for being late to a session of court.

Jackson was surprised Thursday when he entered his courtroom and found that the district attorney and a county grand jury had been waiting 15 minutes for him.

The judge said he thought the court session was scheduled for 9:30 a.m. instead of 9 a.m. and noted that he often had assessed fines against other people for being late.

"You're supposed to be there when court starts and I didn't have any excuse — none whatsoever," he said in fining himself.

Price of bagels rouses wrath of congressman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The price of bagels is going up.

This single economic fact of eating has been brought to the attention of the House by Rep. Bertram Podell, D-N.Y. He said the price jump has hit hard his bagel-loving constituents in New York City.

"The most recent casualty of Phase 4 is a consumer item that is very popular in my district — the bagel," Podell told the House. A bagel is a glazed, hard doughnut-shaped roll made of flour and water. It can be eaten by itself or, as often is the case, with cream cheese and smoked salmon or lox.

"For the past few years, the price of bagels had stabilized at eight to ten cents," he said.

"Then Mr. Nixon arranged for the sale of one-quarter of America's wheat harvest to the Soviet Union, giving inside information to a few speculators who were thus able to make a fortune on the deal.

"Finally, and incredibly, the President removed all price controls on wheat. The result was a substantial increase in the cost of flour. As a result, my constituents are now paying 12 to 15 cents for a bagel, an increase of between 20 to 50 per cent," Podell said.

Podell said that despite the increase in price, labor costs and bakers' profits have not risen.

"The blame lies squarely with President Nixon and Secretary of Agriculture (Earl) Butz," Podell said.

"The noted economist John Kenneth Galbraith recently remarked that having these men administer price controls is analogous to putting the Paulist Fathers in charge of a birth control clinic," Podell added.

Podell said a complete redirection of national priorities is needed. "Much more is at stake than merely the price of bagels. The President's electoral mandate gave him the responsibility to represent the interests of all the people, not just the wealthy few. "It is time for Mr. Nixon to wake up to the realities of the consumers' nightmare, and by his actions to justify the faith placed in him by so many Americans," Podell said.

Milk production likely to drop

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk production in 1973 is expected to drop about three per cent from last year, to about 117 billion pounds, approximately what dairy farmers produced in 1970, the Agriculture Department says.

"Sharply increased feed prices are reducing output per cow, and together with high slaughter-cow prices, are encouraging a sharper decline in milk-cow numbers," the department's Outlook and Situation Board said Thursday.

The estimate of reduced milk production comes as no surprise to dairy farmers who have seen feed costs rise phenomenally in the past year. In August, the department said the average cost of 100 pounds of dairy-cow ration was $6.06 compared with $3.49 a year earlier, a 74 per cent increase.

Meanwhile, the department said in a report Tuesday, prices paid farmers for milk averaged $6.88 per hundredweight, a record high but still only 15 per cent higher than a year ago.

Milk production has risen steadily since 1969 as the relationship between milk prices and feed costs produced good profits for dairy farmers. But spiralling feed costs now have sent those gains in a tailspin.

"Cash receipts from dairying this year may total $7.8 billion, up from $7.2 billion in 1972," the report said. "However, production costs, particularly feed costs, are rising even faster."

The USDA could not estimate how profits from dairying this year might stack up with 1972, only that "obviously there will be a drop" from last year.

Some adjustments in government price supports for milk have been made, including an increase of 80 per cent of parity for the support of manufacturing grade milk as ordered by Congress in the new farm law.

Recently, USDA announced a temporary boost for the remainder of September in the minimum rates dealers must pay farmers in federal milk marketing orders.

In most cases, however, the two actions have not affected actual prices dairy farmers get since the market price already is higher than the floors established by the government.

Municipal League asked to back energy measure

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Municipal League has been asked to support a bill that the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio said would enable it to handle any energy crisis.

Edmund J. Turk, PUCO chairman, spoke Thursday before the league's convention here. He urged support of bill 206, now in the Ohio Senate's Ways and Means committee.

Turk said the bill would enable PUCO to take the initiative in dealing with energy problems in Ohio.

"The municipal governments will be the first governmental bodies to hear the discontent of the people if the unfortunate combination of fuel shortage and bitter winter occurs," Turk warned.

New order will limit wiretaps

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has spelled out Justice Department policy allowing national security wiretaps in cases related to foreign intelligence-gathering.

The Supreme Court ruled a year ago that the government could not conduct domestic security wiretaps without first obtaining judicial consent.

The court did not apply its restriction to wiretaps said necessary for national security, and Richardson's statement was the first explanation of policy on those taps since the court action.

Richardson's explanation came in a letter to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

That committee has questioned the role of Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger in authorizing national security wiretaps on 17 individuals.

In the letter to Fulbright Richardson said that he will not approve any application for electronic surveillance unless it is designed:

—"To protect the nation against actual or potential attack or other hostile acts of a foreign power.

—"To obtain foreign intelligence information deemed essential to the security of the United States.

—"Or to protect national security information against foreign intelligence activities."

Move to curb traffic glut

The "flat prediction" made by Mayor Wes Uhlman of Seattle regarding bus service in large cities is of widespread interest. "With the EPA breathing down the necks of all of us," he said, "every major city in the country will be providing free transit within two years."

The occasion for this remark was the inauguration of an experiment in Seattle whereby free transportation on city buses will be provided in the central business district. The idea, as in a number of smaller communities also trying it, is to encourage people to leave their cars outside the downtown area and travel by bus.

On this point we quote Mayor Uhlman further: "The downtowns are becoming congested and polluted, and we simply have to reclaim them for people away from the automobile." It is a concept that has been simmering on the back burner, as it were, for a long time. It is coming to a boil none too soon.

Some may balk at the notion of cities offering cut-rate or even free transportation. However, this course seems to be dictated by public reluctance to give up individual cars and ride the buses; there has to be some incentive to get people in the habit of doing his. At this point we recall the ill-fated Washington C.H. mini-bus venture which seemed to have a real potential.

Whether the incentive of free or lower-fare rides is sufficient remains to be seen. There are some encouraging signs: a number of cities — including San Diego, Denver, Tulsa and Kansas City — report boosts of around 10 per cent in the number of people riding public transportation since fares were reduced. A 15 per cent increase in ridership is reported in Atlanta after the fare was cut from 40 to 15 cents last year.

The hope is that the trend will pick up — that more and more people will recognize the advantages of riding buses and not worrying about parking their cars (not to mention high car-operating costs and the daily hassle of wrestling with traffic). In this trend, along with commuter railroads, may lie the solution of American cities' problem of downtown traffic glut and air pollution.

THE NATION . . . by Martin F. Nolan

The presidency and parochialism

WASHINGTON — In his new relationship with Congress, President Nixon not only has the upper-hand, but his hand is being constantly strengthened by the crises for which he and Congress can share the blame.

Congress has always been a hesitant coalition of parochial concerns and the President the premier lobbyist for national issues. What's happening now is that local and regional issues are becoming national ones and the chips of clout and authority pile up on the President's side of the poker table.

The "energy crisis," for instance, is no stranger to New England where independent oil distributors have always been at the end of the supply line.

Now the line itself is at issue and oil seems short even where it is plentiful.

Mass transit was once an arcane issue for the eastern megalopolis between Boston and Washington, with Eastern congressmen being clobbered by their highway-loving brothers. But now, even Los Angeles is seeking fewer highways and more mass transit; every suburb can boast of a traffic jam to rival Manhattan's.

"STREET CRIME" has also moved to the suburbs and President Nixon addressed delegates to a conference on that subject here in the East Room of the White House Tuesday. Crime is no longer an urban, blue-collar concern.

On all of these issues, the President commands the bully pulpit of publicity, which his aides and he know how to exploit with cheerful abandon.

What the President in his Sept. 5 press conference called a "second State of the Union message" was actually his fifth this year, since he divided others into subject matter. And the fifth one was delivered at least three times.

Neither a Sunday afternoon radiobroadcast nor a longer written statement Monday added much to congressional or public knowledge of the President's legislative goals. Even the rhetoric echoed what he said in his press conference. But both received major news coverage from the allegedly hostile media.

IN CONTRAST to double-feature media events from the White House, Congress plods along as it should, deliberatively and parochially. Of the 535 congressmen, no more than a dozen spend their days focusing on "the national interest."

Rather, it is the district's interest or the state's or even the committee member's jurisdiction that is most important.

"What bill are we voting on?" a rural-state senator asked an aide on the floor during a vote last week. "Urban mass transit,Senator," came the reply.

The senator knew all he needed to know on the subject and shouted a stentorian "No" at the tally clerk.

Maybe that process will change, but it hasn't yet. The Congress hasn't caught up to national problems and neither has the President. But no one can ever call the President parochial.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

Computer as inflationary villain

William D. Pardridge, the self-styled "disagreeable economist" of Stanardsville, Va., who specializes in shatteringly disrespectful observations, puts the blame for much of our inflation on the computer.

Since the computer is an unthinking workhorse, utterly dependent for its answers on what human beings put into it, how can a mere technological device be an active promoter of the dollar's collapse? The answer is that mass credit, on the inflationary scale that it is used today, would be much too costly a bookkeeping proposition if the computer did not exist to retrieve data instantaneously, to grind out the bills, to figure the interest rates, to do elaborate bookkeeping without the intervention of the human hand, and to reckon the actuarial chances of losing important sums on delinquent accounts.

If all the paper work involved in the phenomenon of mass credit had to be done by Dickensian clerks using quill pens at rolltop desks, the cost of it would quickly kill the whole idea.

THIS IS Bill Pardridge's theory, and it is brilliantly obvious. I can claim to be the catalytic agent in provoking it, for I drew a snappish response when IK commended to him the reports of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, which give the lie to our supposed inflation fighters in Washington, D.C., by telling the truth about the continual month-by-month creation of an oversupply of new money.

The Federal Reserve of St. Louis, asid Pardridge, tells only half the story: to the superfluity of paper purchasing power, as evidenced by the government flushing of the money stock, there must be added the mass credit that has zoomed our total debt, public and private, to well over $2,000 billion.

Even in the time of Socrates philosophers were arguing whether ideas or technological innovations were responsible for most social change. The truth is that ideas and technology act together.

The specific idea that has unleashed the computer to flood society with credit-card buying on what the British call the "never-never" is summed up in a phrase: the permissive society.

Since "anything goes" in this sort of society, why shouldn't the computer go hog wild as the high priests of affluence use electrical impulses to reckon the actuarial chances of losing money on people who overestimate their capacity to absorb debt?

Not so long ago Arnold Saltzmann, a New York City industrialist, suggested that a disinterested advisory commission be set up to study the probable effects of congressional social and economic legislation.

The board that Pardridge has assembled to get a new organization, Economic Inequities, Inc., started might meet Saltzman's criteria, for it includes the chairmen of three university economics departments, Dr. Dudley Dillard of the University of Maryland, Dr. Richard T. Selden of the University of Virginia, and Dr. David Davies of Duke University.

Anna J. Schwartz of the National Bureau of Economic Research, who was Prof. Milton Friedman's collaborator on an authoritative monetary history of the U.S., is another Economic Inequities board member, and Joseph W. MaGuire, vice president of planning at the University of California in Berkeley, has signified his willingness to join.

THE IMPORTANCE of this group is that it proposes to hold three national conferences to which theoreticians will be invited to deliver formal papers. The first conference promises to examine the relations between inflation, total public and private debt, and the economic production of goods and services.

The second is scheduled to examine true economic employment as distinguished from public employment.

And the third, utilizing the findings of the first two, will be charged with determining the causes and conditions of maintaining full economic employment with zero inflation.

This is a tall order, but with the failure of such governmental bodies as the President's Council of Economic Advisers, the Cost-of-Living Council, and the Federal Reserve itself, someone has to come up with fresh thinking about our economic necessities. If one thing is patent, even such able people as Secretary of the Treasury Shultz and Dr. John T. Dunlop, head of the Cost-of-Living Council, don't really believe in what the government has been doing under the various "phases" from one to four.

President Nixon needs outside advice that will be independent of what is conceived to be "political necessity." When people demand snake oil, which is what we get when "controls" go hand in hand with almost unlimited credit and a 7 per cent annual increase in monetary stock, they should be told that "political necessity" is the last thing that should be indulged.

"HAVE YOU HEARD THE LATEST LEAK?"

Hal Boyle . Back in the good old days

NEW YORK (AP) — Memory is a filter.

It sifts out much of the sadness of the past; it enhances the bright colors of our cheerful yesterdays and makes them dearer with each passing year.

We are fortunate indeed that memory has this filterlike quality for if it were like a klieg light or a microscope, the past would stand out too starkly and its buried events be emphasized too nakedly. Instead of helping us through life, memory might kill us with shame and regrets.

By and large, you've got a pretty good collection of memories if you can look back and remember when —

You could read the front page of a newspaper without feeling that the whole world was going to hell.

For $10,000 or less, you could buy the best house on most of the city blocks in America, and you could get a 25-year morgage for 6 per cent interest.

Baseball really was the national pastime, and only rich people or freaks were interested in playing golf or tennis.

A congressman's mail consisted mostly of letters from constituents asking him to mail them free garden seeds, a prerogative he no longer enjoys.

In a large family, while grace was being said before meals, a wise child used this pause to glance at the meat platter to see which piece he'd try to get.

A man was regarded as reasonably successful if he died debt-free and left enough to pay for his funeral expenses.

Almost every American, young or old, knew what part of a cow's body gave milk and how many milk faucets she had. Do you know?

Because they were born free and owed no fealty to tyrant lords or creeds, Americans felt sure they were more than equal, man for man, to any other people on earth.

When a woman walked passed you, her undergarments made a mysterious rustling that was part of the feminine mystique. It was like the sound of a soft and friendly electricity made audible.

An only daughter was always called "Sis," and a boy named after his father was known as "Junior" or "Young Bob."

A man was valued more for his character than his cash.

Those were the days — remember?

Campbell urges full land use

FINDLAY, Ohio (AP) — Deputy Undersecretary of Agriculture J. Phillip Campbell said here Thursday night farmers ought to use every available acre of land for production next year.

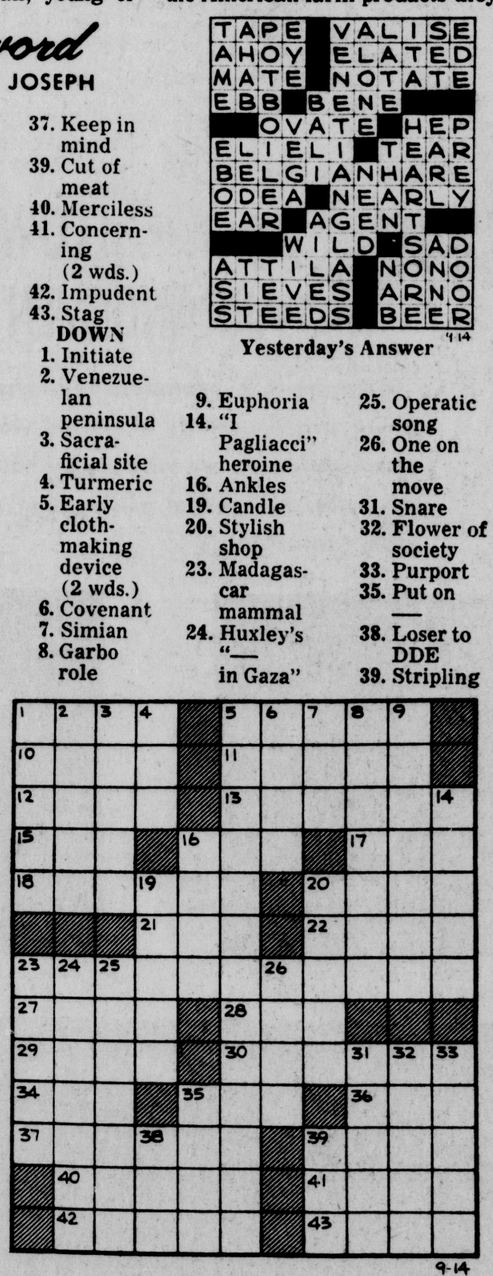

The Agriculture Department's No. 2 man, speaking at a Hancock County Republican barbeque, said farmers would make a healthy profit as well as help the country improve its balance of payments.

Because full production historically has driven prices down, Campbell said, it is difficult for farmers to understand today's situation in which foreign countries are bidding to purchase all the American farm products they can.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE – Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Students given hearing rights

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A three-judge U.S. District Court panel here says public school students must be given hearings before they can be suspended.

Judge Joseph P. Kinneary, writing the opinion for the panel, said school administrators may not jeopardize a student's right to an education by ordering an expulsion or suspension without due process of law.

The court ruled on a suit filed on behalf of nine Columbus public school students suspended during student unrest in the winter and spring of 1971.

The Columbus Board of Education since has adopted a new regulation providing for a hearing before disciplinary action is taken.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dad wants to marry but daughter says no

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a wonderful man who's been talking marriage. The problem is his 38-year-old daughter. She's never been married and lives with him. Her mother died 15 years ago, and she isn't interested in dating or going anywhere except with her father. This daughter has never earned a dollar in her life. She keeps telling her father he's too old to marry again (he most certainly is NOT!) and he's taken her to Europe, South America, to the Orient; name it and they've been there.

He is such a dear and generous man, he doesn't want to hurt his daughter, but he says he loves me, and if I'll just be patient, in time his daughter will eventually come around to accepting me.

I want to marry this man, but I'm afraid it's hopeless.

What do you think?

GIVING UP

DEAR GIVING: It's hopeless, unless Father tells Daughter that it's important for her to start making a life of her own because he's not going to be around forever. Unless I missed my guess, Daughter might need some psychological surgery to separate her from her father. Unless Father is willing to go along with the above-mentioned suggestion, forget him. "Time" accomplishes nothing. People do.

DEAR ABBY: My "ex" and I have been divorced for 18 months, and I have custody of our four sons, ages 5 to 16. My "ex" has unrestricted visitation rights which he seldom uses, although we're all in the same city.

The few times he's come to see the boys, he just drives up in front of the house, honks his horn, and expects the boys to come running. (They do, of course.) He never offers to take them for a ride. He just visits with them while they stand in the street, and he sits in his car.

I feel this is degrading to the boys and have told the older one to please tell his father that he is welcome to come in our home to visit, and I would absent myself while he's here. (The divorce was so messy, my "ex" can't look me in the face.)

The last time he was here, our 13-year-old asked him for his address so he could write to him or maybe visit him there, and his father quickly drove off without even answering him. Needless to say, the boy was hurt and burst into tears, and his brothers were upset, too.

The boys say they feel funny standing on the street. How can this awkward situation be handled?

HURTING FOR THE BOYS

DEAR HURTING: Your 16-year-old should be sufficiently mature to tell Father that it's embarrassing to stand outside, visiting, and in the future he should please come in the house. (He can repeat the fact that "Mother" will not be around.) If that doesn't do it, since you're not speaking, perhaps your lawyer could write his lawyer a letter.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old adult who writes like an 8-year-old! As you can see, my penmanship is horrid! My husband is so embarrassed, he doesn't want me to address our Christmas cards. I try to slow down and write very carefully, but I find myself grasping the pen so hard my fingers ache.

I realize this is something that should have been corrected during my first few years in school, but unfortunately it wasn't.

This may not seem like a very serious problem to you, but it is to me.

Any suggestions you can give me will certainly be appreciated.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: I read every word of your letter with no difficulty and believe me, I have seen worse. Strive for legibility, and don't worry about the rest.

First Baptist Church to build new sanctuary

The congregation of the First Baptist Church, East and North Sts., will meet for services in the sanctuary for the last time Sunday; then for the next 40 weeks services will be held in Fellowship Hall of the relatively new Christian educational unit.

A wrecking crew will move in on that portion of the 85-year-old red brick house of worship which includes the sanctuary, Monday morning to make way for a new sanctuary building.

The congregation approved the construction of the new building Wednesday. It will cost $203,440 and the Wenrick Construction Co., of Medway, has the general contract. The goal is completion in 280 days.

The new sanctuary building, which will replace the one erected in 1885, will front on North St. extending into a recently purchased and cleared lot adjoining the present property on the south.

Plans call for a courtyard on the site of the old sanctuary building. The bell, which was cast in Cincinnati in the mid-1800s and which has called worshippers with its resonant tones from the square cupola atop the present entrance at the corner, will be placed in the courtyard. The stained glass will be moved from the present sanctuary and installed in the new one.

The new sanctuary building will be connected with the Christian Education unit and become a part of a virtually new house of worship. Services will be held in Fellowship Hall of the Christian Education building, erected in 1957, during the construction period.

The new sanctuary will have comfortable accommodations for slightly more than 300. The entrance will be at ground level from North St. The entrance to the present sanctuary is up about six steps from the corner. The new building also will include a lounge and restrooms.

When the new sanctuary building is completed, and merged with the Christian education unit, it will be the third house of worship on the site. The first one was destroyed by a tornado in 1888 and the present building was erected in its place in 1888.

The congregation approved the construction of a new and larger sanctuary because of the steady growth of the membership and congregations for worship services. In 1959, the church had a membership of 425; today it is about 650. Congregations in 1959 averaged 125 for worship services, by 1963 it had increased to 225 but them slumped because the sanctuary was too small. During the last few years, however, with prospects of enlargement in the offing, attendance has been picking up.

District Presbytery meeting to be held in Columbus

All three Presbyterian Churches in Fayette County will be represented at the installation of the Rev. Hugh Bean Evans as the executive presbyter, a mission fair and banquet at the fifth stated meeting of the Presbytery of the Scioto Valley Tuesday, Sept. 18, in the Broad Street Presbyterian Church in Columbus.

The Rev. Gerald Wheat and one of the elders (not yet designated) will represent the First Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Wilbur Bullock and Elder Gerald Leasure, will represent McNair Church here. Elder John Sollars will represent the Bloomingburg church, which presently has no fulltime pastor.

In addition to the official delegates (the pastor and one elder), several members of each of the three churches are expected to attend the meeting as observers. Mrs. Robert Hyer and Mrs. Naomi Reif, of McNair Church, have said they plan to attend as guests.

The Rev. Mr. Evans will be installed at 8 p.m. following the banquet.

Representatives of other denominational units in the area have been invited to attend and participate in the processional. Banners of the missions on six continents also will be included in the processional.

The new executive presbyter succeeds the Rev. Arthur M. Romig, who retired after 42 years of service. The Rev. Mr. Evans, a native of Gallipolis, has served churches in Philadelphia and Cincinnati. He has served 28 years as a pastor and five as an administrator.

Church plans lecture series

A series of lectures on faith and beliefs entitled "What Do We Believe?" will be presented at the McNair Presbyterian Church each Sunday evening in October.

The series will involve four denominations. The purpose of the program is to allow congregation members to better understand the basic beliefs of other churches.

Refreshments will be served in the church basement following each service.

The schedule follows: Oct. 7, Grace United Methodist Church; Oct. 14, First Baptist Church; Oct. 21, Good Shepherd Lutheran Church, and Oct. 28, Catholic chaplain of the Chillicothe Correctional Institute.

Wedding in Wharton announced here

First Church of God in Wharton was the setting Sept. 1 for the marriage of Miss Deborah Sue Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Barr of Wharton and Jack Riley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Riley Sr. of Washington C.H. Rev. Clarence Thornton officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

Assorted summer flowers in pink, green, yellow and blue filled the altar vases. Mrs. Larry Watson, organist, and Mrs. Russell Willeke, vocalist, presented a prelude of wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her father, Miss Barr chose a chiffon organza gown with high mandarin neckline, bishop sleeves, and a semi full skirt, with Venice lace trim on the bodice and sleeves. Her camelot cap held the chapel length mantilla edged with Venice lace. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis on her mother's Bible.

Mrs. Dennis Rodabaugh of Findlay was matron of honor. She wore a yellow dotted Swiss gown with empire waist, bishop sleeves, mandarin collar and yellow garden hat. She carried a nosegay of assorted flowers in yellow, blue, green and pink. The bridesmaids were Miss Debra Long, Miss Patricia Pever, and Miss Betty Fast, all of Wharton, who wore gowns identical to that of the matron of honor, except in blue, pink and green. They carried nosegays of summer flowers.

Glenn Riley Jr., served as best man. Steve Forkner of Middletown, John Hancock of Columbus, and Dennis Rodabaugh of Findlay were the ushers.

The bride's mother wore a pink linen dress and a corsage of assorted summer flowers. The groom's mother chose a green knit dress trimmed in gold. She, too, wore a corsage.

Hostesses for the reception held in the church social room were Miss Becky Conley of Columbus, Miss Luanne Bristoll of Wharton, Miss Bonnie Bock of Tiffin and Miss Kathy Bock of Tiffin.

Following a wedding trip to Geauga Lake, the couple is residing at 379 Oak St., Columbus.

The new Mrs. Riley, a graduate of Riverdale High School and Columbus Business University, is employed by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. Her husband, a graduate of Miami Trace High School and Columbus Business University, is employed by Motorist Mutual Insurance Company in Columbus.

The groom's parents were hosts at dinner at the church following rehearsal on Friday.

Maple Grove Church plans supper

The Young Adult Class of the Maple Grove United Methodist Church met in the home of Mrs. Carey Daugherty to make final plans for the annual chicken and noodle supper to be held at the Maple Grove schoolhouse on the White Pike, Sept. 20. Serving will begin at 5 p.m. and the menu will consist of chicken and noodles, mashed potatoes, green beans and corn, slaw, sliced tomatoes, homemade pie, coffee, iced tea and rolls.

Mrs. Neil Rowland presented devotions and reports were given by Mrs. Mary Beoddy.

The class voted to serve luncheon on Election Day at the Maple Grove schoolhouse, as another money-making project to help finance the payments on the church piano.

Refreshments were served to Mr. and Mrs. Neil Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. John Craig, Dr. and Mrs. John Louis, Mrs. Beoddy and Mrs. Ottie Huff.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Huff.

The leading tomato varieties recommended today are Water, Tropic, Manapal, Homestead and Floradel.

Output of broilers this year is expected to be near the nine billion pounds produced in 1972.

Class meets

"Holy Communion" was the devotions topic presented by Mrs. Harry Fichthorn, president of the Loyal Daughters Class of McNair Presbyterian Church, when the group met with Mrs. Marvin Waddle recently.

Scripture was read by Mrs. Allen Hays, reports were presented and Betty Holder was welcomed as a member of the class. Money-making projects were discussed.

All were reminded to attend the series of lectures of Faith and Beliefs to be held in the church at 7:30 p.m. each Sunday evening in October. This will involve different church denominations of the community.

The Loyal Daughters class will have the visiting of the sick and shut-ins in the months of Oct., Nov. and Dec.

There will be a Halloween party at the home of Mrs. John Warnecke Oct. 13 on Saturday evening at 5 p.m. Featured will be a weiner roast, and each is to bring wieners, buns, marshmallows and a covered dish also their own table service.

The 40th anniversary of the class will be observed in April, 1974. Mrs. Ivan Kelley and Mrs. Wilbur Bullock were named co-chairman for this event.

Sept. 23 there will be a fellowship potluck dinner at the church at 5:30 p.m. Entertainment will follow.

The annual bazaar will be held in the month of November in the home of Mrs. Charles Keaton.

Refreshments were served.

DAYP Club sews items

Mrs. Mike Williams and Mrs. Howard Williams were co-chairmen of the DAYP Club meeting, when ten members met and crocheted afghans, knitted and crocheted shaws, and had other sewing items. Mrs. Mike Williams was welcomed as a new member.

The next meeting will be Oct. 9 at 1 p.m. in the home of Mrs. Orris Mallow.

Present were Mrs. Harold Callender and son Rusty, Mrs. Mallow, Mrs. Arthur Pettit, Mrs. Alex Wackman, Mrs. Ruth Smith, Mrs. Ella Speakman, Mrs. Emil Howard, Mrs. Charles Burke, Mrs. Clifton Roberts, the hostesses and Kathy Williams.

Ten classes announced for County Fall Flower Show

The Fayette County Garden Clubs Council meeting took place in the Sulky Restaurant, when Mrs. Donald Meredith, contact chairman, opened the meeting. Each club is to display three items at the Fish and Game Lodge for the Sept. 22 show.

All of the clubs in the county will be hosts for the Regional meeting to be held Oct. 30 in Mahan Hall. Mrs. William Summers is registration chairman. All reservations must be in by Oct. 24, and the fee is $4.00. "Christmas in October" is the theme for the meeting. Mrs. Grace Rea is the scheduled speaker, who will also demonstrate how to make holiday decorations and arrangements. The coffee hour will be from 9 to 10 a.m. Twin Oaks members will be in charge of the favors and name tags; Posy Club will have the decoration; Fayette will be the hostess; and the Town and Country Club will be in charge of registration.

The Fall Flower Show is Nov. 28, when the ten classes are: Silent Night (green and silver), We Three Kings of Orient (arrangement in a gold crown), Oh Star of Wonder (door swag using a star or star-trimmed), Good Will Toward Men (gift basket of beauty), On Earth Peace (white and silver decoration for mantle and candles may be used), Deck the Halls with Boughs of Holly (holly and fruit), Joy to the World (wreath decorated with tree balls, and candles permitted), One Horse Open Sleigh (arrangement in a sleigh), Star Dust (your dream of a Christmas), and Child's Christmas (your own interpretation or an assembledge).

The next council meeting will be Nov. 5, and the County Flower Show is planned for Dec. 3 in Good Shepherd Lutheran Church. Arrangements must be in place by 11:30 a.m. that day.

Those present were Mrs. Fred Rivenburgh of the Posy Club; Mrs. Lee Cleland and Mrs. Alvin Armintrout of Town and Country; Mrs. Dale Merritt, Washington Garden Club; Mrs. Robert Meriweather of the Fayette Club; Mrs. Dana Kellenberger and Mrs. Tom Braden of Twin Oaks; and Mrs. Donald Meredith, county contact chairman.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. William Beal of Monticello, Iowa, formerly of Washington C.H., have announced the engagement of their daughter Esther Lynn to Allen Kleinkauf of Ames, Iowa, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Kleinkauf of Norfolk, Neb.

Miss Beal is a graduate of Miami Trace High School and a student at Iowa State University, Ames, Iowa. Her fiance is a graduate of Norfolk High School, Norfolk Nebraska Junior College and a student at Iowa State University. He is also employed by the Rock Island Railroad.

The wedding will be and event of early summer following Miss Beal's graduation from Iowa State University.

Mrs. Pemberton club hostess

Mrs. Donald Pemberton welcomed the United Methodist Women of Staunton to her home, and was assisted in the hospitalities by Mrs. Billy Harper and daughter Jody.

Mrs. Alice Bush conducted the meeting and Mrs. Walter Parrett presented devotions by reading Corinthians 13, and the poem "All Embracing Love." Reports were heard and the group voted to donate $5.00 to the leukemia fund, and to serve lunch at the farm sale of Mr. and Mrs. Parrett planned Sept. 22.

The group also voted to hold a holiday bazaar Oct. 27 from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the VFW Hall, W. Elm St.

Mrs. Mae Pullin and Mrs. Clifford Daugherty were guests. Mrs. Daugherty became a new member of the group. Mrs. Harry Hayslip was winner of the door prize, and the next meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. Oct. 4 with Mrs. Jed Stuckey. Mrs. Lela Allen will be assisting hostess.

Those present besides the guests were Rev. and Mrs. W. Baker, Miss Oma Waddle, Mrs. Hayslip, Mrs. Florence Bethards, Mrs. Alice Bush, Mrs. Elza Smith, Mrs. Homer Wilson, Mrs. C.S. Wikle, Mrs. Stuckey, Mrs. Pemberton, Mrs. Harper, Mrs. Parrett and Jody Harper.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Von Bargen of Bloomingburg, attended the wedding of Miss Gale Ann Hull and Eugene Phillip Whetzel in St. John Episcopal Church in Worthington on Sunday. The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James R. Hull of Columbus, formerly of Greenfield.

Class meets at Schlichter home

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Schlichter were hosts at a Homebuilders Class meeting. Mrs. Blodwen Melvin was the assisting hostess. Mrs. Lester Haines conducted the meeting and devotions, and Mrs. Dwight King played several piano solos.

Thank you notes were read for cookies donated to the junior choir members for a trip to Kings Island from Mrs. Gary Hidy, and a letter from Mrs. Ethel Wilson was read. She is residing with her daughter in Columbus, and recuperating from a broken hip. Mrs. Harold Knisley was recognized for having a birthday.

It was announced there will be no meeting in October. On Nov. 13 at 8 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Haines will be hosts at a class meeting. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett will be assisting hosts and Ralph Hays will present devotions, and Glenn Hidy the program.

There were 15 present and two contests were conducted by Mrs. Knisley. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Haines, Mrs. King, Mr. and Mrs. Leland Dorn, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barrett, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knisley, Mrs. Melvin and Mr. and Mrs. Schlichter.

Speaking of Your Health...

Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Living With a Colostomy

My wife has just had a serious operation for the removal of a tumor in her intestines. It was necessary for the surgeon to make a colostomy opening.

Even though she seems to be recovering from the surgery she cannot fully accept the fact that she will have to go through life with this artificial opening for her bowels.

How can we help her?

Mr. B.J., Ky.

Dear Mr. J.:

Surgery for the removal of a tumor of the large intestine has progressed tremendously in the last 30 years.

At one time, these tumors were inaccessible and many lives were sacrificed prematurely.

Now, with antibiotics and refined surgical techniques, it is possible to remove cancerous and benign tumors of the bowel so that people can attain normal longevity.

A colostomy opening is formed in order to make it possible for the bowels to be emptied, even though a portion of the intestine was removed.

Sometimes, a temporary colostomy is made. Later, this is repaired, the colostomy opening is closed, and the normal bowel movements return.

When it is impossible to re-establish the normal path of the intestines, a permanent colostomy opening is necessary.

It is completely understandable that so much anxiety should exist in people who have learned that a permanent colostomy is essential to save their lives.

It is also understandable that it is difficult for your wife to adjust herself to the impact of this experience.

With time and your considerate understanding, she will adjust to the problems of a colostomy opening and she will flourish in the knowledge that her life has been spared.

She will eventually take her normal place in society as a mother and as a loving wife.

Modern colostomy appliances are so near-perfect that no one other than you and her doctor need know anything about the existing condition.

Slowly, your wife's sense of depression will disappear as she draws on her inner reserve and learns to take her rightful place in her home and community.

There are now groups of national and local "colostomy clubs" composed of people who are functioning with colostomy openings and who have conquered the emotional impact of the situation.

Many of these people are dedicating themselves to going to the hospitals and visiting new colostomy patients to demonstrate how free they are from any social embarrassment.

The discomfort of a colostomy will be overwhelmingly compensated by your wife's sustained good health.

How soon after a child is born can club feet be treated?

Mrs. T.M., Vt.

Dear Mrs. M.:

The repositioning of feet is done as early as possible, with plaster casts. The results are excellent.

After X-rays are taken, the severity of the club feet will be determined by the surgeon, who will choose the earliest time for correction.

Contract Bridge ♠♥♦♣ B. Jay Becker

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Hearts. North leads the king of clubs, which you ruff. When you then play the ace of hearts, North discards a spade. How would you play the hand?

	♠ A3 ♥ AQ9532 ♦ 109832 ♣ —
♠ K ♥ K104 ♦ AKQ ♣ J98642	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump and North leads the jack of clubs, South following suit. How would you play the hand?

	♠ Q853 ♥ AK4 ♦ AK9 ♣ AKQ
♠ A62 ♥ 953 ♦ 842 ♣ 7643	N W E S

1. To give yourself the best chance, allow for the possibility of either opponent's having four diamonds to the jack. Play the ten of hearts on the ace, cash the king of hearts, king of spades and ace of diamonds, and follow this by finessing the nine of hearts.

Next cash the queen of hearts and ace of spades, discarding the K-Q of diamonds from dummy! Then play the ten of diamonds to force out the jack, and this will be your only loser.

If the diamonds are divided 3-2, this method of play will cost you a trick worth 30 points, but if they are divided 4-1, you will be some 1,000 or 1,500 points richer, depending on vulnerability.

2. Win the club with the queen and cash the ace. If everyone follows suit cash the king, hoping for a 3-3 division that would give you the ninth trick.

If the clubs prove to be divided 4-2 (or 5-1), play a low spade, also playing low from dummy! Win the heart or diamond return and play a low spade to the ace. Assuming nothing of interest occurs, lead a low spade towards the Q-8.

This line of play will make the contract if: 1. the clubs are divided 3-3; 2. either opponent has the singleton king of spades; 3. either opponent has the doubleton king of spades; 4. the spades are divided 3-3; 5. South has any number of spades including the king.

Note that the low spade play from dummy the first time the suit is led covers the case where North has K-x, which you wouldn't know about if you started the suit by playing the ace and another spade. This maneuver greatly enhances your chances of making the contract.

State Department uncertain of future course with Chile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senior American officials said today it is still not clear whether long-term U.S. interests were served by the ouster of Marxist president Salvador Allende and his replacement by an anti-Communist military junta.

"A strong case could be made for the theory that the U.S. would have been better off if Allende had finished the three remaining years of his term, the economic suffering in Chile had continued and the Allende forces had lost in a landslide election," said one well-placed official. He conceded, however, that the takeover could be a benefit to U.S. commercial interests in Chile.

"It remains to be seen whether or not U.S. interests are served," he said.

The official used the argument to dispute what he described as the "presumption in the press" that the coup strengthens U.S. position in Latin America and "therefore we had a hand in the overthrow."

The sense of frustration at the State Department over a rash of accusations alleging U.S. complicity in the coup was underscored during a state Department briefing Thursday an which spokesman Paul Hare was interrogated for almost an hour on the U.S. activities leading up to the coup.

At one point, Hare told newsmen, "I'll never be able to satisfy you that we were not involved." He acknowledged the State Department had received reports of a move against Allende prior to the coup. But he dismissed them saying a "steady stream" of rumors of an anti-Allende coup had been picked up here in recent months.

New mortgages total $1,872,726 during August

New real estate mortgages totaling $1,872,726 were recorded in Fayette County during August, a slight decrease when compared with the previous month's figure $2,072,969.14.

Mortgage releases totaled $1,095,236 and mortgage releases in July were $1,811,660.85.

The new mortgage figure includes $941,300 on 994.59 acres of farm property in 29 transactions and $931,426 on 58 lots and other platted properties.

Released during the month were $540,736 in mortgages on 47 lots and $554,500 in liens on 1,184.68 acres of farm real estate in 32 transactions, the report prepared by Mrs. Lorie Armbrust, county recorder, discloses.

A TOTAL of 120 deeds were recorded in August, 46 of them changing title to 2,218.51 acres of farm property. There were four certificates of transfer for rural properties and seven lots.

Other instruments recorded in August were:

Two court orders for transfers, one affidavit for transfer, nine right of ways, agreements, one correction deed, two cemetery deeds, four open-end mortgages, one supplemental mortgage, one land contract, one land option, two re-recorded mortgages, one mortgage assignment, one oil and gas lease assignment, two lease releases, two leases, two recorded mortgage releases, 18 partial mortgage releases, four open-end mortgage releases, one land contract release, three unemployment compensation liens, three power of attorney, three military discharges and 116 financing statements.

On registered land, one mortgage was recorded.

Supporters of Lukens file suit

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A second suit has been filed challenging the constitutionality of a state law that bars State Sen. Donald E. "Buz" Lukens from seeking office for five years.

Lukens himself earlier challenged the expenses reporting statute when Ohio Secretary of State Clarence Brown refused to accept Lukens' petitions to run in the Republican gubernatorial primary. He challenged the law in a federal court in Columbus.

Four Lukens supporters challenged the law Thursday in a suit filed in U.S. District Court here.

They said they were deprived of their right to vote for, and support Lukens in the primary. The action also alleged the law, Brown and the Butler County Board of elections deprived Lukens of his constitutional right to his profession—politics.

The elections board and Brown barred Lukens from running for further office last fall. They charged he failed to report his campaign expenses on time.

Lukens countered that he did file but the report was lost in the U.S. Postal Service. He presented what he called a "duplicate" report but it was declared to be too late.

Banks, stock brokers face clash

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Are bankers contriving to steal business from stock brokers?

A growing number of securities people, including the head of the New York Stock Exchange, think so. Their complaints are getting louder and a nasty conflict seems inevitable.

The instrument of the banks' involvement is the so-called automatic investment service or automatic investment plan that permits customers to buy stocks directly from the bank.

Investors are offered a choice of 25 blue chip stocks that can be accumulated automatically through monthly deductions from the bank account. The sums range from about $25 to as much as $500.

The bank then can lump together all the purchases and obtain a volume commission when it buys the stocks. In addition to the small commission, the customer pays a monthly service charge of about 5 per cent.

Such plans are in keeping with the long-range goal of commercial banks to promote themselves as the supermarkets of financial services. You may have noticed their slogans: one-stop banking, fullservice bank, etc.

The brokers maintain that the plans do a disservice to them — and probably to customers too.

James Needham, chairman of the New York Exchange, complained this week to the comptroller of the currency that the banks might be violating the Glass-Seagall Act.

This act restricts the selling and distribution of securities by banks, limiting such activities to mere accommodation of customers. Most people, including some bankers, didn't know banks could buy or sell at all.

The right always was there, but the banks never advertised it. Then brokers began turning away small customers, and some bankers began musing over how to accommodate them.

Needham said in his letter to Comptroller James Smith, "To our knowledge, no effort is being made by the banks to counsel these persons on their investment needs, nor is any inquiry made as to whether they should be purchasing the listed stocks promoted under the plan."

The Investment Company Institute, spokesman for the mutual fund industry, also has complained to bank regulators. Like brokers, many mutual fund promoters have been doing poorly of late, both for themselves and customers.

There is another intriguing possibility that has brokers worried. Those 25 blue chips stocks are generally the same ones that the banks keep in their trust departments.

Is it conceivable that bankers might be able to buy and sell stocks within the bank — "crossing" orders from their own supplies — thus never paying commissions at all?

In the view of many brokers, this would be the most unpardonable offense of all. It is where any broker would make his stand.

New diet for cows ups output

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — A Canton research veterinarian says farmers could save corn for themselves and feed their cattle cornstalks with the help of a supplement he has developed.

Dr. J. B. Davidson, who began marketing what he calls Custom Blend Agri-Feed this month, said the supplement provides a balanced living environment for the bacteria that break down cellulose in three of a cow's four stomachs.

"It's just a matter of keeping those little rascals alive and working good," he said. "To keep those bugs happy, you have to have just the right conditions."

He said a pound or two of the supplement daily keeps them happy enough to about triple the beef or milk yield of the cow's foraging diet. The supplement will be produced at Wooster.

Davidson bases that figure on a yield of 600 pounds of beef from an acre of corn. Using his supplement — with the cornstalks and leaves as the cow's diet — an average acre would produce up to 2,000 pounds of beef, he said.

"We're furnishing a diet that will make these bacteria function best with a cellulose diet," Davidson said.

He said the supplement will be important worldwide, especially in countries where the available grain is needed as much by humans as animals.

He said that his company, Agri-Stook, Inc., decided to put the product on the market this fall after feed grain prices nearly tripled in a year.

The 100 per cent forage diet would, in effect, turn pastures into feedlots, Davidson said.

Tests showed that when the supplement was used, dairy cattle could switch from full grain diets to 100 per cent forage and back to grain with no drop in milk production, he said.

The feed supplement works with all ruminants (four-stomached animals) but not with a variety of other livestock, ranging from chickens to pigs, which digest food differently, he said.

Davidson said he had been experimenting with the supplement for about 27 years. He said he first became interested at Michigan State as a student, helping to install one of the first windows into a cow's stomach.

Later he discovered that sick cattle often recovered quickly when bacteria-bearing roughage from a dead cow's stomach was added to its own.

The bacteria in a cow's digestive system were no secret, but most researchers took a different approach over the years, he said. "A good per cent of research has been directed toward balancing a grain diet," he said. "That's fine, as long as there's plenty of grain."

19 obscenity cases killed by judge

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)—A judge, who threw out 19 obscenity cases here Thursday, said the Ohio General Assembly should rewrite the obscenity laws during its special session.

Clinton County Common Pleas Court Judge Paul E. Riley, sitting as a special judge in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court, ruled that Ohio's present obscenity laws "are vague and too general."

He was called in at the request of five Hamilton County Common Pleas Court judges to hear arguments in all the cases which were on file before June 21.

On that date, the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that obscenity cases should be judged on standards for local communities.

Judge Riley cited the decision in his three-page ruling. He said the decision orders the states to specifically describe what is prohibited.

Hamilton County Prosecutor Simon Leis Jr. argued that the present laws were specific enough.

He has 40 other obscenity cases pending in Hamilton County Municipal Court and the First U.S. District Court of Appeals.

St. Benedict, founder of the Order of Benedictine Monks, was educated in Rome.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tonight's premiere episode of "Calucci's Dept." looked great when it was taped here a few weeks ago. The studio audience seemed to enjoy it and so did its cast and crew.

But something vanished between then and the time the CBS Television network accepted the show as the starting entry against NBC's top-rated "Sanford & Son" and ABC's "Brady Bunch."

The opening effort in the new series, which concerns a New York unemployment office inhabited by crazies, drones and clock watchers, seems to go flat on the small screen.

I can't explain why, but the editing may be the villain. The show now drags and sputters along. It's brought alive only occasionally, thanks to an actor named Jose Perez.

Perez, a regular, plays Ramon, a young Puerto Rican staffer who blows his stack one morning after a red-tape squabble over who is supposed to give what forms to whom.

He tosses papers around, screams and storms out of the office forever. His boss, Calucci, played by James Coco, follows him home and tries to persuade him to return to work.

"You're only 22 years away from your pension," he tells the kid, who insists he plans to open a Sno-Cone franchise, be his own boss, become a millionaire and live in a castle above San Juan harbor.

Calucci insists the Civil Service life has merit, too. To which the kid retorts: "You call that living? I call it doo-doo."

"My life," gasps Calucci, "is doo-doo?"

But all ends well and Ramon eventually returns, an unwise move considering the way this show's pace comes across on the TV screen. Perhaps next Friday's effort will improve.

★★★★

However, another new series premiering on ABC tonight — "Adam's Rib" — is off to a good start with fine editing, directing and acting that saves what otherwise would be a soso script.

The series, based on the 1949 movie with Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, is about two lawyers married to each other. They frequently oppose each other in court, then make up afterwards.

She (Blythe Danner) is an idealistic Legal Aid type while he (Ken Howard) is a courtroom-wise assistant district attorney.

Tonight's plot concerns a young girl arrested for "soliciting." Miss Danner attempts to prove in court that in situations of this kind the male rarely, if ever, is arrested and prosecuted.

The dialogue tends to be on the cutesy side, but Miss Danner and Howard do a highly professional job and don't wince. The ending will annoy Women's Lib — he saves her in court — but no matter.

Ohio Perspective

Even solon can't fight City Hall

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Rep. Robert L. Netzley, R-81 Laura, often rages about bureaucracy in government and claims that many highly paid government officials don't know what they are doing.

Netzley, a fuel oil distributor, cites a personal example of how some bureaucrats and their computers work.

In 1968, the City of Trotwood took a Netzley-owned service station for a highway-widening project in condemnation proceedings.

But, every year since then, Netzley has received a bill for taxes on the property, now in the middle of the roadway. Netzley ignored the delinquent notices.

Now he has received a notice from the Montgomery County Prosecuting Attorney's office that if he doesn't pay around $2,000 he'll be taken into court.

Netzley takes it all philosophically. "If a member of government can't get things changed, what chance has the little guy got?"

Gov. John J. Gilligan, at a recent outing he hosted for the Statehouse news corps, came down the steps of the governor's mansion brandishing a hand-crafted Kentucky Rifle at reporters and their guests.

"All right," he said, "now let's have a news conference."

Gilligan really just wanted to show off the museum piece, but a few newsmen reportedly weren't sure the gun was unloaded.

For years, government agencies have urged stream channelization projects to straighten the natural curves of streams and rivers, reducing swampy ground and providing more areas for farming.

Now comes the Ohio Department of Natural Resources announcing a policy to discourage the practice.

Director William B. Nye indicated that enlarging, reshaping and straightening a channel to carry more water may be outdated.

Nye said his department will no longer support or approve such projects unless the local government has enacted flood plan regulations complying with department criteria.

Nye said many of the projects may result in unnecessary enforcemental damages.

"The basic solution to the flood problems," he said, "lies in a combination of prudent land use and flood insurance, not in ever increasing public expenditures for governmental flood control projects such as channel modification, levees and reservoirs."

Farm Bureau names personnel, acts on 32 resolutions

Three new trustees were announced, a youth director and a woman director were elected, delegates and alternates were named to the 1974 state convention and 32 resolutions and one question were voted on at the annual meeting of the Fayette County Farm Bureau Thursday night.

The approximately 125 of nearly 700 members at the session, following dinner in the Mahan Building, heard Henry Shriver tell them that "members make the difference."

In his talk which was laced with humor, wisdom and pungent phrases, he said "the staff sets the pace but the members run the race" and "the board has the expertise but the members furnish the elbow grease."

He declared that one of the most important functions of the Farm Bureau is in the field of legislation, noting that "there are those who lift and those who lead."

THE THREE NEW trustees, who were elected in a mail vote by the Farm Bureau members of the townships in which they live, are: Green Twp., Hugh Wilson, succeeding John Leland; Concord Twp., Martin Smith, succeeding Allen Myers; and Jasper Twp., James Paisley, succeeding Philip Miller.

The woman member elected at large is Mrs. Dwight Duff and the youth director at large is Ronald Burke.

Farm Bureau President Richard Davidson and his successor-to-be, Wayne Hidy, were chosen as delegates to the 1974 state Farm Bureau convention. The alternates named are Richard Carson and Mrs. Allen Myers.

In voting on the resolutions, which will be sent to State Farm Bureau headquarters to be compiled with those of other county Farm Bureaus as the state Farm Bureau policy, the Fayette Countians expressed concern over potential drainage, sewer and sanitary problems at rural housing developments and subdivisions.

They approved, 75 to 3, a resolution to encourage the Rural Planning Commission, City Planning Commission and Board of County Commissioners to enforce the existing regulations on rural housing developments, especially those pertaining to drainage and sanitation. And they voted 75 to 1 to request the Board of County Commissioners and Rural Planning Commission to upgrade regulations on subdivisions in the field of drainage and sewers.

IN OTHER resolutions, they voted:

To encourage (75 to 1) county and township officials to use appropriated funds for improvement of rural roads and bridges;

To support (78-0) Issue 1 to permit valuation of agricultural land for taxation in accordance with agricultural use;

To support (71-2) enforcement of state laws for weed control on state and public utility lands, because noxious weeds spread to privately owned land by means of wind-blown seeds;

To commend (74-2) the sheriff "for a job well done";

To continue (75-0) emphasis on rural safety on and off the farm;

To eliminate (73-0) eliminate highway hazards caused by weeds, brush etc., which create blind sports by methods suggested at a meeting of Farm Bureau committee, county engineer and state highway officials;

TO COMMEND (73-1) the Chamber of Commerce for its interest in and support of Fayette County Agriculture;

To support (77-0) the Area Chamber of Commerce in its quest for additional physicians;

To develop (76-1) a system of dead stock removal which would guarantee the hauler a profit;

To continue (77-0) a study of emergency squad service.

THE RESOLUTIONS were all adopted almost unanimously, but the question "Are you in favor of a bond issue for construction of the junior high school (in the Miami Trace District) was approved by only 35 to 24.

In voting on resolutions pertaining to state policies, the group approved a percentage checkoff which protects farmers against bankruptcy of grain elevators; research for ways to control crop-damaging birds; mandatory Workman's Compensation on all farm employes and a Farm Bureau consultant service; Department of Natural Resources recommendations for watershed projects; reporting of violations by welfare recipients. However, they opposed Environmental Protection Agency regulations being made without agricultural background.

The group also expressed opposition (68-2) to the ban on agricultural exports and a return to a policy of "building and improving agricultural export markets."

County shares in state funds

Fayette County received $6,306.57 as its share of Local Government Fund money distributed for September to Ohio's 88 counties, and to 318 cities and villages having local income taxes, according to State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

The September distribution was $805,000 higher than that of August.

Thus far in 1973, the counties, and cities and villages having income taxes, have received a total of $41,926,224.72 in Local Government Fund money. The money is derived from taking 3.5 per cent of state collections of personal, corporation and sales taxes during the preceding month.

Three men indicted in vendor tampering

The Fayette County September term grand jury returned indictments Thursday afternoon against three persons charged with tampering with a coin-operated machine.

John T. Horn, 19, of Dayton, Michael L. Blanchard, 20, of Brookville, and David K. Burdett, 19, of Dayton, were indicted on two felony counts and one misdemeanor count each in connection with the June 20 entry into a soft drink machine at Yeoman's Gulf station, U.S. 35 and Interstate 71.

Each man was charged with tampering with a coin-operated machine and possession of burglary tools, both felonies, as well as stealing coins from the machine which, due to the small amount taken, is classed as a misdemeanor.

Members of the jury were Jean West, foreman; Carl A. Snyder; Freda D. Shaw, Diana L. Kirkpatrick, Larry M. McConkey, Myrtle Troute, Frances Butcher, Mary M. Wood and William Rittenhouse.

The defendants will be arraigned before Common Pleas Judge Evelyn W. Coffman at a later date.

50-year Mason receives award at lodge meet

A 50-year membership pin and certificate of merit were presented to William Markley at the regular meeting of Fayette Lodge of Masons No. 107 Wednesday night by Virgil E. Lowe, a past district deputy grand master of Ohio on behlaf of the Grand Lodge of Ohio and Fayette Lodge.

Lester Bower, master of Fayette Lodge, welcomed Markley and presented him to Lowe for the honors award.

The 50-year awards are granted by the Grand Ldoge of Ohio in recognition of half a century of continuous memebership in a Masonic Lodge.

Markley, who spends much of the year at his home in Flordia, was unable to present last spring when other 50-year awards were made. His son, Donald, was among those who witnessed the ceremony here Wednesday night.

6 special shoots planned for sportsmen event

Visitors at the National Hunting-Fishing Day celebration, to be sponsored by the Fayette County Fish and Game Association Saturday, Sept. 22, will be treated to six special shooting exhibitions.

Two police combat pistol shooting, two trap shooting and two muzzle loader shooting exhibitions will be given by the members of the Fish and Game Association starting at 9 a.m.

In addition to the shooting exhibitions, a coon dog field trial and several tomahawk throwing demonstrations will be featured on the activity-filled program.

The public is invited to attend.

Gun found in traffic check

Three youths charged with possessing drug

Three boys were arrested for possession of marijuana, two in connection with a bicycle theft, and one man was arrested for driving while intoxicated and carrying a concealed weapon during a busy night for local law enforcement agencies.

Sheriff's Deputy Charles Wise checked out a car parked on Hidy Road near the Interstate 71 overpass about 7 p.m. and found a bag of "green vegetation" on the floorboard. Randy E. Harris, 18, Xenia, and two juveniles from Jeffersonville who were in and around the car were charged with posession of marijuana. The Jeffersonville youths are 15 and 16 years old.

At about the same time, Patrolman William Robinson of the Washington Police was on routine patrol when he saw two boys "sanding" a bicycle in a lot on Peabody Avenue. As the cruiser approached, the boys fled.

The bicycle was identified by George Jones, 914 Pearl St., as one he had reported stolen Wednesday night, and a resident near the scene gave the police a description of the boys. They were arrested a short time later and charged with bicycle larceny and removing parts. One of the boys, 15, is from Xenia; the other 16, lives in Washington C.H.

Police Officer Larry Hott was patroling at 1:30 a.m. Friday when he saw a car whose driver seemed to be having trouble staying on the roadway. He stopped the vehicle and the driver, Fred Martin, 54, of 723 Gregg St., got out. When patrolman Hott approached the vehicle, the driver got back into the auto and opened the glove compartment which contained a .22 caliber pistol which later was found to have been loaded.

Hott pulled Martin away from the passenger side and arrested him. He was charged with failure to drive on the right side of the roadway, driving while intoxicated and carrying a concealed weapon.

Other incident reports to police Thursday were from Jay Phillips who said he was driving on Columbus Avenue when his windshield was cracked by an object apparently thrown from another car, and Ida Moore, 67, of 522 Warren Ave., who had to be taken to the hospital when she fell in her home. She received leg injuries which were not serious.

Nuclear testing comes to end

PARIS (AP) — The French government announced today that its 1973 nuclear weapon tests in the South Pacific have ended.

The announcement came in the form of a notice in the official journal cancelling the warning to maritime traffic to steer clear of an area 60 miles around the Mururoa Atoll, the French nuclear testing site. In the absence of any other official announcement, the notice was a signal that the tests were completed for the year.

The test series this year generated an even larger volume of protests, particularly in Australia and New Zealand, both of which have Labor governments for the first time in years.

Genealogical workshop set for Saturday

The Ohio Genealogical Society will hold a workshop meeting on Saturday at Scot's Inn, Springfield on Ohio Rt. 72, off I-70.

The mornings activities will begin with registration and a coffee hour at 9:00 a.m. The meeting will convene at 10 a.m. with a short report to be given by Mrs. Frank Henney concerning the Cemetery Checklist project.

Mrs. Esther Powell will discuss formation of chapters of the OGS.

The morning session will conclude with a discussion of the land surveys in Southwestern Ohio, by Don Bowman, who is a civil engineer and an active genealogist within the Brethren Church. There will be ample time for questions and answers following each speaker, and various books, maps, and other materials will be on display at tables in the meeting room.

The meeting will break at noon for lunch, and the various groups interested in forming local chapters of the OGS in the various counties will have an opportunity to be seated together for this purpose.

The formal meeting will resume at 1:30 and will consist of a panel to include Anita Short, editor of "Ohio, Gateway to the West," George Robinson, Washington C.H., president of the South Central Ohio Genealogical Society, Joseph McDowell, librarian of the Genealogical Dept. of Cincinnati and Hamilton County Library, and Mary Miller, retired librarian of the Warder Public Library of Springfield.

These speakers will discuss sources and special problems in research in Southwestern Ohio, which was settled very early in the history of Ohio, included so many who had served in the Revolutionary War, and helped open the Ohio country after the Revolution was over.

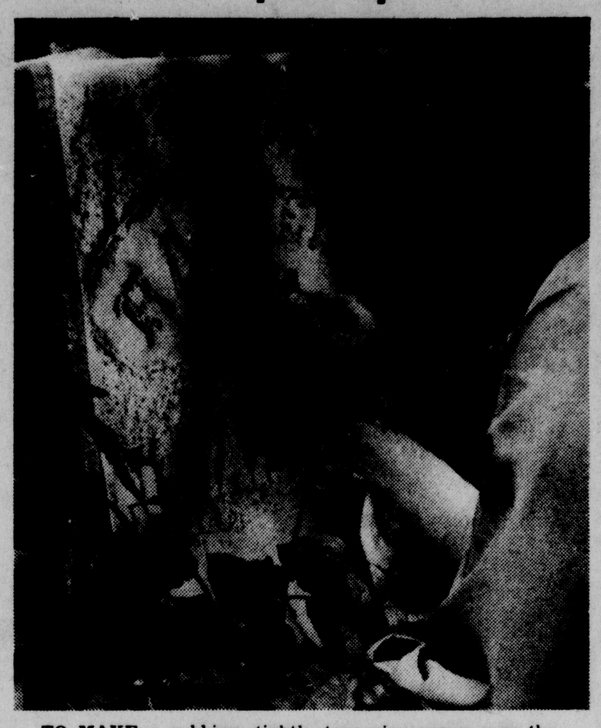

This workshop is open to the public.

Alabama apple growers will harvest about the same volume of apples this year that they did in 1972.

'Grave rubbers' haunt cemeteries, taking impressions of epitaphs

FINE examples of the early stonecutter's art can be found in the old cemeteries of the New England states.

TO MAKE a rubbing, tightly tape rice paper over the stone, then rub a crayon or wax stick over the paper.

THESE rubbings were made in an old cemetery near Cuba in Allegany County, New York, by a couple of expert hobbyists.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

COUNTLESS hobby happy Americans are onto something new. They call themselves grave rubbers because that's the name of their game. What they do is gather impressions of the carvings chiseled on old grave stones. It is an artistic pursuit, one that doesn't call for expensive equipment. The carvings are transferred onto rice paper by rubbing the paper, taped flush over the carving, with wax, crayon or graphite. It's as simple as that.

Grave rubbings not only reproduce elaborate designs but unusual inscriptions, such as this one found in the Charter Street Burying Ground, Salem, Mass. It describes what happened to Nathaniel Richardson at age 54 in 1796: "His death was instant from the pressure of a building he was assisting to remove."

Rubbers consider an inscription that's unintentionally humorous a great find, too. In this category, here's one found on a stone in Burlington, Vt.: "She lived with her husband fifty years and died in the confident hope of a better life.

According to Frank E. Foster, Executive Vice President of the American Monument Association, the best place for grave rubbers to hunt unusual stones is New England. Massachusetts has thousands that pre-date 1820. New York City's Trinity Churchyard in the heart of the financial district is, surprisingly, another good source with more than 1,000 stones, including some dating back as far as 1681.

"The best place to look," advises Mr. Foster, "is in a graveyard adjacent to an old church."

Cold air dips deep into Plains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cold air dipped deep into the central Plains today, dropping temperatures to the 50s as far south as the Oklahoma Panhandle.

Widely scattered rain or snow showers were forecast in the mountains of Montana, where temperatures fell into the 30s during the night.

Locally heavy rains plagued the rain-soaked Gulf region from southern Texas to southern Florida. Rains measured almost 4 inches along the Colorado River in southeast Texas and flash-flooding occurred north of Biloxi, Miss.

Tornadoes were sighted Thursday afternoon northwest of LaFayette, La., and near Bastrop, Tex. Some damage to mobile homes occurred at Bastrop, but no personal injuries were reported.

Widespread rain fell from the Ohio Valley to coastal areas of Virginia and the Carolinas. Both Charleston, S.C., and Charlotte, N.C., soaked up over an inch of rain overnight.

Thundershowers also broke out over Oregon and southern Idaho.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 35 at Cut Bank, Mont., to 89 at Needles, Calif.

Train kills driver

RAVENNA, Ohio (AP)—Fifty-two-year-old Lawrence Zappala of Solon was killed Thursday night in a car-train wreck at an Erie Lackawanna railroad crossing in Portage County. Zappala was in a car which was hit by a 23-car freight at a crossing just south of Ohio 82.

Income tax questions, answers

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. My state has a lottery. If I should win one of the cash prizes, do I have to pay federal income tax on it?

A. Yes, proceeds from lotteries are gambling winnings and must be included in your income. However, if you itemize your deductions, you can deduct your gambling losses, such as the cost of losing lottery tickets, from your total gambling winnings, up to the extent of your winnings.

If you have no winnings, you can't deduct your gambling losses.

If you should win a valuable prize in a lottery, it might be to your advantage to "income average." This permits an unusually large amount of income obtained in one year to be taxed in the lower brackets of your previous tax years.

More details are available in IRS Publication 506, "Computing Your Tax Under the Income Averaging Method." Write your nearest IRS office for a free copy.

Q. The local police boys club is sponsoring a benefit showing of a movie. Tickets are $10. Can I deduct the ticket price as a charitable contribution?

A. A portion of the ticket price is deducible, namely, that portion that exceeds the fair market value of the showing.

For example, if the regular price of the movie is $3, your deduction would be $7.

Q. I understand that the IRS winds up with thousands of undelivered refunds each year. How can this happen?

A. The great majority of refund checks go astray because taxpayers moved and left no forwarding address with the Postal Service. Still other taxpayers neglected to correct the label attached to their tax return.

Thic includes, for example, changing a label to show a new address or naming resulting from marriage.

Errors or omissions in tax returns have delayed refunds to some taxpayers. They should follow the instructions provided with the notification they received from the IRS to help speed their refund.

Taxpayers contacting the IRS about their refund should be able to give the name and address as it appeared on the return, the present name and address, Social Security number and the type of form filed.

Often, IRS employees can find out almost immediately what happened to a refund check through a computer system available in many IRS offices. The system indicates, for example, when the Postal Service has returned a check.

Undelivered refund checks can be mailed almost immediately to the new address. After Oct. 1, however, all undelivered refund checks are cancelled. Issuing checks in response to inquirisies received after that date take considerably more time because special processing is required.

As for refund checks lost or stolen in transit, those who have information on these checks should contact their nearest Internal Revenue Office immediately.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 15

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Stellar influences on the mild side. You are just about on your own to decide, act, work out new tactics, but don't waste time on nonessentials.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Heed the other person all the way through; do not anticipate his final sentence or "jump the gun" in answering. You could miss the point, make errors if not on guard.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

If efforts are not as productive as they might be, think things out carefullly. There may be a simple answer, only a small change needed — a "glamor touch," perhaps.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

Keep on your own course. Fend off the skeptics and the worry birds. Don't make changes just because someone suggests them. Have a logical reason. REASON.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You can take a breather now, especially if your week was briskly paced. It is wise to call a halt or set a different tempo when it won't interfere with progress.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A sense of responsibility and pluck will be needed now. Situations may not work out as expected. Don't panic; step cautiously, knowingly.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A system may have to be revised to include a seemingly odd procedure or certain new rules. Don't be dismayed. Things should all work out for the best.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Personal relationships in excellent favor. Social or business get-togethers resultful. You should have a good day.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

A good day for cementing old friendships, making new contacts, reaching understandings and planning moves for next week.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Be careful about your judgements and emotional reactions. Dubious ventures may be proposed. Control enthusiasm. Do nothing without careful thought.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Many new interests indicated. Be ready to grasp every worthwhile cue and lead. The things you do on this day will influence your tomorrows.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Watch out for intrigue, dubious involvements. Shun hassles over procedure. Observe and, when sure, act with maximal discretion.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly energetic, always optimistic, ambitious and far more self-confident than many others of your Sign. Your trustworthiness is another of your notable qualities and your guardianship of others will always be carried out to the point of perfection. In fact, in all things you are a perfectionist at heart and may drive yourself — and others — too hard at times. You are quite a philosopher and would make an excellent counselor or teacher if you can curb that trait of being too exacting with those under your supervision. Other fields in which you could excel: medicine, the law, diplomacy, statesmanship, literature or music.

Paper mill strike talks to resume

MONTREAL (AP) — Negotiators for striking paper mill workers and the Canadian International Paper Co. will resume talks in Montreal Friday in an effort to settle the strike that has closed five of the company's mills in eastern Canada for more than a month.

J. P. Gallie of the United Papermakers International Union said a Quebec government mediator initiated the resumption of the contract talks, which broke off early in August just before about 7,500 workers went on strike at five of the company's mills in eastern Canada.

Gallie said the union would insist on the same terms agreed to last week by the Abitibi Paper Co. That agreement provides for pay increases of 8.5 per cent in each year of a two-year contract.

Abitibi's 4,500 unionized workmen are voting on the new contract, and first returns indicate it will be accepted by a large margin. But workers at the company's mill in Iroquois Falls, Ont., struck Saturday because of conditions at their plant, including scheduling of personnel, timing of shifts and the number of men assigned to a work crew.

Union leaders and company officials were meeting in Iroquois Falls trying to resolve the dispute.

Abitibi's other mills were not struck.

Form college 'Common Market'

By GERRY NELSON
Associated Press Writer

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota and Wisconsin are operating a "common market" for college education.

For the price of in-state tuition, a student in either state can have his pick of public colleges and universities in the two states.

So far, about 3,000 students have taken advantage of the program, which was approved by the two states' legislatures last spring.

Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota believes the idea will spread.

"I would hope for starters we could extend it to North Dakota, South Dakota and Iowa," Anderson said in an interview.

There have been limited reciprocity plans between states but the Minnesota-Wisconsin arrangement is apparently the first nonrestricted agreement. Wisconsin had previously accepted Minnesota students only up to the number of its residents who went to Minnesota.

The new plan sets no limit on the numbers who can cross the border to go to school.

Thus far, the student movement has been mostly from Minnesota to Wisconsin. More than 1,800 Minnesota students have signed up at Wisconsin universities. More than 900 Wisconsonites have headed west to Minnesota.

The cash saving for students is significant.

A Minnesota student attending the University of Wisconsin would have paid $1,906 under the old nonresident rate. Now he gets by for $558, the same as a Wisconsin resident.

At the University of Minnesota, Wisconsin and Minnesota residents have a base tuition in liberal arts of $930 for three quarters. Others pay $1,476.

With the college boom over, both states had empty dormitory rooms. The cross-border influx won't take up all the slack but officials call the new students a welcome addition.

The arrangement called a "common market" stemmed from an agreement between Anderson and Gov. Patrick J. Lucey of Wisconsin. It was tossed into the laps of educators as an accomplished fact.

It all started last January when Anderson asked for repeal of a tax law that allowed Wisconsin residents to file tax returns only in their home state, even though they earned a taxable income in Minnesota.

Lucey wanted to keep tax reciprocity, since it helped Wisconsin tax coffers and made life easier for several thousand border residents who worked in Minnesota. Without reciprocity, they'd have had to file two tax returns, crediting one against the other in a complicated process.

Anderson says agreement came in a brief conversation with Lucey at a conference of governors. The key at the time was the availability of slots for Wisconin youth in Minnesota's school of veterinary medicine.

"I said to Pat, 'Why don't we continue reciprocity. You give us educational reciprocity and we'll each send a check to make up the difference.' He came back and said, 'Yes, that sounds fine, but you give us some assurance on veterinary medicine.'"

Out of that conversation came a two-pronged contract. One part is a tax-where-you live plan that lets border-crossing workers pay only in their home state. The other half opens up the border for college students, eliminating nonresident tuition.

Students can pick and choose among state universities, state colleges, state junior colleges and vocational-technical schools. No private schools are involved, however.

After each year of operation, the two states will strike a balance, with each state paying the other for loss of nonresident tuition and Wisconsin paying Minnesota for not taxing Wisconsin incomes earned in Minnesota.

The experiment has sparked the interest of other governors, Anderson said.

"They want to know how we brought it about; the answer is we simply didn't deal with educators," Anderson says.

He isn't antieducation but says he and other governors feel that educators sometimes move too slowly.

As for the educators, Donald Smith, senior vice president at the University of Wisconsin, sees the program spreading to the entire Midwest.

"It makes a great deal of sense for the states to cut through the jungle of tuition and establish a common market for students across state borders," he said.

Tele-care program valuable in helping elderly citizens

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Every day, three volunteers of Herrick Memorial Hospital's Tele-Care service use telephones to bring a friendly voice to unattended elderly persons in the San Francisco Bay area — and sometimes save their lives.

"We get very attached to them, although we never see them," says Tele-Care chairman Barbara Boscovich.

Each day, a different trio of callers makes the rounds among the aged, whom they call Tele-Pets, exchanging friendly banter and making sure they're all right.

"It's amazing the number of people who don't receive calls at all," she says. "Ours might be the only call they receive in a week. "The Tele-Pets build up a closeness with the lady who calls on Monday or the lady that calls on Tuesday. It forms a regular pattern in their lives."

If no one answers, an alternate — a relative, neighbor or building manager — is called and asked to check on the person.

"We have about 40 to 50 real emergencies a year — usually when someone falls," Mrs. Boscovich said.

She recalled one Tele-Pet in San Leandro who didn't answer her phone. The volunteer called the alternate, this time the police, who found the woman in a diabetic coma. She received life-saving treatment in time.

"If elderly people can't provide at least one alternate, we have to turn them away. It's the only way we have of checking on them," Mrs. Boscovich said.

The volunteers, about 30 mostly middle-aged housewives and retired women, make morning calls seven days a week. All are members of Herrick's Volunteer Guild, which started Tele-Care in 1970.

The world's most prolific writer was Frank Richard, who wrote comics. He is credited with a lifetime output of at least 72 million words.

MT game route

Fans attending the Miami Trace-Columbus Bexley football game Friday night are advised of the following route by athletic director Delmar Mowery.

Mowery said fans should follow I-71 north to Mound St. Follow Mound St. to I-70 and travel east to the Capital University exit. From the exit, travel east on Main St. to Cassingham Road. Turn left onto Cassingham Road to Bexley High School.

Miami Trace fans will be seated on the east side of the field and parking on that side of the field will be available. The Panther fans can also be admitted on the east side.

In tonight's action

Lions host Cavs; MT visits Bexley

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Sports Editor

The seven South Central Ohio League football teams will continue to prepare for the 46th championship sweepstakes tonight by playing some rugged non-league competition.

In action involving Fayette County's teams, Washington C.H. will entertain Chillicothe and Miami Trace travels to Columbus Bexley.

The SCOL teams didn't fare so well in last Friday night's season openers as they posted a mediocre 3-4 record. The league teams had a lowly 13-15-1 record against non-league teams a year ago.

QUITE ironically, three of the four teams that absorbed setbacks in last week's openers were blanked. Greenfield McClain was the only losing team that managed to dent the scoreboard.

SCOL favorite Washington C.H., Circleville and Miami Trace all emerged with victories in last week's outings.

Contrary to last week when six of the seven teams were making their season debuts before partisan audiences, four of the league members will be on the road tonight.

Washington C.H. will be looking for its second straight win when an improved Chillicothe team invades Gardner Park Stadium at 8 p.m. tonight.

Head coach Maurice Pfeifer's Blue Lions flashed a strong defense in sashaying to a lopsided 21-0 win over Columbus Bishop Ready last week, but the Washington C.H. defenders will be in for more of a stern test tonight as Chillicothe features an offensive attack geared around fleet-footed Stacy Hitchens and powerful fullback James Gause.

Although the Washington C.H.-Chillicothe game always seems to be a classic struggle, the Cavaliers have beaten the Lions only once in the past eight meetings.

Miami Trace presented new head coach Fred Zechman with a slender 14-13 win over Springfield Northeastern last Friday, but the Panthers face a rugged chore tonight when they visit always-tough Columbus Bexley.

DAN O'BRIEN, who inaugurated Miami Trace's football program as the school's first head coach 13 years ago, is Bexley's mentor and will probably have a trick or two up his sleeve when the two teams buck headgear at 8 p.m. tonight on the Lion gridiron.

Several familiar faces will be along Bexley's sideline. Besides O'Brien, Michale Jenks, a Miami Trace product, is the Bexley band director; Jim Tatman, a former Washington gridder, is on O'Brien's coaching staff, and Gene Millard, a former Washington C.H. head basketball coach, is Bexley's cage mentor.

Elsewhere in tonight's action, Circleville will be traveling to Teays Valley for the renewal of the annual Pickaway County rivalry, Wilmington visits Clinton Massie for another intra-county struggle, Greenfield pays a visit to Springfield Shawnee, Hillsboro entertains Unioto and Madison Plains hosts Westfall.

Pittsburgh, Oakland to challenge Miami

NEW YORK (AP) — What will the Miami Dolphins do for an encore?

Or does their preseason performance presage disaster?

The answer to the first question is: The Dolphins should represent the American Conference in the the National Football League's Super Bowl next January.

With that answer, it's not even necessary to consider question No. 2.

The only teams on the horizon that should challenge the Dolphins are the Pittsburgh Steelers and Oakland Raiders— but the Dolphins don't have to worry too much about them until the playoffs.

Coach Don Shula's Dolphins will feature some Griese kid stuff that will make opposing defenses hair stand on end. The Dolphins' Mercury will rise and if that isn't enough, the offense will also have its Kiicks.

Which is only to say that quarterback Bob Griese, plus a running tandem featuring Jim Kiick and Mercury Morris, as well as Larry Csonka, should propel the Dolphins right back into the Super Bowl.

Will they become the first team since the Green Bay Packers to win successive Super Bowls?

Let's get the season over first and then worry about that.

Here's the way this peerless pigskin prognosticator sees the outcome of the races in the AFC this fall, by division:

EAST
Miami Dolphins
New York Jets
Buffalo Bills
Baltimore Colts
New England Patriots

Not only do the Dolphins have Griese, Kiick, Morris and Csonka, they also have a top defensive unit which includes Jake Scott and Nick Buonoconti. 'Nuff said.

The New York Jets will give Weeb Ewbank a winning season for his last year as a coach, perhaps good enough for a wild-card spot in the playoffs. A healthy Joe Namath is always dangerous. But the Jets don't appear to have bolstered their pass defense enough to keep their opponents from scoring too many points.

CENTRAL
Pittsburgh Steelers
Cleveland Browns
Cincinnati Bengals
Houston Oilers

The Pittsburgh Steelers won their first title in NFL history a year ago. It took nearly four decades.

Quarterback Terry Bradshaw has another year of seasoning under his belt for the 1973 campaign and it won't take another 40 years for the Steelers to win a second championship.

The knee injury suffered by running back Franco Harris in the exhibition season doesn't dim the Pittsburgh prospects any. Harris should be at full speed before long. Until then the Steelers can count on fine running from John (Frenchy) Fuqua and Preston Pearson.

Mean Joe Greene leads a Pittsburgh defense that likes to rap the defense. And the Steeler defense uses the old-fashioned meaning of the word—that is, to hit, hit, hit. They might rap with the opponents after the game is over.

Coach Nick Skorich should have no problem prodding the Cleveland Browns into the runnerup role in the AFC Central. The Browns, as always, have a fine running attack with Leroy Kelly figuring to gain much of the yardage. The defense is adequate.

WEST
Oakland Raiders
Denver Broncos
Kansas City Chiefs
San Diego Chargers

If the Oakland Raiders can't put it altogether with Daryle Lamonica and Ken Stabler alternating at quarterback and Fred Biletnikoff and Cliff Branch catching the ball, plus Bubba Smith and company on defense, they can always call on George Blanda, who will be 46 next Monday, to kick the winning field goal in the waning seconds.

The Raiders are a solid and sound football team.

Coach John Ralston's second year at Denver should produce the first over .500 season in the Broncos' history. Floyd Little appears to have recovered from his 1972 injuries and Charley Johnson has matured as a quarterback.

'Jelled' Bucs jam East pennant chase

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Now, about that National League East championship race. Well, you just knew that sooner or later, somebody would start winning and now that they're breathing the rarified air one full game over .500, the Pittsburgh Pirates are talking like winners.

"We're jelling at last," said slugger Willie Stargell, who doubled home two runs and scored another in the first inning Thursday, helping the Pirates to a 6-1 decision over Chicago. "We're making the big plays and getting the big hits. I think we're as prepared as ever to go down the stretch."

Pittsburgh's victory gave thr Pirates a one-game edge over idle St. Louis and 1½ games over Montreal, which also had the night off. The fourth place New York Mets remained 2½ games behind, beating Philadelphia 4-2 in 12 innings.

Elsewhere in the NL Thursday night, Los Angeles downed Houston 8-6 and San Francisco defeated San Diego 8-6. The other teams had the night off.

The Cubs, who dropped four games off Pittsburgh's pace, contributed three errors to the Pirate cause, the first one by Don Kessinger setting the stage for Stargell's two-run double in the first inning. Those three quick runs were plenty for Bob Moose, who got late relief help from Ramon Hernandez.

Mets 4, Phillies 2

Wayne Garrett, batting for winning pitcher Tom Seaver, looped the tie-breaking single in the 12th as New York again found runs tough to come by for Seaver, 17-9. He has lost three 1-0 games and had just one run to work with in three of his last four starts before Thursday.

Does the lack of an offense bug him ? Not Tom Seaver.

"I've been with the Mets seven years and I still appear pretty sane," he said. "I seem to have no mental problems. I never beat my wife. My roommate still likes me."

Dodgers 8, Astros 6

Ron Cey ripped a two-run homer and Dave Lopes added a two-run double, leading Los Angeles to an 8-6 victory over Houston,

The Astros were leading 3-2 in the fourth when Dodger starter Tommy John drew a bases-loaded walk from Dave Roberts, forcing home the tying run. Lopes then followed with his double. Cey tagged his homer an inning later.

Giants 8, Padres 6

Chris Speier's ninth inning home run tied the score and then rookie Steve Ontiveros delivered a two-run pinch homer, lifting San Francisco to an 8-6 victory over San Diego.

Gene Locklear's pinch single had driven in two Padre runs for a 6-5 lead in the bottom of the eighth.

Cincy, Xavier renew rivalry on gridiron

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Another chapter in the coach vs. pupil stories unfolds Saturday when Cincinnati and Xavier renew their crosstown college football rivalry.

Tony Mason, Cincinnati's new coach, tutored Tom Cecchini when the rookie Xavier mentor was a Michigan performer in the mid-1960s.

Mason said he only coached Cecchini and the offensive line one year but recalled, "Tom still came to me for advice after I switched to the defense. He was a good one."

It's the opener for the Bearcats while Xavier, a 19-7 upset winner over Cincinnati last year, started with a 49-7 drubbing from Temple last week.

The contest is one of 23 on the Ohio college schedule Saturday, including third-ranked Ohio State's debut at home against Minnesota.

Mid-American and Ohio Conference members are busy with non-league tuneups while there are a pair of conference tests each in the Hoosier-Buckeye and Presidents Conference.

In the Hoosier-Buckeye, Findlay travels to Earlham and Bluffton entertains Taylor in a night game. Bethany is at Case Western Reserve and John Carroll at Washington and Jefferson in the Presidents race.

Among Ohio's major schools, Bowling Green is at Syracuse, Louisville at 1972 Mid-American champion Kent State, Dayton at Miami and Toledo at Tampa, a night game. Ohio University launches its season next week.

Heidelberg and Ashland, the only unbeaten and united Ohio schools in 1972, try to prolong winning streaks.

Blancas 1st in Heritage golf round

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — The touring pros say you have to hit it straight and sweet and pure on the Harbour Town Golf Links. Get it a little off line, they say, and you're dead.

"It's the greatest course—for a professional—I've ever seen anywhere as long as I've been playing golf," said globe-trotting little Gary Player of South Africa.

But Homero Blancas conquered it with a 66, five under par, for the first-round lead Thursday in the rain-plagued and darkness-halted $150,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

And the happy hombre from Houston did it in a fashion no one through possible.

He bounced it off the trunks of moss-hung old cypress trees. He put it in traps. He wandered through the alligator-infested swamps and sloughs. He rattled it around in the branches of giant oaks and pines. He got lucky bounces off pine cones.

And he needed only 23 putts in the wet and soggy adventure that left him with a one-stroke lead over John Mahaffey and big Jimmy Wiechers, tied at 67. For Wiechers, who has threatened consistently in recent weeks, it was his fourth consecutive round without a bogey.

Pony preview set Saturday

Nearly three weeks of pre-season practice will end for the five teams in the Washington C.H. Pony Football League Saturday night.

The Pony Football League's annual preview games will be held starting at 6 p.m. Saturday at Gardner Park Stadium.

The league's regular season schedule will be launched Saturday, Sept. 22 with two games, the first beginning at 6 p.m. to be followed by a 7:30 p.m. nightcap.

The Interns, coached by Dwight Brown, are the defending champions. Other teams and their coaches are Jaycees, Wes Wilson; Dividends, Fred Domenico; Frisch's Big Boys, Jim Eddlemon, and Marksmen, Jim Runnels.

Souvenir seekers in Reds outfield seats

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Souvenir seekers, in hopes of catching Henry Aaron home run balls, have been besieging the Cincinnati Reds for outfield seats for a month.

Aaron, with 710 home runs, four less than the career total of Babe Ruth, and the Atlanta Braves, open a three-game series here tonight.

Aaron has collected 95 of his four-baggers off Cincinnati and seven off Don Gullett, 17-8 who sets his eight-straight victory record on the line tonight.

Bengals to handle time differences

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Coach Paul Brown said he can handle the problems of time difference and elevation when his Cincinnati Bengals meet the Broncos at Denver Sunday in a National Football League game.

Brown said he keeps the players on Eastern Standard Time "when we go west. That keeps us okay. It's been successful in the past. And the players get an extra two hours sleep."

Tom Weiskopf joins Kings Island Open

KINGS MILLS, Ohio (AP) — Add Tom Weiskopf to the field of 144 players who will compete in the $125,000 Ohio Kings Island Open, a new Professional Golfers Association tour stop this year.

Unheraled Stanford to meet Penn State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There'll be a couple of unknowns, like the Stanford team and Penn State's defense, when the Nittany Lions travel west to meet the Cardinals. But since the game is Saturday's nationally televised college football contest, those factors won't be unknown for long.

The clash, pitting the Nittany Lions, ranked seventh in The Associated Press poll, against an unheralded but potentially dangerous Stanford squad, is one of the headline games in the first full week of college football activity.

A Stanford Stadium crowd of 50,000 is expected for the 3:50 p.m., EDT, contest, the firstever meeting between the two schools. The game wil be seen on the American Broadcasting Co. network.

Other games involving Top Ten teams find No. 1 Southern Cal hosting Arkansas, thirdranked Ohio State entertaining Minnesota, No. 5 Michigan at Iowa, California at No. 6 Alabama, No. 9 Tennessee awaiting Duke and No. 10 Colorado playing at 16th-ranked LSU.

In the Second Ten, No. 11 Oklahoma is at Baylor, Oregon State visits 12th-ranked Auburn, No. 13 Arizona State at Oregon, Kansas State at No. 14 Florida, Virginia at 17th-ranked North Carolina State, Rice at No. 18 Houston, William & Mary traveling to No. 19 North Carolina and No. 20 Texas Tech playing host to Utah.

Idle this week are No. 2 Nebraska, No. 4 Texas, eight ranked Notre Dame and No. 16 UCLA.

Stanford, led by quarterback Mike Boryla, employs multiple offensive sets run from both the I and T formations. Boryla, a senior, is expected to come out throwing against Penn State and throwing long, since last year he totaled 2,284 yards— fourth in the nation—through the air lanes.

The Lions offense features five returning starters in an offensive line that opened enough holes last year for John Capalletti to rush for 1,117 yards as a junior. However, Joe Paterno has only four starters back on defense.

Dale joins Vikings for pro grid season

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When you're a veteran wide receiver in the National Football League, it's hard to abandon the excitement of gridiron combat.

That's why Carroll Dale is happy.

The Minnesota Vikings claimed Dale Thursday, the day after he was placed on waivers by the Green Bay Packers and the 35-year-old player will be in uniform against Oakland when the regular season begins Sunday.

"I hate to leave Green Bay and the Green Bay fans," Dale said. "But in the game of football this is the way things happen sometimes. I'm looking foward to the new challenge and the opportunity to contribute to the team."

Packer Coach Dan Devine had offered Dale a post as a special assistant involving both coaching and scouting as well as administrative work. Dale said if he hadn't been picked up by another team he probably would have accepted the special assistant job.

Dale, one of the few remaining members of the Vince Lombardi-coached Packer dynasty, caught three passes for 25 yards and one touchdown in six preseason games. The 6-foot-3, 200-pounder has caught 415 passes for 8,079 yards and 52 touchdowns in his 14-year professional career.

Running back John Riggins ended his lengthy holdout with the New York Jets and is expected to play in Monday night's game against Green Bay after signing a new contract.

Exact details were not revealed but it was believed Riggins agreed to a two-year pact worth $50,000 a year. He had been seeking $125,000 a year.

Coach Chuck Fairbanks, implementing every strategy possible to strengthen the New England Patriots in his first year as coach, made several roster moves in secret in preparation for Sunday's contest with Buffalo. Fairbanks announced a 40-man roster, but refused to list those cut or placed on waivers.

Female team joins men's league

Women's lib hits bowlers

It appears that the women's liberation movement has suddenly hit Washington C.H.

For the first time in Washington C.H. bowling history, a women's team has entered a men's bowling league at Bowland Lanes.

To say the least, there were some mixed emotions about the gals entering the men's circuit, but it appears that the five females will be able to compete with their male counterparts.

It all started when the Eightette League, which bowls on Tuesday nights, was organizing for the fall season last week and discovered there were only seven teams registered instead of the eight required.

THE TEAM of Debbie Smallwood, Sandy Merritt, Patty Bowles, Judy Wharton and Bev Martin just happened to be around during the league's organizational meeting and when it was evident the league was short one team they requested membership since all of the women's leagues had already been filled.

Following the request, league officials gathered for a confab to consider the unusual demand. The issue received a favorable vote and the girls were admitted to the league.

After admitting the new team, some league rules were changed and it was made clear that the ladies bowl under the same handicap regulations as the men.

The female bowlers, who have not obtained a sponsor as yet, won two games in a three-game series in last Tuesday's action.

C. of C. Ambassadors plan events

Four events have been planned for the Washington C.H. Area Chamber of Commerce Ambassadors.

The Ambassadors will be attending the opening of the Robinson Road bridge at 4:15 p.m. Monday. Common Pleas Judge Evelyn W. Coffman will preside at the ceremony, arranged by Fayette County Engineer Charles P. Wagner. Traffic will be opened over the Robinson Road bridge Monday.

Delbert E. Marstiller, chairman of the Ambassadors, said the group will be attending the opening ceremonies at the new Bureau of Employment Services office, located in the Fayette Center.

Several state officials are scheduled to the ceremony, scheduled for 10 a.m. Tuesday.

The group also will attend the opening of the new Fayette Supply Co., 301 W. Oak St., at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. Hugh (Bud) Patton and Robert Lee are the proprietors of the Fayette Supply Co.

On Wednesday, the Ambassadors will tour The Record-Herald building, viewing the new equipment and completely redecorated facilities.

Presbyterians make plans for special events

Several events have been planned for the First Presbyterian Church congregation during the next few weeks.

The young people, under the direction of the youth coordinator, Victor Pontius, and the pastor, the Rev. Gerald Wheat, have been especially active. At their monthly meeting, they made plans for a vesper service on Sunday evening, Oct. 7, at the church farm for the entire congregation; a leadership service Nov. 25; sale of place mats and Christmas cards to raise money for the annual church family trip, probably to Williamsburg, Va., next June; participation in planning the church directory, which will have several pages for items concerning the youth activities; and the appointment of members of the Youth Council to the church nominating and budget committees.

Still in the planning stage for the church are a pictorial directory for which pictures of church families will be taken in October; the five-week Fall Bible Study program of the Book of James starting Oct. 10; observance of World Wide Communion at the morning worship service Oct. 7 and a bonfire and vesper service at 8 p.m. at the church farm; installation of new carpeting and pews in the sanctuary early in November; a congregational meeting Nov. 4 to elect officers and adopt a budget; the annual banquet for officers of the Presbyterian Churches in Fayette County Nov. 13 in Persinger Hall.

OCTOBER has been designated as revival month, with families of the church giving it special emphasis in their own churches and at the Graham Crusade to be held at Wilmington. During the Revival Month of October, the evangelism and Christian education committees will promote attendance and participation by families of the church in all of its activities.

Oct. 28 has been designated as Reformation Sunday, when interest will be focused on the creeds and history of the church. Banners, which will have been made by several church groups, will be presented at the Reformation Sunday service with explanations of the creeds and symbols of the banners.

A church family night also is being planned for early November to give recognition to members of the softball team and their families.

U.S. rejects opium deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has rejected an alleged offer by Burmese guerrilla leaders of 400 tons of opium in exchange for $13 million and U.S. support in obtaining some independence for the remote Shan States from the rest of the Union of Burma.

The offer allegedly was made by an emissary of the guerrillas to Rep. Lester Wolff, DN.Y., chairman of a House narcotics subcommittee, in Bangkok last month. Wolff said he relayed it to U.S. Embassy, CIA and U.S. narcotics agents with the suggestion that they study it.

State Department officials commented that it would be nice to think that there is a magic $13 million solution to the opium smuggling problem.

They said that acceptance of the offer would do far more harm than good and would poison U.S. relations with Burma and neighboring Thailand.

Wolff said the proposal came from Gen. Lo Hsing Hang, leader of the local defense forces and the self-styled president of the Shan States Unity Action Committee and Shan States Progress Party.

Since allegedly making it, Lo has been arrested by the Burmese government and is being held for a variety of charges including treason, and murder.

U.S. officials here said that dealing with Lo would be the same as dealing with a Mafia chieftain, and they wanted no part of it.

Vassar College nets $2,148,160 on stamp sales

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Vassar College has netted $2,148,160 from the sale at a series of eight auctions in New York of the rare postage stamp collection bequeathed the school by Mrs. Louise Boyd Dale, a 1936 graduate.

Mrs. Dale, who died in 1967, left to Vassar "the net proceeds of the sale of any of my collection of stamps of Mauritius, the Cominion of Canada, and the Provinces of Canada, New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Islands."

An envelope bearing two early stamps of the former British colony of Mauritius brought $380,000, thought to be the highest price ever paid for a single philatelic item at an auction.

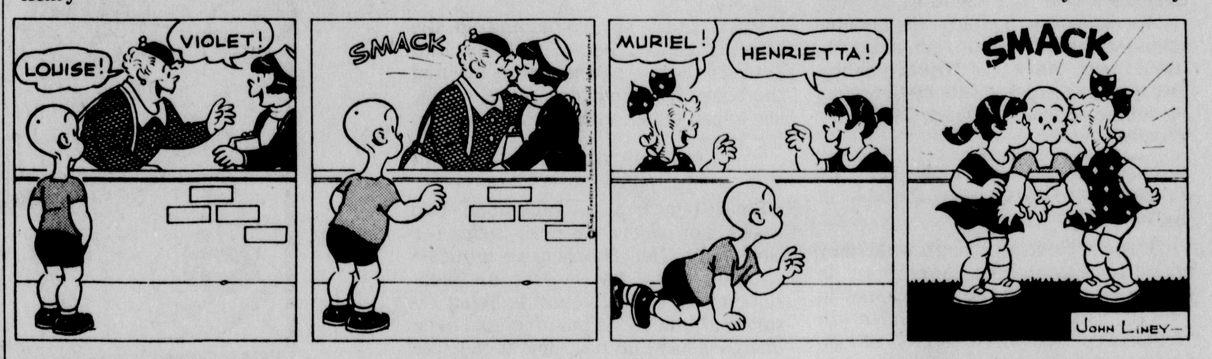

Mrs. Dale, who is remembered at Vassar as "a warm and gracious woman, given to anonymous philanthropy," inherited part of the collection from her fater, the late Alfred F. Lichtenstein, and added to it herself. Her father, who died in 1947, was president and treasurer of Ciba, Inc., American subsidiary of the Swiss chemical company.

Tiger's out of tank and raiding villages

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Tigers have been leaving their jungle homes to attack domestic animals in nearby villages because of a jungle food shortage, a symposium newspaper reports.

The paper maintains that indiscriminate hunting by humans has reduced the number of antelopes and other animals that tigers usually prey upon.

Government controls hit Korean churches

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Shades of government control are reported falling on the robust church life of Korea, including current charges of subversive activities against three Presbyterian leaders.

"Religious liberties are being restricted," says the Rev. Kim Kwan Suk, general secretary of the National Council of Churches of Korea, who was here to confer with U.S. officials and churchmen about the problem.

"Apparently we're going to have to face a real encounter between the church and government," he added in an interview.

Ostensibly, Christianity has been thriving in Korea, its growth there in contrast to the statistical downturns in most Western countries, but the Rev. Mr. Kim said recent government policies threaten its continued work.

"Plainclothes detectives now are sent each Sunday to monitor sermons," he said. "The government also has started keeping surveillance on all church activities. It's a sort of growing intimidation."

The issue was pointed up this past summer by a succession of arrests of church workers in various situations, 15 of them altogether, most of them since released, but two clergymen and a lay evangelist still facing trial.

Two of them, the Rev. Park Hyung Kyu, pastor of a Seoul church, and Kwon Ho Kyung, a lay evangelist, are said to be specifically accused of circulating subversive handbills, saying:

"We have been holding our country to a spirit of anticommunism and now, alas, we have a dictatorship. Democracy weeps! ... The resurrection of democracy is the liberation of the people."

Reacting to the charges, the Presbyterian Church in the Republic of Korea says:

"It looks to us as though what they intended was nothing more than an indirect appeal to the authorities in power based on their faith in democracy and in a spirit of anticommunism ... led by their Christian consciences."

The Rev. Mr. Kim, 52, a quiet-spoken man who for five years has presided over Korea's interdenominational cooperative organization including Presbyterians, Methodists, Anglicans and Evangelicals, said it was "very risky" for him to criticize the Korean government's actions.

"But Christians have to take risks," he added.

He said pressure on the churches started last Oct. 17 when Presidet Chung Hee Park declared martial law and subsequent constitutional revisions that modify the legislative assembly and allow him to stay in office.

In the recent arrests, the Rev. Mr. Kim said the government apparently was trying to "capitalize on the case and show a strong hand of control over the churches," but that the churches have reacted strongly against it.

"I think the government now realizes it made a mistake," he said, adding that he was optimisitic that the jailed ministers would be let off.

Of Korea's 32 million population, about 3.6 million are church members, about 3 million Protestsnts and 600,000 Roman Catholics with the churches growing vigorously in recent years.

Gas prices protested

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The Greater Cincinnati Gasoline Dealers, with their wives and employes, conducted a demonstration against Phase 4 Tuesday at the Cincinnati Federal Building.

Protestors, numbering about 175, picketed the building while others drove wreckers around the block.

A delegation of wives met with officers of the Internal Revenue Service. The IRS is charged with enforcing federal economic regulations.

"We can't make it on a seven cents a gallon profit," said Mike Kunnen, dealers president. "We need the nine cents."

The guidelines roll prices back to January levels, he said. He complained that the regulations do not stop oil companies from raising prices to retailers.

Girl conquers calcium disorder

ROCKAWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Jan Ann Westerink, a spunky sixth-grader, is back at school this month — and is an inch taller than she was a few months ago. Big deal!

This might not sound like a "big deal" for a normal child, but Jan Ann, whose parents call her "Jennie," is not a normal child.

Most of her intestines have been removed and replaced with a plastic substitute, and for the past several months she was afflicted with a calcium disorder that caused her to actually shrink two inches.

But now doctors say she appears to be winning her battle against the calcium problem, thanks to treatment she received last month in Richmond, Va.

Most of Jennie's intestines were removed a year ago after a bout with gangrene, and after that she was placed on a special formula to fight the affliction.

But doctors say something in the formula caused her to lose calcium between the bones of her spine, keeping the bones from touching. As a result, she began experiencing severe pain in her back.

Examination revealed she had shrunk two inches.

Since her trip to Richmond two weeks ago, where she was under the care of Dr. Neil Hutcher, an intestine specialist, she has grown an inch. Hutcher says the calcium is being restored as quickly as possible, and even though X-rays do not show it yet, the doctors are confident of her recovery from the calcium disorder.

For Jennie, her victory over the calcium ailment came the hard way. She remains in a body brace that circles her waist and runs to her armpits. The brace holds her spine up so that the calcium will have a chance to grow back properly, doctors say.

"It's really funny to look back on these ANCIENT fashions!"

Mechanic makes calls via copter

VISALIA, Calif. (AP) — When garage owner Cesare Bianchi pulls up to help a truck driver in distress, the trucker certainly can't expect a push. Bianchi arrives by helicopter.

"A trucking firm can lose as much as $6,000 in wages and costs if trucks loaded with important goods fail to make the proper connections," he says.

"I can get two men and tools out to a truck in less than an hour, when it would take other garages longer than that to get a crew moving," said Bianchi, who charges $75 an hour for air time.

Bianchi's service is most often needed on Interstate 5, a newly opened superhighway that makes an almost straight run from San Francisco to Los Angeles.

On a 200-mile stretch through the San Joaquin Valley, a trucker never gets closer than 20 miles to a town, Bianchi said. If a truck breaks down, it often requires a major trip just to get parts needed to put the truck back in operation.

Bianchi said, "There is a big demand for speed in getting those trucks rolling again, and with the helicopter, we can offer speed."

"My biggest problem is the dust," Bianchi said. "Landing and taking off can raise a cloud 100 feet wide that could cause a terrific accident if it drifts the wrong way. I always try to find a grassy area to land."

Bianchi has had a pilot's license since 1946. His three-passenger craft, with a payload capacity of 750 pounds, can carry spare tires, 55-gallon drums of fuel, or just a one-pound fuel pump or a piece of radiator hose.

"If the job is going to take a long time to do, it isn't worth taking the chopper," he said. "But for a job that would last an hour or so, it's perfect."

February is the last month that dormant sprays of liquid lime sulfur can be used on apple trees, peach trees, grapes and roses to eliminate overwintering disease spores.

Emperor's plane OK

COLOGNE, West Germany (AP) — The pilot of an Ethiopian airliner flying Emperor Haile Selassie home from West Germany set off a hijacking alarm by error today while flying over Italy but then quickly reported all was normal aboard, West German air safety officials said.

The royal plane, a Boeing 720, left Cologne airport at 6:34 a.m. for a direct flight to Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital. While flying over Milan, the officials said, the pilot pushed the wrong button and set off the hijacking scare.

The Italian air force sent up two fighter jets, and they escorted the airliner out of Italian air space. Meanwhile the pilot had reported all was normal and headed across the Mediterranean for the Egyptian coast.

The emperor had just concluded a three-day unofficial visit to West Germany, where he met with President Gustav Heinemann and Chancellor Willy Brandt. A source at the Cologne airport said about 30 persons were aboard the plane, including the emperor's oldest daughter, Princess Tenagne; members of the royal entourage, security guards and the crew of the plane.

"Last Tango in Paris is a genuine masterpiece of staggering proportions." —Edward Behr, Newsweek

"Last Tango in Paris is not a 'dirty' movie. The film is stark, sensitive and completely shattering in its intensity. Yes, by all means, see 'Last Tango'." —Aaron Schindler, Family Circle

"Last Tango in Paris is not about sex and it is not about inhumanity. It is about the things that a man lives by. There's just nothing to compare with it in recent experience. It is very much worth seeing." —Judith Crist, 'Today' Show

"Last Tango in Paris is not prurient. Rather, it uses sex to study human pain, failure, loneliness, despair and at moments even love." —Ethel Whitehorn, PTA Magazine
